VATICAN ASKS GERMANY TO QUIT SUBMARINE WARFARE

ROME TAKES QUESTION UP

Makes Representations to Berlin to Abandon Use of the U-Boats.

AUSTRIANS HIT ITALIANS HARD
Rival Claims in Fighting at Verdun Still Vary Widely.

Today's War News Given in Summary

The Austrian offensive on the Italian front is being pushed vigorously, according to current reports and the Italians admitted they have fallen in back in the southern Tyrol before the Austrian onslaught.

In the fighting about Verdun the French who have been retreating under German occupation of parts of the dominating heights, known as hill 304, northwest of the fortress, have now succeeded in partly ousting the Teutons. Paris today reports the capture of a German fortified position on the northeast slope of the hill. On the German side an attempt was made by means of several attacks to capture a redoubt at Avocourt, on the French left flank, but the assaults are declared to have been repulsed with heavy losses to the Germans.

In contrast with the Paris report announcing a French success at hill 304, on the Verdun front, Berlin today declares that three attacks by the French on the German positions on that height were repulsed.

Successful air raids by Austrian planes have been made on Venice, Udine and other places in northern Italy, according to Vienna.

The British foreign office has received information through its minister at the Vatican that representations have been made by the Vatican to Germany with a view to inducing her to abandon submarine warfare.

London, May 18.—Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary, announced in the house of commons today that the government had been informed by Sir Henry Howard, British minister at the Vatican, that representations have been made to Germany by the Vatican with a view of inducing Germany to abandon submarine warfare.

Lloyds announces that the French steamer Mira has been sunk. The announcement gives no details as to her sinking.

The steamer Mira was a vessel of 3,050 tons gross, built at South Shields in 1895 and owned in Marseilles. She was last reported as having arrived at Penarth, Wales, on April 21, from Algiers.

AUSTRIANS ARE ACTIVE.

Hammer Hard at Italians All Along the War Front.

Berlin, May 18.—Artillery engagements are in progress all along the Austro-Italian front on which the Austrians began an offensive movement yesterday.

BERLIN ADMONISHES GERMAN SUBJECTS IN U. S. TO OBSERVE LAWS CAREFULLY

Washington, May 18.—Germany, through Count von Bernstorff, has instructed all German consuls in the United States to admonish German citizens in their districts to scrupulously observe American laws. This was done in an effort to end various alleged violations of American neutrality. The ambassador acted on instructions from the Berlin foreign office. The action was announced today in this official statement from the German embassy:

"In consequence of cases which have occurred, the German ambassador has sent instructions to all German consuls in the United States to strongly impress upon German citizens living in their districts that it is their duty scrupulously to obey the laws of the state in which they reside."

SIXTH BALLOT FOR BISHOPS IS FUTILE

But Voting of Methodists is Bringing Changes in Standing in Race.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., May 18.—The third day of voting for seven new bishops or general superintendents of the Methodist Episcopal church opened today with the announcement that no election had resulted from the ballot which was cast late last night and before proceeding with its executive business the sixth ballot was taken. The fifth ballot showed many changes. President Herbert Welch, of Ohio Wesleyan university, was the leader with 444 votes.

Following in order came Thomas Nicholson, secretary of the board of education, 439; A. W. Leonard, Seattle, Wash., 428; Secretary W. F. Oldham, of the foreign missionary board, 424; Matt S. Hughes, Pasadena, Cal., 419; Chancellor Franklin Hamilton, Washington, D. C., 396; C. B. Mitchell, 387; President E. S. Tipple, of Drew Theological seminary, 365; E. G. Richardson, Brooklyn, N. Y., 298; C. E. Locke, Los Angeles, 288.

A brisk debate preceded the adoption by the conference of an amendment to the discipline plan, providing that ministers should serve a three year term on probation and be admitted on trial for two years before they can be eligible to full membership in any conference. None of the candidates for bishop received a two-thirds vote on the sixth ballot.

The conference adopted the report of the temperance committee, which denounced the liquor traffic and the licensing system, declared for prohibition and urged congressional action to forbid interstate shipments of intoxicants; to bar liquor advertisements from the mails and to enact statutory prohibition in all districts and territories under federal control.

FORT WAYNE BOY ON THREATENED BOAT

John E. Benz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Benz, 1216 Barthold street, is an electrician on the mine-laying ship San Francisco, which was stranded for several hours Wednesday on one of the Nantuxet shoals, but finally succeeded in freeing itself without assistance. The ship is now at anchor in deep water, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Boston, waiting for the fog to lift before proceeding. Eight members of the crew, officers of the San Francisco for a time feared, had been lost. The men who left the stranded cruiser in a whaleboat to place a kedge anchor, were blown off by the gale and lost their bearings in the heavy fog. After rowing about for several hours they sighted Great Round shoals lightship and were taken aboard.

BOOSTERS MEET AT COLUMBIA CITY

H. O. Cooley, one of the head officials in the Yellowstone Trail association, which proposes to extend the Yellowstone trail eastward to the Plymouth Rock, arrived in Fort Wayne at 1:55 o'clock Thursday afternoon and was immediately taken to Columbia City in an automobile to attend a state meeting of boosters for the highway. Mr. Cooley was met at the station by Charles L. Biedersdorf, secretary of the Fort Wayne Commercial club. Mr. Biedersdorf is one of the principal speakers. He will talk on "Organization." Mr. Cooley came all the way from South Dakota in order to be in attendance at the Columbia City meeting.

One of the principal matters to be discussed will be the route the proposed highway is to take through Indiana. The route of the highway in Allen county will probably be over the Yellow River road.

142 IN FIRST SCENE ALONE

Cast of Characters for the Opening of Pageant Spectacle.

Fact Gives Some Inkling of the Bigness of the Production.

Today is given out for publication the names of the persons who will assume characters in the first scene of the great Fort Wayne pageant. One hundred and forty-two Fort Wayne men, women and children will appear in this opening act. This cast suggests the bigness of the production and the broadness of the effort to select the participants from every branch of Fort Wayne society.

In reading the names of those mentioned in this Scene I it should be borne in mind that this is only one scene out of the entire six which are required to tell the story of Fort Wayne.

The scene itself is one of the most picturesque imaginable. In the virgin forest, beside the St. Mary's river, where the Indians have chosen to locate their village and where their groups of teepees form a large section of the stage picture, are gathered the tribes living in their primitive state, while at the other side of the picture are two log huts of the French traders, illustrating the coming of the first whites. The story of the first scene is that of the coming of the first of the Jesuit priests to the wilderness, their great object being to make of the undomesticated savages into a great Christian race.

Following are the characters of Scene 1:
Thunderhead, a prophet of the Miami; Donald Robertson, Mr. Robertson, manager of the pageant, assumes the character of Thunderhead, the prophet, an heroic figure who does not enter into the play, but who, as the spirit of the tribes of Red men, speaks to the audience the lines which introduce the story and which provide the connection between the succeeding scenes.

ADRIATIC COAST IS SHAKEN BY 'QUAKE

Rome, May 17.—Via Paris, May 18.—An earthquake of particular violence has occurred along the Adriatic coast between Rimini and Cesena. At the latter town a dozen people were injured by the fall of cornices.

Father Alfani, director of the observatory at Florence, predicts a repetition of the earthquake, which extended to the Venetian provinces.

The entire central section of Italy was shaken by repeated earthquakes, which lasted through Tuesday and Wednesday. Only the most meagre details have as yet been received in this country and it is not known what loss of life occurred, if any.

ASSERT THAT PEACE MUST REST ON FORCE

Radical Feature of Peace League Plan Debated at Lake Mohonk.

Mohonk Lake, N. Y., May 18.—The use of military compulsion by a group of nations to prevent war, which is the most radical feature of the plan advocated by the league to enforce peace, was debated today before the Lake Mohonk conference on international arbitration. The proposition was favored by Herbert S. Houston and Dr. George Haven Putnam, New York publishers, and opposed by Dr. James L. Tryon, of Boston, director of the New England department of the American Peace society, and Alpheus Snow, of Washington, D. C., lawyer.

"Peace between nations," said Mr. Houston, "just as does peace within nations, must rest on force. Peace must be put on a war footing and its advocates must quit the forum for the field, if need be, to fight, not to urge war, but to establish peace."

Mr. Snow's conclusion was that the plan of the league to enforce peace was impracticable and dangerous for many reasons, chiefly because it proposes to use joint instead of united force and provides no executive to determine and direct the force.

Blind Physician Who Died Very Suddenly

DR. JOSEPH H. JONES.
Dr. Jones, long-time resident of Fort Wayne and blind for fifty years, died very suddenly from heart disease at his home on West Jefferson street Wednesday night.

COUPLE HELD AS FIREBUGS

John Bowen and His Wife Put Under Arrest at Logansport.

ATTEMPT TO BURN HOME IS CHARGED
One Large Grave at Macy for Four Victims of Dollar Tragedy.

Indianapolis, May 18.—Garrett Fox and F. E. Emerson, deputies in the office of the state fire marshal, returned to Indianapolis today from Logansport, where they arrested John Bowen and his wife on the charge of setting fire to their home in an attempt to defraud an insurance company. The case involves scientific questions in regard to the combustibility of gasoline. The damage to the house was slight.

BOWEN PLEADS GUILTY.
Wife is Held Guiltless and is Given Her Release.

Logansport, Ind., May 18.—John C. Bowen, 43, was arraigned in the circuit court today and entered a plea of guilty to a charge of arson, based on an attempt to burn his house. His wife, who was arrested on a similar charge was released as it was found she had nothing to do with starting the fire. Bowen was fined $40, disfranchised for three years and sentenced to state prison for two to twenty-one years.

ONE GRAVE FOR FOUR.
Victims of Dollar Tragedy Are Entombed at Macy.

Peru, Ind., May 18.—One large grave in the cemetery at Macy received today the bodies of the four victims of the Dollar tragedy, which occurred Tuesday. The request of the murderer and suicide, William Dollar, that his body be

BAPTISTS SEEKING MORE EFFICIENCY

Minneapolis, Minn., May 18.—Consideration of the report of the efficiency committee of the proposal to merge the missionary work of the American Baptist Publication society and the American Baptist Home Mission society is the principal business before the Northern Baptist convention today. The committee report recommended that inasmuch as a large sum of money is needlessly expended each year by the two divisions of the church covering the same ground all missionary work should be directed by a single body.

Despite the threats of opponents of the proposal that the publication society will secede if the amalgamation is voted the convention is expected to push the issue to a final test.

DIES IN CARRIAGE DRIVING ON STREET

C. N. Durley, Pinceton, Ill., Salesman is Suddenly Stricken.

C. N. Durley, aged about 55, a nursery salesman for Arthur Bryant & Son, Pinceton, Ill., was suddenly stricken with heart disease while driving in a carriage on West Main street, near the Lake Erie and Western railway crossing, at 9:30 Thursday morning, and died before he could be lifted from the vehicle.

Dr. W. O. Gross, 415 East Washington street, was notified and after viewing the remains turned them over to Kleck & Melching, undertakers. Both Coroner McArdle and Dr. Gross gave the opinion that Durley had been stricken by heart disease. He was a heavy man, and doubtless suffered from fatty degeneration of the heart. Durley was well dressed throughout and in his pockets was found the sum of $14.36 cash.

Durley evidently had started to drive into the country to take orders for nursery stock, for he had his catalogues and order books with him.

TENTS AND AWNINGS GO UP IN PRICE, TOO

Fort Wayne residents who place awnings at their homes to provide shade and comfort will pay more for their "coolness" this year, according to local dealers who have received communications from awning concerns.

"A 25 per cent increase is noticeable in the price of canvas awnings," declared one dealer. "Tents will cost 10 per cent more and then you've no chance to be very particular as to the color you desire. Green and red awnings are especially hard to get."

Together with the announcement of the increase in awnings comes one to the effect that the steel frame work for their support has also increased. The high cost of labor and the shortage of dyes because of the European war are given as a cause of the increase in awnings and tents.

ALLEN COUNTY BOY NAMED AN INTERNE

Roy Banderier, son of Louis Banderier, living east of New Haven, is one of three seniors in the Indiana university school of medicine who have been appointed internes at the Robert W. Long hospital in Indianapolis. The appointments are given each year to the three seniors who have had the highest scholarship record during their four years in the medical school. Banderier, who will receive his degree in June, is a member of the Phi Chi fraternity. The other two internes selected were E. W. Kime, of Indianapolis, and George Kent, of Moberly.

FIVE NURSES ARRIVE AT GOAL OF TRAINING

Graduation Exercises of Hope Hospital Held at
First M. E. Church.

Five young ladies who have spent the past three years in training at Hope hospital were given their diplomas of graduation at the sixteenth annual commencement exercises held Wednesday evening at the First M. E. church. The class of 1916 was composed of Dullie Denzel, Mae Ziller, Elizabeth Johnson, Inez Slough and Florence Spriggs.

The beautiful and appropriate program which was rendered was a feature of the exercises. Rev. Arthur J. Folsom, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, delivered the main address of the evening in which he paid a glowing tribute to the nurses' profession and complimented the members of the graduation class for their success in this great work. A. G. Barry, president of the hospital association, presented the graduates with the diplomas, while Miss E. M. Albright, superintendent of the institution, presented them with the school badges.

The musical program, rendered was a feature of the services. Fred Church gave several organ selections and Mr. Giebel and Mrs. Horton rendered a harp and violin duet. Vocal numbers were given by Leslie Popp and Master Lynus Link. A large and appreciative audience was present.

Rev. Folsom said in part: "Your life work is one of superior quality and it will demand of you not simply intelligence and skill, but the deepest feelings of your heart and soul. You have been trained in a school second to none in the state of Indiana. And you have been trained not in mental proficiency alone, but in heart and character as well. You must have character as a basis of action to inspire confidence. You must be honest; you must be conscientious; and you must have human welfare at heart if you are to succeed. Self-sacrifice is one of the prime necessities of your profession. Your influence, wherever you will be measured, not alone by your mental ability and skill, but also by your willingness to serve. We therefore presume that you have caught a vision of humanity's needs, and desire to minister to common welfare and happiness.

Yours is a wonderful life. It knows no bounds of good influence. God alone can measure the happiness you will bring to your brothers. So may your hearts be pure, your characters above reproach, and your influence for good as far-reaching as the east is from the west. 'Patience and abnegation of self, and devotion to others' shall always be the secret of your happiness. May the Master Physician be your ideal, and His word your guide. I cannot not be ministered unto, but to minister. 'May God bless you with health and strength, with wisdom and happiness, with friendships and love in your noble calling. And may you ever remember in your work of ministry that 'Love never faileth.'"

L. H. Keller, Pennsylvania machine operator, will leave Saturday to spend the week-end in Chicago.

Miss Helen McGreevy returned to Huntington Thursday, after a visit here with Miss Phyllis Randall.

IOWA REPUBLICANS HISS T. R.'S NAME

vokes Big Storm.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., May 18.—The term "old time love feast" applied to the republican state convention meeting here yesterday was no misnomer as proved when a near riot resulted from the attempt of Robert Healy, of Webster county, to boost the candidacy of Roosevelt for the presidential nomination at the expense of Senator Albert B. Cummins, the choice of Iowa republicans.

Healy declared this a time for the party to choose the strongest man and characterized Roosevelt as "the greatest man in the world."

At the mention of Roosevelt's name a bedlam of hisses and yells broke loose and Healy was hooted from the stage. The other sensational episode occurred when Attorney General George C. Olson, candidate for governor, addressed the convention and was forced to give away before his time limit of ten minutes had expired by a clamorous call for Lieut. Gov. William L. Harding that drowned out the speaker.

Harding is the delegate's choice for governor. His popularity grew from the time of his arrival in town until his appearance before the convention, when he was greeted with a tumultuous storm of cheers.

Mr. Harding, in his speech, enlivened Cummins and added fuel to the already white hot flame of approval that swept the convention for the Iowa candidate for president. During the day the delegates unanimously endorsed Cummins' candidacy by resolution.

No platform timber was selected. The sentiment of the delegates, however, was apparent on equal suffrage when every mention of Temporary Chairman Howard C. Clark of this subject elicited continuous cheering.

Mr. Harding referred to the liquor question by declaring that Iowa was "dry" for all time. His remarks seemed to be generally approved by the delegates.

BRING CANAL ZONE MEN.
Officers to Have Charge of Plattsburg Training Camp.

New York, May 18.—Seven officers attached to U. S. garrisons in the Panama canal zone will have charge of the business men's training camps at Plattsburg this year, it was announced here today. They will be headed by Major Peter Murray, of the Twenty-ninth infantry, who will be camp commandant.

The assignment of officers from the canal zone is due to the death of available men owing to the numerous transfers to Mexico and the border.

This is also "Be-Kind-to-Animals" week, when the society is especially urging consideration for the animal kingdom and endeavoring to further the propaganda of kindness.

BLIND PHYSICIAN EXPIRES SUDDENLY

Heart Attack Fatal to Dr.
J. H. Jones at Age of 84 Years.

Stricken suddenly shortly before eleven o'clock Wednesday evening with an attack of heart trouble, Dr. Joseph H. Jones died a few minutes later at his home, 1226 West Jefferson street. He was one of the oldest physicians in the city of Fort Wayne, having attained the advanced age of 84 years.

The earlier part of the evening he seemingly was enjoying the best of health but death came so quickly after the fatal attack that the physician who was summoned did not have time to arrive.

Dr. Jones was born in Harrison county, Ohio, and received his early education at Athens college and the Cincinnati Medical college. Shortly after he had taken up active practice, he was so prostrated by a fall that he lost the sight of both eyes. He had been totally blind for the past fifty years.

He came to Fort Wayne, fifty years ago and had resided here ever since. He was united in marriage to Miss Lydia M. Bluffton, in 1868, who alone survives him. The deceased was a devoted and successful physician, and was a member of the Wayne Street M. E. church.

Address by Donald Robertson.
The address of the afternoon will be given by Pageant Master Donald Robertson, the man of power and strength in his grasp upon the great purpose of the pageant, who will tell of the place which it holds in modern life. Mr. Robertson is a man of splendid voice, capable of transferring to his hearers his lofty conception of the great play which will be unfolded during the days to follow the event of Sunday afternoon.

"It has been a most gratifying accomplishment," observed Rev. Mr. Folsom, chairman of the arrangements committee. "I have found everyone enthusiastically in favor of this great community service in which we may unite to give serious thought to the meaning of the pageant. Bishop Aldering has shown his deep interest in the undertaking in making it a success. Every pastor in the city seems to be earnestly pleased with the plan of the forthcoming service. The inspiration of that day will mean much to all of us. It is a clear expression of the community spirit of modern times."

PREPARE FOR PARKING OF AUTOMOBILES
The centennial association has secured the use of the broad area of city property and the adjoining Carman property, east of Clinton street, for the purpose of parking the thousands of automobiles which will bring more thousands of visitors to Fort Wayne during the first week in June.

The problem of caring for automobiles has been a vexatious one, and the securing of the use of this broad area will help materially to solve it. A series of entrances are arranged for Clinton street, and corresponding exits on Barn street. Stakes will be driven in the ground to which will be attached ropes to indicate the division of the grounds.

GREAT SERVICE OF SONG
Monster Choir to Sing—Robertson to Speak.

A spectacle glorious and unique in the history of religious worship in America is due for the afternoon of Sunday, June 3, in Fort Wayne. It is doubtful if a like gathering has ever taken place to give such a high expression to the world at large.

On the third day before the opening of the great historic pageant, the outdoor play by Fort Wayne people by which the men and women, boys and girls, may learn the story of the development of their home city, all of the churches of Fort Wayne will combine in one great harmonious service of song and inspiration. The service will be held at the pageant grounds at Reservoir park.

The gathering will come to order at 3 o'clock. The centennial association selected Rev. A. J. Folsom as the chairman of the occasion, and Rev. Mr. Folsom has announced as his associates, Rev. Joseph E. DeLaney, of St. Patrick's Catholic church; Clint R. Wilson, of the Third Presbyterian church; Prof. Walter Veller, of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church; Carl J. Weber, of the Cathedral; Rev. Fred Wambegans, of Emmanuel Lutheran church; and Rev. E. W. Averill, of Trinity Episcopal church, with the co-operation of Prof. William Miles.

The assembly will be called to order at 3 o'clock, at which time a choir of probably three hundred voices will sing among the best singers in all of the churches will occupy a place on the vast stage fronting an audience of probably 16,000 to 18,000 persons. The amphitheater will seat 14,000 people, and doubtless all standing room will be taken.

With the accompaniment of an orchestra of fifty pieces, this great choir, directed by Prof. Miles, will open the service with the singing of the Fort Wayne hymn. To Rev. Father DeLaney and Mr. Weber has been given the duty of selecting the one hundred psalmists in the choir from the Catholic churches. Rev. Mr. Wambegans and Prof. Veller will choose the one hundred voices from the Lutheran churches, while other members of the committee will supply the singers from the Protestant churches.

Several solo numbers will be sung, and each of the three choirs will sing one of the great sacred masterpieces. The Protestant choir has selected Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus," the Lutheran section will sing "Unfold Ye Portals," by Gounod, and the Catholic choir will render "Praise the Lord" by Handel.

At the close of the service, the statue of Washington to be unveiled at Westport.

ATTACK UNDERTAKEN ON GIGANTIC SCALE

Paris, May 18.—The attack launched by the Austrians against the Italian front in the southern Tyrol, which has gradually extended to the entire Austro-Italian front, is being followed here with close attention. It is generally believed in military circles that the great Austro-Italian offensive which has been expected for some time past has at last begun.

No importance is attached to the falling back of the Italian advance lines, which is considered an obvious move, as they were not sufficiently strong to resist an attack on a large scale. Although the Italian central position on the Lavarone plateau is not yet involved it is thought probable the principal effort of the Austrians will be made in that direction. It seems evident that the Austrian generals intend to try to carry out their former plan of smashing a way through to the Vienna plain. The fact that heavy reinforcements have been moved up under cover of the formidable series of forts stretching from Edgaria and Lavarone favors the belief that Vienna is the real objective.

French military authorities are satisfied that the Austrians are doomed to failure regardless of what efforts they make. It is pointed out that the Italians have made every possible preparation for just such an attack as the present and that the most powerful defenses that engineering skill could devise have been prepared on the Asiago plateau and in the mountains northwest of Asiago. It is on this line that the Italians are expected to make their real stand in event the Austrians continue to push their offensive.

ANNUAL SESSIONS WILL ALWAYS BE HELD HERE

Fort Wayne delegates who attended the fifteenth annual convention of the Catholic Benevolent League of Indiana held at Hammond this week returned Wednesday evening and report that Fort Wayne was chosen as the convention city for this organization. The yearly meetings will hereafter be held in this city.

This was the first time in the history of the society that the convention was not held in Fort Wayne. Hammond made a strong contention to have next year's meeting held there. In view of the fact, however, that Fort Wayne is the home of the supreme council and that the four local councils embrace a membership of nearly seven hundred, it was voted that the meetings be held in Fort Wayne.

It was decided to hold a meeting of this organization in Fort Wayne on September 19. Supreme President Michael Kinder will have charge.

ORGANIZED SIXTY YEARS.

Columbia City Lodge of Masons Will Observe Anniversary May 29.

Columbia City, Ind., May 18.—Columbia City lodge No. 189, Free and Accepted Masons, will hold a sixtieth anniversary celebration on May 29, and plans are being made to have a big time. The arrangements include degree work, a banquet, a musical entertainment and a pipe organ recital and an address on Masonry by William Geake, of Fort Wayne. The Masonic lodge in this city was organized May 27, 1859, but as the 27th comes Saturday this year the celebration was postponed until Monday, May 29. The Master Mason degree will be conferred between 3 o'clock and 6 o'clock on one candidate, and at the latter hour the ladies of the M. E. church will serve a banquet in the banquet room on the second floor of the Temple building. The lodges of South Whitley, Churubusco, Larwill, Pierceton, Roanoke and Wolf Lake have been invited to attend, so a big crowd is anticipated. The Scottish Rite pipe organist and quartet from Fort Wayne will be on hand to give a musical entertainment and pipe organ recital. Mr. Fred Church, the pipe organist, is the best in Fort Wayne and he will be present to play for the crowd. Mr. William Geake, a 33rd degree Mason and one of the most prominent members of the order in the United States, will be present to deliver an address on Masonry.

IN BULL'S BOX STALL.

Animal on Whitley County's Poor Farm Recents Intrusion.

Columbia City, Ind., May 18.—Wayne county, an inmate of the county farm, was injured by a bull and sustained some severe and painful bruises before he was rescued from the infuriated animal. Dr. Alice Williams, the county physician, was called to dress his injuries. He had several ribs fractured and his back injured and there appeared to be internal injuries. The trouble came about somewhat in this way: The animal was being led to water out in the barn lot and while he was out, Mr. Druley went into the stall to clean it out and spread some bedding around. The bull was brought back and the man who was leading him did not know that Mr. Druley was in the stall. The powerful bull was turned into the box stall and soon discovered the presence of Druley. The man who was leading the bull called to Mr. Druley to climb out in a hurry but the big animal lunged at him and knocked him down before he could get out. Workmen there rushed to his rescue and the bull was forced back at the point of pitchforks.

HORSE RACES WITH TRAIN

Avilla Nag Gets on Track and Runs for Miles Ahead of Locomotive.

Avilla, Ind., May 18.—D. D. Stewart, of this place, drove to the P. C. Yeiser car west of town a few days ago to assist in building fence along the B. & O. right-of-way. On reaching his destination he turned his horse loose in a field along which there was no fence. One freight train came along and the animal paid but little attention to it, but when the second train approached she ran along beside it and finally gained the track ahead. She raced up the track, most of the time ahead of the train, until she reached Albion, where she turned off. Mr. Stewart went to the tower at Ripley and accompanied by Operator Miller, started west in pursuit of the latter's speeder. They found the mare in the Albion ball park, practically uninjured but badly stiffened from her experience. Mr. Stewart led his horse back to the point from which she started and drove home in the evening. He says that the distance is six miles and was covered in twenty minutes.

sociation of Indiana, when a committee, consisting of the state presidents of each organization and other appointed members, declared in favor of such amalgamation and decided to appoint a committee which will meet in Indianapolis on June 19 to consider plans for such a step.

Kokomo had been chosen as a meeting place of the two committees today because of the fact that it was located between the home city of Dr. Amelia R. Keller, president of the Franchise league; and Leesport, the home of Mrs. Anna Dunn-Noland, president of the Equal Suffrage association.

REGULATING POOLROOMS

Huntington, Ind., May 18.—In a compromise agreement the city council has passed the ordinance closing the poolrooms at 11 o'clock and at the same time amended an old ordinance thus cutting the poolroom license fees from $25 to $10 a year. The agreement means a $140 loss to the city, according to the figures in City Clerk Harry Young's office. The poolrooms last year paid in $550 in license fees but under the amended ordinance they will pay $210. The passage of the 11 o'clock ordinance came as a result of the petitions circulated by the members of the Christian Endeavor Union. Nearly 400 names were obtained on the petitions and the matter was brought before the council.

PIERCETON WOMAN INJURED.

Warsaw, Ind., May 18.—Mrs. Ray Scott, of Pierceton, was seriously injured and three others badly bruised as the result of a Ford car turning turtle, while turning at the Lightensier corner, one mile west of Pierceton, Tuesday afternoon. The aged woman was hurled to a physician and is now under his care. The car was being driven by V. Scott and owing to the muddy condition of the roads, the light machine skidded while turning, causing it to roll over. The woman, mother of Mr. Scott, was pinned beneath and sustained many severe injuries. The other occupants of the car were a child of Mr. Scott and a neighbor girl.

HE MERELY DIDN'T KNOW

Huntington, Ind., May 18.—Morris Randall, 16 years old, shot himself in the left knee with a revolver while at the home of Amil Brooks, in this city. Randall had removed three shells from a .22 calibre gun, he said, and thought it was entirely unloaded. He began pulling the trigger with the right muzzle of the gun pointed to the floor. The bullet entered his leg about six inches above the knee and plowed downward. Just how near the knee the bullet lodged, the surgeon could not say because of the swelling. Danger from infection is imminent, the surgeon said, and an operation may be necessary to remove the bullet.

FREAK ANIMALS ARE BORN

Van Wert, Ohio, May 18.—Two peculiarly formed animals have been born in the county within the past few days. At the farm of James E. Foust, northwest of Grover Hill, a calf was foaled with hind legs much longer than the normal and with no fore legs. Some of the internal organs were on the external surface of the body. This freak has been embalmed and is now at the office of Dr. Zeigenbush, of Grover Hill. At the home of Benjamin Brodix, in Liberty township, twin lambs were born, each of the lambs having two pairs of ears. The lambs are apparently in good health.

GIRL VICTIM OF WHITE PLAGUE.

Auburn, Ind., May 18.—Miss Laura Stevens, the fifteen year old daughter of Mrs. Laura Stevens, of this city, is dead after a long illness of tuberculosis. She was born at LaOtto April 8, 1901, coming to Auburn with her mother about five years ago. Her's is the fourth death in the family, the father and two sisters having preceded her in death. Besides the mother she leaves two sisters, Julia and Ruth, and three brothers, Lloyd, Norman and Earnest, and other relatives. She was a member of the Methodist church, from which place the funeral will be held Friday morning.

MONTEPELIER MARSHAL SHOT AT.

Montpelier, Ind., May 18.—What looked like an attempt on the life of City Marshal Jesse Morris, took place about midnight, when two shots were fired by an unknown person, both missing the officer by very narrow margins. One bullet went a few inches over the officer's head and through the glass in the window in the tie-in-barn, while the other was still higher, striking in the woodwork at the top of the window. The shots were fired from the stairway that leads to the second story of the Frank Hedges building on Huntington street.

CONVICTED OF ASSAULT

Van Wert, Ohio, May 18.—Guilty on the second count of an indictment, was the verdict of the jury in the case of Clarence Vanover, who was charged with criminally assaulting May Wise, eight years old, of Ohio City, last November. The deliberations of the jury were short, the case being given to them shortly before 6 o'clock and time being taken out for supper. Four ballots only were taken. The punishment provided by law in the case is from one to twenty years in the penitentiary.

Churubusco, Ind., May 18.—Prof. Lloyd F. Gates and wife, of Churubusco, will leave the latter part of May for Quebec, Canada, where they will spend the summer. As a precaution against any trouble that might come up, they applied for passports and a considerable amount of red tape had to be followed out with great accuracy, presumably to prevent frauds.

She is Virginia Leo Riblets, daughter of Byron C. Riblets, civil engineer of Spokane, Wash. Her motto was: "If you can't get a position in a motion picture company, start one of your own." Ago that's just what she did. Miss Riblets wrote an extensive and interesting scenario, hired her own camera man and director and with her society friends produced a five-reel photodrama on her father's estate near Spokane.

Later she secured a position with the Lasky company. Many have commented on her remarkable resemblance to the famous screen star, Marguerite Clark.

Soprano of the Metropolitan, the find of the year in opera, singing in direct comparison with Edison's Re-Creation of her voice, to illustrate that one is identical with the other.

Miss Heinrich is but one of the many great artists who have thus proven that Edison has accomplished his ambition to re-create music so perfectly that his recreations cannot be distinguished from the original.

Hear Edison's Re-Creation of Julia Heinrich's sympathetic voice. Hear Miss Heinrich herself at the Metropolitan, in New York, or when she is on concert tour.

Edison's New Art

What does it mean? It means that Edison's new invention re-creates music so perfectly that his re-creations cannot be distinguished from the original. DAILY BIBLE READINGS FOR THE HOME

Mark 2:3-12.

3 And they came unto him, bringing one sick of the palsy, which was borne of four.

4 And when they could not come nigh unto him for the press, they uncovered the roof where he was: and when they had broken it up, they let down the sick wherein he lay, and said unto him, Son, thy sins be forgiven thee.

5 When Jesus saw their faith, he said unto the sick of the palsy, Son, thy sins be forgiven thee.

6 But there were certain of the scribes sitting there, and reasoning in their hearts,

7 Why doth this man thus speak blasphemies? who can forgive sins but God only?

8 And immediately, when Jesus perceived in his spirit that they so reasoned within themselves, he said unto them, Why reason ye these things in your hearts?

9 Whether is it easier to say to the sick of the palsy, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and take up thy bed, and walk?

10 But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (he said to the sick of the palsy,)

11 I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy bed, and go thy way into thine house.

12 And immediately he arose, took up the bed, and went forth before them all; insomuch that they were all amazed, and glorified God, saying, We never saw it on this fashion.

Let us think of our Lord as having all power. There is that about Him that compels faith. Some of these bearers had "seen Jesus" and decided that their palsied friend could be healed. The church is to continue to produce such conviction.

Sunday Real Estate Selling.

Something like a year ago the Fort Wayne Real Estate exchange took an admirable step when it voted to discontinue the practice of Sunday real estate sales, which had apparently gotten a firm foothold among firms which were engaged in placing new additions upon the market. It had become the practice of many dealers to advertise heavily, invite prospective purchasers to visit the newly-platted territory on Sunday, place energetic salesmen in charge on those days and no doubt a considerable volume of business was transacted in this way. But it was wrong, and the realty men realized it. They knew a business contract made on Sunday was invalid, that the practice was morally open to suspicion and that the plan was not in accord with high-class business principles. Its members determined to end it, and they have kept the faith.

Recently, however, there has been a disposition upon the part of outside promoters of property here, not members of the Real Estate exchange, to defy the code set up by the Fort Wayne realty men and to devote Sunday to the exploitation of additions in which they are interested. Whether it will be found possible by some form of evasion to avoid a technical violation of the law regarding Sabbath desecration or not, The Sentinel is not lawyer enough to say. It does believe, however, that the system is wrong both ethically and morally, and that it should be emphatically discontenanced. The Fort Wayne realty men are absolutely right in the position they have taken, and in their attitude they should have the most emphatic support of the Fort Wayne public.

Governor Ralston, when he assumed the duties of chief executive of Indiana, was no doubt fully aware that he had not acquired a sinecure, but a job in which there was to be a tremendously big lot of work and no little responsibility as well as the honor that is one of the perquisites of the position. Yet we doubt if he correctly measured the variety of the demands that were to be made upon both his time and his versatility. By no conceivable stretch of the imagination can be it assumed that he expected to be drafted into service as a star in a movie film or as an actor in a pageant. Yet both have happened to Mr. Ralston in connection with the Indiana centennial within the past few days. In casting about for future governors, we might take into account the possibility that the future may make demands upon them as aviators as well. There's no telling where this thing will end.

The president's position in urging the largest measure of co-operation by the federal trade commission with the business interests of the country will be warmly endorsed by business generally. Too often we take the unwarranted view that the purpose of a government commission is wholly regulative and generally antagonistic, when just the opposite should be true. The trade commission's labor is to help and not to hinder. Among the practical suggestions made by the president was that in which he urged that if the federal body finds an industry that is not in a healthy condition, it should, in co-operation with the parties interested, suggest a practical and helpful remedy. The federal trade commission is largely an experiment, and it is in a sense merely on trial. It should be able to prove by the good it accomplishes its right to exist.

Secretary of War Baker is frowning on the suggestion of well-meaning but misguided friends of his that he run for the democratic vice presidential nomination. Possibly Mr. Baker believes his present job is sufficiently troublesome for any one man, without going about looking for others, and so long as the Mexican chaos continues the conclusion appears to be wholly justified. Secretary Baker favors the renomination of Vice President Marshall, as do pretty nearly all the other democrats and no inconsiderable number of republicans in these United States.

In the bitter fight which attended the republican primary election in Pennsylvania Senator Boies Penrose gave another exhibition of his power and not only entrenched himself firmly in party leadership in the Keystone state, but settled for some time to come just whom you've got to see in Pennsylvania. Just at this juncture it would be interesting to have the unbiased opinion of the progressive republicans of that state as to the party's progress toward progressiveness.

The lower house has passed the bill appropriating $45,000,000 for flood prevention along the Mississippi and Sacramento rivers. Every once in awhile something occurs somewhere to remind us that once upon a time we were going to do some flood preventing right here in Fort Wayne.

Seeks Comfort in Travel; War Made Woman Wanderer

MRS. NEWTON FORD

The fortunes of war have made Mrs. Newton Ford a wanderer about the earth in search of solace. Somewhere in France her husband is suffering from wounds received in battle. In an unmarked grave lies her brother, once a prominent clergyman of London. Her husband and brother enlisted shortly after the war began. First came the word that the husband had been wounded. Soon after the news came to her that her brother had been shot through the head and killed while he was endeavoring to assist a soldier on the battlefield.

Unable to endure the tragedy the war brought her, Mrs. Ford left England and is now traveling in the United States.

AS "THE FATHERLAND" VIEWS IT

(From The Fatherland.)

Those who assume that there is something impertinent in Germany making her submarine policy contingent on an enforcement of our neutral rights against England willfully misstate the case as presented in the German note. The question whether we shall insist on our rights or not, is truly a matter for our own consideration, and cannot possibly justify Germany in dictating to us. If we choose to surrender our independence to England it is strictly our own affair.

But it does concern Germany if we demand of her to obey "the dictates of humanity" by abandoning her submarine policy and allow Great Britain to go on in the unrestricted enjoyment of an "ineffective, illegal and indefensible blockade"—to quote Secretary Lansing's own words—intended to starve the civil population into submission, as the Boer republics were starved into submission, forcing the laws of humanity to apply to Germany and not to her enemy. It is not a question of Germany requiring us to force Great Britain to respect our neutral rights, as contended by those interested in obscuring the issue, but of compelling an impartial observer to recognize the principles of humanity, compelling Great Britain to subscribe to those principles now that Germany has subscribed to them. Since humanity is to be elevated into an administration doctrine, it must be enforced against both groups of belligerents or against neither.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—The easiest way to be mentioned for the presidency is to run a newspaper in Wichita, Kas.

Wichita has two presidential possibilities—men who may run for president on the progressive ticket if Roosevelt doesn't, or who may run for vice president if T. R. heads the slate.

And both possibilities are newspapermen.

Victor Murdock was managing editor of the Wichita Eagle for nine years, until he was elected to congress in 1903. His mother owns the Eagle and Victor still writes for it occasionally.

Henry J. Allen, the other favorite son, is editor and owner of the Wichita Beacon; he spends much time in Washington as correspondent for his paper and the Kansas City Star.

Allen is a native of Pennsylvania and was born in 1868. He got his schooling in Kansas, where he was graduated from two colleges, and soon afterward he started buying newspapers, building them up, and letting them go for something bigger.

Murdock, though, is a native Kansan, and was born into the newspaper game. His father owned the Eagle and Victor grew up in the business. He was born in '71.

HUMDRUM AFFAIR IS WAR, HE SAYS

American Youth in Midst of Fighting Calls It Monotonous.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 18.—Declaring

LIEUTENANT RUDOLPH V. SURR

does describe the great conflict as "appallingly monotonous and as impersonal as a thunderstorm."

Young Surr has been in charge of a gunner's detachment on the western front for six months without leave. He is living 20 feet underground, except when in action, for the stench of unburied bodies scattered on the ground above is unbearable, he says.

"This part of the line has seen some fierce fighting. You can't dig trenches without cutting through graves," the young lieutenant wrote in a letter to his father. We are well supplied with dug-outs and take shelter in them when the shells begin to come our way.

"On bright days we would enjoy sitting in the trenches, open to the air and sunlight. Ours would be all right if it were not for a dead Frenchman in the side of the trench, half exposed to view, who makes the place unendurable when the wind blows from the south. We can't cover him up without blocking the trench and if we went anywhere else it would be just the same thing."

"This war, on the whole, is different from all others; it's a day-in, day-out, business and is run much as a big factory is run. Shifts and turns and regular hours for meals and arrivals of rations, ammunition and mail, and so on. That's why, compared with all other wars, it's so appallingly monotonous. You probably think it rubbish to say that sheer boredom is the keynote of the whole thing, but it's the literal truth. It is all as impersonal as a thunder storm."

"I felt I should like to kill a few Boches for sacrifice the first time I saw a dead woman unearthened from a vault, but the angry feeling passed, and now I look on it as a business. It's my duty to kill Fritz, and Fritz' to kill me, and in the process we do some unpleasant things that can't be helped."

FIGHTING FOR PRINCIPLE, CHIROPRACTOR REFUSES A PARDON.

Dr. F. Ratledge, at right, going to jail with Deputy Sheriff Ehling.

Berkeley, Cal., May 18.—Lieutenant that he was fighting for a principle and not for a license, Dr. F. Ratledge, chiropractor, went to jail here recently after the governor had offered him a pardon, providing he would submit to the examinations of the state medical board.

Dr. Ratledge was arrested on a charge of practicing without a license and after a fight that went to the supreme court was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail. The matter has been in the courts practically since 1913.

"I do not want a license as a 'druggish practitioner,'" says Dr. Ratledge. "That would be only a slur and an insult to my profession. What I am fighting for is a separate board of examiners to pass on chiropractors who differ as much from doctors as night does from day."

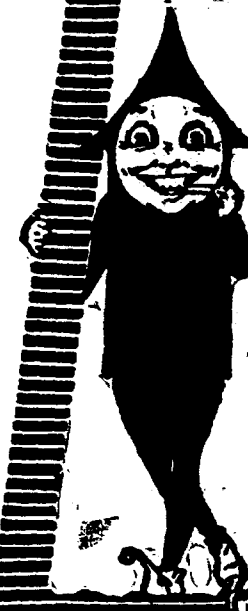

"I am fighting for the same recognition for chiropractors in California that has been accorded them in five other states—Kansas, Arkansas, Nebraska, North Dakota and Oregon; the privilege of separate examinations by men who understand our work."

Miss Flora Limecolly, of South Ham street, gave a beautiful party last evening in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Roselys Parisot, of this city, to H. C. Wall, of San Francisco, which is to take place on June 7. The rooms were very pretty with a decoration in white and red of crepe paper, ribbons, red cupids, red flowers and red bells. The guests gave Miss Parisot a shower of gifts for her new home and played a game of red letters. Miss Parisot's chair at supper time was trimmed in red ribbons and over it hung a white bell. The center of the supper table had a big bouquet of red roses that lent their fragrance to the occasion and everything was as lovely and dainty as a young girl could desire. The hostess and the honor guest have been friends since they were little children and the other guests were close friends. There were present Misses F. and Monica Buer, Irene Flaherty, Cecilia Zurbach, Frieda Winegart, Fiedla Klotz, Beatrice Ek, Ada McMullen, Ella Streibig, Vera Nipper, Doris Emmett, and Mesdames Leonard Buer, F. C. Cousar, Jr. of Cleveland, and Mrs. Russell Moody.

Mrs. Gordon C. Patton gave an informal dinner party on Wednesday evening to announce the engagement of her daughter, Mabel Hullinger, to A. R. Hall, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, of South Harrison street. The wedding is to take place in June. Pink roses and violets formed a beautiful decoration of the dinner table.

The date of the wedding of Miss Marie Berghoff to John Suelzer, Jr., which is June 22, was announced at a party of beautiful appointments on Wednesday afternoon, given by Miss Martha Berghoff at her home in East Wayne street. The guests were members of two social clubs of which Miss Berghoff is a member. The announcement was made through the medium of dainty books that were hidden under the table on which the guests first played five hundred and later enjoyed a delicious supper. The decorations were in yellow and white, both yellow and white daisies and lilies of the valley being used in profusion. During the serving of the supper the salad was played in boxes tied with yellow ribbon and flowers. A tiny card slipped under the ribbon declared that "daisies won't tell," so it took considerable time to hunt up the secret and there was a merry time doing so until one young woman was lucky enough to discover the little gift book. Miss Clara Hoff, of Milwaukee, was the out of town guest and others present were Mesdames John McArde, Clem Schiefer, Victor Nussbaum, Martin Harkner, Dr. Hubert Berghoff, Jr., Thomas Harkner, Edward Clemmer, Oscar Ankenbruck, and Misses Loretta Ankenbruck, Isabelle Ehrman, Elizabeth Berghoff, Beatrice Heine, Jane Fox, Agnes Cunningham, Esther Fox, Marie Kelly, Adele Bremer, Dora Greven, Phoebe Greven, Helen Suelzer.

Mrs. F. S. Hunting is going to Chicago the first of the coming week for a stay of several days and will be accompanied by Mr. Hunting, who is going on business.

Mrs. Homer Johns, of Sturgis, Mich., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Homer Stevens, of 823 Erie street. Miss Anna Smalley, of Bluffton, is another guest at the same home.

The members of the Woman's Loyal Moose circle formed a party of seventy at the Anreiz store for refreshment on Wednesday afternoon following a business meeting held at an early hour.

Fort Wayne friends have received word of the marriage of Miss Helen Stevens, a former Fort Wayne girl, to James Nags, of Toledo, O., which took place in Monroe, Mich., on Sunday, May 14.

There will be a called meeting of the woman's committee of Hope hospital in the parlors of the institution at 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon. Members are requested to come and be prompt in attendance.

The members of the Tuesday auction bridge club were entertained this week at the home of Mrs. Frank Greenwell, of Huntertown. Mrs. Greenwell is a member of the club, which has been in existence for a number of years.

Miss DeVilbiss, teacher of domestic science in the Jefferson school, gave a dinner party Thursday noon to her class. The girls do the cooking and are taught proper serving as well as other suitable things concerning a dinner and dinner giving.

Mrs. Charles Hewitt and son, Robert, of Detroit, Mich., are visiting friends in the city. Mrs. Hewitt was formerly Miss Grace Loomis. Mr. Hewitt is located in New Brunswick, N. J., as he has taken a position there with the Packard Automobile company and he with Mrs. Hewitt, are planning to make a visit here in a few weeks' time.

Prof. E. R. Johnston, of Vineland, N. J., who made Dr. and Mrs. C. Martz of East Croighton avenue, a short visit, following his attendance in Indianapolis of the state convention of Charities and Corrections, left Thursday for the east. Prof. Johnston is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Martz, who also has as her guest her brother, Dr. A. Lehmann, of Chicago, who has been in Honolulu, H. I., all winter and is on his way home.

It is hardly possible that Miss Mary Irwin, of Lafayette, will make a visit to this city, which was her home for many years, at the coming council of the Michigan City diocese of the Episcopal church to be held in this city during the coming week. Miss Irwin's father, the late Rev. Dr. J. M. C. A. Irwin, of the city, became only a matter of memory, the ladies' auxiliary to the association had two hundred dollars in its treasury. Half of that sum the ladies were prevailed upon to send to India as that country's people at the time were suffering from famine. The other half was used to form the Children's Ward association, still doing active service for Hope hospital. The promise of the contribution to the new association is really, therefore, the payment of what had once been contributed or earned for the first organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard O. Daenell, of 2212 John street, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary unexpectedly on Wednesday, because in the evening a number of friends who are members of the Vorwaerts Turnverein, with their wives, called and gave the Daenells a surprise party. The callers also presented Mr. Daenell with a leather chair as a token of their friendship for him. Professor Henry Meyer, who is at the head of the physical training of the Turners, headed the procession as they entered the Daenell home and he also made the presentation speech. Mr. Daenell was much surprised, but he managed to make a pretty speech in return. Mr. Daenell is foreman of the Frei-Pressen Staats Zeitung composing room, and he was born in Germany. Mrs. Daenell was Miss Emma Kienle, of Kansas City, Mo. It is nearly nineteen years since Mr. and Mrs. Daenell came to Fort Wayne to reside. There are three children in the family, Richard, the oldest; Julius, who lives in St. Claude, Florida; and Master Arthur, who is but six years of age.

Rockhill-Kinder.

A quiet and simple, though exceedingly pretty wedding was that which united in marriage Miss Emma Martha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Kinder, and Mr. Frank H. Rockhill, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Rockhill, on Tuesday, at St. Patrick's Catholic church, Arcola. Miss Estella Kinder and Mr. Jack Haggan, both of this city, were the attendants. The bride's gown was fashioned of white tulle with short skirt in double tier effect with polonaise drape and bodice of georgette crepe and Venetian point lace. A tulle veil caught with a wreath of lilies of the valley and a shower bouquet of bride roses and white satin ribbon completed the bridal costume. Miss Estella Kinder was lovely in a flounced dress of white lace made with bodice and apron effect drapery of pink tulle beautifully embroidered with rose design motifs. A mallow hat of pink and white with pink roses and a quail old fashioned bouquet of pink Killarney roses added finishing touches to the bridesmaid's gown. Upon their return from a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Rockhill will be at home for the present with the groom's parents in Arcola. For traveling the bride wore a blue tulle suit and leghorn hat with black velvet and yellow rose trimming.

TAKES POISON TO END HIS TROUBLES

Peter Sessler Ends Life After Wife Files Suit for Divorce.

Brooding over a suit for divorce which his wife had filed in the superior court last Saturday and ill-health, Peter Sessler, 71 years old, more familiarly known as "Chicken Pete," 406 Dawson street, committed suicide, Wednesday, by taking a considerable quantity of strychnine. His body was found at 6:30 o'clock by Mrs. Fred Bell, 448 Williams street, from whom he had rented a room the day that his wife brought her action for separation.

In the opinion of Coroner J. E. McArdle, Sessler died of a heart attack twelve hours when found. He was last seen alive early Wednesday morning and it is believed that he then had gone to a nearby drugstore, purchased the deadly drug and returned to his room, taking the poison immediately. A small package labeled "strychnine" and containing a small amount of the drug was found in one of his pockets.

In her action for divorce Mrs. Sessler made practically every banking institution in the city parties to the suit restraining them from turning over to her any money or property she might have had in their possession. Certificates of deposit in local banks to the amount of $2,050 and currency amounting to $236.31 were found on his person.

Mrs. Sessler complained of cruel and inhuman treatment since within six months of their marriage, which took place in 1872, and alleged that for twenty years he had been exceedingly perverse to her and the children. She asked for $4,000 alimony.

Sessler was well known in Fort Wayne and Allen county and had been a resident of this city for the greater part of his life. He had been engaged in buying chickens throughout the county for a number of years, which he sold to local dealers. For years he was a familiar figure on the Barr street market.

The deceased is survived by the widow and eight children—Frank, Fred, Anna and Clara, at home; Will, of this city; Charles, Centralia, Ill.; Mrs. Mary Case, Clinton, Okla.; and Mrs. Dora Cronkite, of this city.

He was a veteran of the civil war and a member of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The election of officers will be held. Mrs. A. J. Detzer will talk of the coming pageant. The Franklin school parent-teacher club will meet on Friday at 3:30 o'clock. Every mother who has a pupil in school is urged to be there. This will be the closing meeting and there are things of importance to talk about.

FORT WAYNE MAY GET 1918 STATE MEETING

Fort Wayne is a strong contender for the 1918 state convention of the Indiana Association of Undertakers, which met in annual session the first part of this week in the Hotel Severn, at Indianapolis. Next year's meeting will be held in the capital city, but the following year Fort Wayne may have the opportunity of entertaining the five hundred members of this organization.

This year's gathering was one of the largest ever held. Nearly three hundred undertakers from all parts of the state were in attendance. Joe Getz represented Fort Wayne at this meeting and assisted by the delegates from the northern part of the state succeeded in arousing enthusiasm in making this city the 1918 convention city.

PAYNE LAUNDRY IS WRECKED.

Gasoline Tank Explodes and Edward Berkley Is Injured.

Payne, Ohio, May 18.—The cement block building occupied by the Payne laundry was wrecked, windows in near by structures were broken and Edward Berkley, employed in a meat market near by, who was just entering the laundry, was severely injured, yesterday afternoon, when a gasoline tank that supplied the engine in the plant exploded. The laundry is owned by Miss Mary Kilpatrick, who, with her mother, Mrs. Mary Kilpatrick, and her brother, Edward Kilpatrick, had just left the plant to go home when the explosion occurred. Windows in the residence of J. B. Finan were shattered by the force of the explosion. Berkley was cut by flying glass and was burned by flames from the explosion.

AT KEITH PALACE

LAUGHING FARCE COMEDY.

The Danger Line Heads New Bill at the New Palace.

The laughing farce comedy, The Danger Line, with John T. Doyle in the principal role, is the rollicking headline attraction on the bill that opened for the week-end at the New Palace this afternoon. The story is unfolded in four scenes and the big laughs center round the famous "kick scene" in which Doyle, as the father, suffering from an attack of remorse, induced by two lavish libations, and the notion that in his maddened condition the night before he had killed his daughter. Doesn't sound much like comedy, but there is just the element of absurdity in the whole thing that conspires to get the laughs started.

Van and Belle, the boomerang experts, have worked up a clever act round their ability to hurl these return trip sticks. Brooks and Bowen, the two black spots of joy, the funny boys with the dusky skins, mellow voices, educated feet and happy comedy talent, are on this same bill. Brooks and Lorella, the acrobats comique, have plenty of novelty ideas in their exhibitions of skill and strength.

Children, young and old, is the singing, dancing and talking specialty to be presented by the Three Princesses Lilliput, the trio of tiny sisters. So that all children may enjoy these miniatures a special matinee will be given Saturday afternoon.

AT THE TEMPLE.

NEW BILL TONIGHT.

"Love and Law" Starts at Temple This Evening.

Last night's performance marked the close of the run of "The Banker, the Thief and the Girl" at the Temple theater and the week-end bill, "Love and Law," starts with tonight's performance. "Love and Law" is a farce comedy of three acts. It is a play which abounds with funny situations and humorous incidents and it is bound to cause plenty of laughs.

"Charley's Aunt" was funny and made a big hit with Fort Wayne theatergoers, but it was tame compared with "Love and Law," and all lovers of good farce comedy cannot afford to miss this show. Incidentally this play will mark the close of the stay of the present Temple theater company in Fort Wayne, the popular playmen engaging their engagement the last of the week. These players have made hundreds of friends in Fort Wayne, all of whom will turn out during the next few days at the Temple to show their appreciation of the efforts of their friends.

An amateur vaudeville performance for the children will be held in connection with the Saturday matinee and special prizes will be awarded the boy and girl winners.

URGE WILSON TO CALL NEUTRAL CONFERENCE

Women's Peace Party Asks Start in Effort to End the War.

Washington, May 18.—President Wilson today accepted an invitation to speak either Friday or Saturday of next week at a meeting here of the League to Enforce Peace, of which former President Taft is president. The president, in speaking to an anti-preparedness committee recently, suggested that if he was all nations might combine in a league to preserve peace with a common police force.

In celebration of the anniversary of the first Hague conference representatives of the women's peace party today urged President Wilson to take immediate steps to call a conference of neutral nations to make efforts to end the war in Europe. He was told meetings celebrating the first Hague conference, which was held in 1899, are being held today in many neutral countries. Mr. W. Thompson Burch, chairman of the local branch of the women's peace party, and Mrs. Charles Edward Russell and Mrs. John J. White, vice-chairman, informed the president they believed the only thing delaying peace in Europe was the beginning of the movement by neutral nations.

Mrs. James Smead and E. G. Crow, of Saugatuck, Mich., arrived in the city Wednesday evening, being called here on account of the serious illness of their sister, Miss Jessie Crow, of the White apartments. Miss Crow was operated upon Thursday at St. Joseph hospital for appendicitis.

WINS AFTER 27 YEARS' STRUGGLE

Elijah Eckenbarger at Last Defeats Troubles With the Aid of Tanlac.

Elijah Eckenbarger, 61 years old, a well known farmer who lives on rural route No. 29, Fort Wayne, is one of the firmest of the hundreds of friends Tanlac, the Master Medicine, has made in this city and vicinity. He recently said:

"For the last twenty-seven years I have suffered from rheumatism and rheumatism. Severe rheumatic pains came in my arms and shoulders, and neuralgia pains came in various parts of my body. I was bothered so that I hardly could sleep at night. I also have had kidney trouble for the last five years, pains in my back bothering me.

"I saw Tanlac advertised and decided to give the medicine a trial. I had taken only about a half bottle of Tanlac when I realized the kidney and neuralgia pains were gradually becoming less severe. Soon I began to feel better in every way. Now the rheumatic and kidney pains have practically all disappeared.

"I can do a whole day's work with more ease now than I formerly could do two hours' work. Tanlac is doing away with my troubles of years' standing, and I therefore am glad to recommend it. I already have told dozens of friends about the medicine. My son, who is 23 years old, is taking Tanlac now."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism, nervousness, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, and the like and is a fine blood purifier and general tonic.

Tanlac is now being introduced in Fort Wayne at the Wayne and Calhoun streets store of the Meyer Drug Co., where the Tanlac Man is explaining the new remedy. It also may be obtained at the other Meyer stores, Calhoun and Columbia, 1420 Calhoun and Broadway and Taylor.—Advertisement.

DONALD ROBERTSON, PAGEANTMASTER.

Donald Robertson

The Man Who is Entering Upon Final Rehearsals of Vast Acting Company of Over 1,000 People Who Will Present the Great Pageant of Fort Wayne.

ONE OF the most remarkable men who has come into the life of Fort Wayne in many a year is Donald Robertson, the man upon whose shoulders has fallen the responsibility of training 1,140 amateur actors—all true Fort Wayne citizens—and making of them the interpreters of the thrilling story of Fort Wayne. William Owen, close friend and stage associate of Donald Robertson, who has been called in to serve as assistant in the great undertaking, speaks of his friend in an article which he has been requested to prepare for the press:

DONALD ROBERTSON
(By William Owen)

In selecting Donald Robertson as its pageant master, the centennial committee has secured one of the most important figures on the American stage, and one whose career is a combination of youthful desire carried out with a romantic movement that would have delighted Dumas or Scott.

In a recent talk with the writer of these lines, Mr. Robertson, in going over some of his earlier experiences, drew some happy, quaint moving pictures that I was forced to say to myself, "Romance, driven out of every other occupation, is making its last stand in the theater." Not that there was anything overdrawn or sensational in the telling. Mr. Robertson is far too modest for that. It was the simple story of a boy who had an ideal, with the initiative and the vigor to put it into operation, and the story was the simple happenings that befell him on the way.

His Boyhood.

Literature had been his passion from his earliest years, and being gifted with rare powers of expression, what more natural than that he should wish others to share his delight in the master piece? At school, his masters recognized his powers from the first, and encouraged his natural bent, with the result that at seventeen, he was offered the chair of oratory in three very exclusive schools in Manhattan and Brooklyn.

His First Stage Experience

But elocution did not offer wide enough scope for the ambition of young Robertson. It represented to his young mind only one side of life. The stage as his idealism received it, took in the whole state of man, and to the stage he turned.

There was playing at that time in New York an eccentric genius, a German Jew named Bandman, whose activities began in one of the court theaters of his native land, had been transferred to England, where he had much success playing in the English language. To him, Robertson went with his ambition in one hand and his courage in the other. Bandman was a good deal of a bear off the stage, and he growled out to the aspirant:

"What do you want to go upon the stage for?"

In Shakespearean Repertoire

Thus his professional career had its beginning in a Shakespearean repertoire. When the time came for the company to leave New York, he was offered a part in one of the three reigning successes, and as the company included four very fine actors, Robertson concluded that training in the modern drama under such masters would be more, and he accepted. From the moment he started rehearsals, his eagerness to learn and his evident talent appeared at once, and all that these actors had heard of their art was at his disposal, for actors are generous, and when they see a disposition, capable and anxious to learn, there are no pains they will not take to develop it.

A season followed in a very good stock company in which a constant change of bill developed alertness, quick study and variety. It was hard work of the most unceasing kind, but it paid.

His Opportunity.

And now an opportunity presented itself which was to give him a national reputation. Hard work, he had been portion up to this time, and chance was to give the result the acid test to determine whether he was the gold.

"The Two Orphans" was the most popular success of the day. Kate Klinton was the star as Louise, the girl. She was in need of a Pierre, the poor crippled boy of the play. Candidate after candidate had been tried out and all had failed.

In the company in which he was then playing were two very remarkable actors, F. E. Mackey and Louise Sylvester. The first of these had been the original Pierre in its celebrated run at the Union Square, and he was the one who suggested that Robertson try for the part. The two now began to prepare him for his trial.

It is usually a long time before a young actor feels sure enough of himself to allow his feelings to dominate his technique. His lack of experience warned him to stick to the directions, and if he is capable of remembering all he has been told it is usually all that is expected of him. During one of the lessons of preparation for his trial, Miss Sylvester, carried away by her enthusiasm and knowledge of the genuine requirements of the part, broke in:

"No! No! That is not enough! It is too cold—too mechanical. Do this." And she went through the part with heart-breaking pathos.

Young Robertson stood spellbound. He had never seen such acting at rehearsal before but his keen mind recognized that this was what made the audience feel—that a moment of it was worth an hour of the most calculated effect. Gathering himself together, he concentrated his emotions into one final outburst of tears and sobs that not only shook himself, but carried his teachers with him.

They sent him to his trial. All the way up Fifth avenue, he limped so that the passerby turned in pity to look at him. Arriving at Miss Claxton's apartments, he went through the scene and was enthusiastically accepted. His success in the part was nation wide.

His Stage Career.

His subsequent career is a matter of theatrical history both in this country and in England. Always on the side of the highest and the best, he has never lowered the standards for the sake of commercial gain. His organization of one of the most brilliant companies that speaks the English language is a matter of recent record. He has introduced many of the unplayed classics to this country. He has been bold enough to produce Milton's "Comus," Voltaire's "The Prodigal," Goethe's "Faust," "Tasso," Moliere's "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," "Tartuffe," and "Miser," all plays which to other managers had the temerity to produce. He has been the inspiration of some of the biggest successes, such as Moody's "The Great Divide," and "The Faith Healer." He has encouraged many dramatists who would never otherwise have been heard of, by producing or helping to correct their works. He has taught many of the most successful young men and women now in the theater.

His latest work is the "Fort Wayne Pageant," to which he is giving the result of his long experience, and from which he is getting marvelous results.

Do you wonder that I say your committee has made the best choice that could be found in America?

"We view the world with our own eyes, each of us, and we make from within us the world we see," wrote Thackeray. "A weary heart sets no gladness out of sunshine; a selfish man is skeptical about friendship; a man with no ear doesn't care for music."

POPULAR NOTIONS LARGELY HEARSAY

We're Frequently Wrong About Food Supply, Says Barnard.

Indianapolis, May 18.—That popular notions about the food supply are largely hearsay and therefore frequently wrong, was the statement made before the Indiana Canners' association today by H. E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner.

"Food faddists and self-appointed reformers are taking charge of our dietaries and telling us what to eat and how to eat it," he said. "It is time more perfect knowledge about food was available. This information is necessary both for the man who eats and the manufacturer who prepares foods. The present day canner leads in the conservation of fruits and vegetables. He has learned how to pack away the surplus of orchard and garden that he may enjoy them when fresh fruits and vegetables are not obtainable.

"In the development of his business the canner has had an uphill fight. He has faced and downed the bugaboo of ptomaines; of tin poisoning; of the destruction of the vitamins. He has yet a long way to go before the can of corn, peas or tomatoes is accepted in every household as a safe, wholesome and palatable food, just as the loaf of bread from the baker or potatoes and apples from the barrel are accepted and eaten without question.

"Canned food is valuable not only because it is possible through the magic of the can to conserve surplus, it is valuable because it is good food, ready to serve from the can, without the expense of preparation, without trouble to the cook and with pleasurable satisfaction to the circle around the dinner table.

"The canner has been so busy fighting the phantoms which have assailed his industry that he has not had time to teach its real value in terms of food or labor saved. It is possible to translate a can of corn, of peas, of hominy, into units of food value and to show how it is possible at slight expense to feed the family the vegetables rich in mineral salts which are necessary to proper nutrition.

"It is equally possible to point out the economical use of canned goods by showing that by their use the trouble of preparation and the cost of fuel for cooking is largely estimated. This is a matter of no small moment which must very properly be taken into consideration by the housewife who is preparing dinner.

"The quality of canned goods is accepted without question. All canned goods put up in the modern factory are good food, but for superior canned goods, packed from the finest vegetables outdoors, in the most sanitary factories anywhere operated, and by the finest set of canners ever gathered in convention, I commend to you the can which bears the label 'packed in Indiana.'"

Miss Ethel Saum went to Fort Wayne Wednesday, where she will visit her uncle, Dr. G. W. McCaskey, and family.

The wedding of Miss Rose Frances Reising, of this place, and Francis Joseph McArdle, of Monroeville, Ind., which took place at St. Mary's Catholic church at this place Tuesday morning, was largely attended. Rev. Father Capps officiated, assisted by Rev. Father John Berthelot, of North Baltimore.

Mrs. J. Hertle presided at the organ. The floral decorations of the altar were profuse, while many brilliant lights added much to the occasion. The bride and groom, after a short honeymoon trip, will be at home on a farm near Monroeville.

The second annual Paulding county track meet was held at the fair grounds at Paulding Saturday last, the high schools of the county being represented.

Out of a possible 126 points, Antwerp high school won 61 points, a record not touched by any other school in the county. The high individual scores were won by Hudson and Fleck, Seoby winning in the mile and half-mile race. Payne was second in all events with a total of 36; Paulding third, with 15; Grover Hill fourth, with 14; Latty fifth, with 2.

The graduating class this year comprises the following students who have completed the four-year course: Luella Hughes, Lela Wentworth, Edith N. Donnell, Cernanthe Cummings, Zela M. Mitchell, Margaret M. Burgess, Earl Babcock, Edwin W. Schunk, Ralph E. Schooley, Paul Chester. The class motto is "Beauty of mind endureth forever."

Mrs. Elizabeth Cave, who has been spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Alphas Gaut, at Payne, has returned to her home at this place, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. James Humphrey, of Fort Wayne, who will remain with her for an indefinite time.

IT'S THE ALEXANDRIA WAY

Two Pretty Girls Drive Mashers Away With Umbrellas.

Alexandria, Ind., May 18.—"We'll have none of your sass around here," two "mashers" at the transfer station here heard from a pretty girl who, with a companion, was waiting for a car to Anderson. Two umbrellas in the hands of the young women then played a merry tune on the heads of the men who had attempted a flirtation. One of the girls started up the street to look for a policeman and the two "mashers" beat a hasty retreat down an alley. In the "battle" one of the umbrellas was broken, so vigorously was it used on the heads of the men.

THREE MEN ARE SHOT IN STRIKE RIOTING

Entire Police and Fire Departments Called Out at Ansonia, Conn.

Ansonia, Conn., May 18.—Three men were shot, one probably fatally, in a riot today at the plant of the Ansonia Manufacturing company, where between 150 and 200 men are on strike. One man was shot through the lungs and was taken to a hospital in a serious condition. The wounds of the other two were less serious. The strikers are said to have been aroused by a report that strike-breakers were being brought into town. They marched to the factory and began throwing stones through the windows of the factory building. Guards stationed inside the factory then fired into the crowd. The police force and fire departments were called to the scene and restored order.

placed next that of his wife, who died a month ago and whose death is believed to have caused the husband to become insane, was granted. Next to William Dollar was laid the body of his daughter, Agnes, then the baby, Ida, and last that of Mrs. George Dollar, mother of William, the three of whom William had killed. The only member of the household of six persons to attend the funeral was George Dollar, the father of William. The other member of the household, William's son, George, aged 7, continued in a critical condition at a local hospital from a bullet wound inflicted by the father.

eral days ago. The official Austrian statement of May 17 reports the capture of new positions on the Dobrodo plateau. The repulse this morning of three attacks by the French against German positions on hill 304, northwest of Verdun, was announced by the war office today.

FRENCH CLAIM VICTORIES.

Assert They Have Captured German Fort on Hill 304.

Paris, May 18.—Several attacks were made by German troops on the Verdun front last night in an effort to capture redoubts at Avocourt. The official statement of today says the Germans were repulsed each time and that they lost heavily. French troops after severe fighting, captured a German fort on the northeast slope of hill 304.

Three German trenches, north of hill 287, were raided by French forces, which killed or captured the occupants of these positions. On the Verdun front, east of the artillery on both sides was active during the night. Two French aeroplanes dropped eighty shells on the railway station at Metz on the night of May 16.

Marie Erb, daughter of J. L. Erb, 1720 Short street, was operated upon Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at St. Joseph hospital for appendicitis. The operation was performed by Dr. M. I. Rosenthal.

In the upper picture are some of the Fort Wayne society actors in the "Romance of Fort Wayne" being played before the movie camera here this week. A fire department run by No. 3 engine house, an element from a second story window of the John White residence, Miss Maribel Olds and Al Gessler being drenched by a fire hose, and an exciting chase up Calhoun street, are some of the features "shot" Thursday. In the lower photograph is the elopement scene.

NEW NAVAL BUILDING PROGRAM IS FRAMED

The committee voted 13-8 on the battle cruisers and submarines. Plans for reorganization of the Atlantic fleet, which will be announced shortly by Secretary Daniels, include the retirement of Admiral Fletcher as commander-in-chief, effective June 19.

DETOURING WELLS-
FARGO EXPRESS

East and West Business
Sent Around Chicago on Account of Strike.

The strike of the messengers and drivers of the Wells-Fargo Express company in Chicago is making a great deal extra work for the employees at Fort Wayne and elsewhere. All the express business from points east of Chicago to points west of that city and business from the west to the east, which under normal conditions passes through Chicago, is now being detoured and much of it comes through Fort Wayne and has to be handled here. This condition has existed for three days and the men at the depot office of the express company are getting tired of it and wondering when it will stop.

TO PREVENT AUTO ACCIDENTS.

Long Island Adopts Novel Method in "Safety First."

Continuing the campaign it conducted last year against reckless driving of automobiles over grade crossings, the Long Island railroad has announced that it will redouble its efforts in 1916, and that it hopes thereby to go through the summer without a single serious automobile accident at a grade crossing.

As the first step, the Long Island has issued a poster printed in red, orange and black. Under the caption of "We know you want to help us," the poster says:

"We tried hard last year to go through the summer without a fatal automobile accident at a grade crossing. We put up huge signs and we advertised extensively in the newspapers, warning people against reckless driving. As a result, no one was killed, but there were several serious accidents and many hair-breadth escapes. We are redoubling our efforts this year. We hope to go through the summer without a single serious accident. We cannot do it without your help. Please! Stop before you cross."

BUSINESS DROPPING OFF.

Nickel Plate Begins to Feel the Lighter Movement.

Freight business on the east and west roads through Fort Wayne and particularly the Nickel Plate, which has been doing a record business for the time of year, has commenced to fall off, though there has been no great reduction in crews. H. L. Phillips, traveling engineer for the Fort Wayne division, who has been in the city a day or two looking into the smoke abatement problem, said this morning that so far only one crewman and a fireman—had been dropped from the Fort Wayne division regular list. The train crews have not yet been affected, but it is expected that they will be in a few days. From Conneaut comes the news that five crews on the Buffalo division have been dropped, but the men affected have not been furnished or dismissed.

PAINTERS HAVE A BLOWOUT.

No. 469, Painters and Decorators' union, held an open meeting, which was followed by a banquet last night. There were upwards of 250 present and the affair was full of interest for the division. Henry Hietje, representing the American Federation of Labor, was present and delivered an address and there were addresses by others. The committee who had charge of the entertainment was composed of S. W. Burroughs, August Fink, Edward Kirlinger, Mason Reed and M. Urran.

SUBSTITUTE FOR GASOLINE

Harrison G. Shoupe, of Sandusky, O., has discovered a good and inexpensive substitute for gasoline, he claims. With a half-pint of the liquid and 100 gallons of water, he can produce a "stuff" that can be substituted for gasoline in any desired way, he says. He gave a demonstration of the fluid before a number of newspapermen and they were surprised at the results.

SPECIAL RATES TO EAST

Local ticket agents have been advised of the granting of excursion rates—$29.80 for the round trip—from Fort Wayne to New York city on account of the meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs on May 20, 21, 22 and 23. The inquiries at the Pennsylvania, the Wabash and the Nickel Plate office indicate an interest in the rate and that there will be some travel to New York on that occasion.

SAM SPEECE IMPROVING.

S. P. Speece, Pennsylvania passenger engineer, who was struck by a mail crane at Monroeville, yesterday, is doing well at the St. Joseph hospital under the treatment of Dr. Budd Van Sweringen. T. P. Mower, sixty-five years old, for a third of a century employed on the Wabash, died as brakeman and later as conductor, first at the company's hospital in Peru yesterday. He was a member of the B. R. T. and the O. R. C. and those orders will have charge of the funeral.

The prosperity that has spread over the country has caused a change in sentiment about some things in certain quarters. A Toledo community is now protesting against the "hacking of hammers and the buzzing of blowers" in an industrial plant in their midst, which two years ago was without order and giving but little work to men, a condition the neighbors protested against just as vigorously as they protest against present conditions.

THREE MONTHS AT FARM FOR A THIEF

Robert Castle Convicted of Robbery at Geake Stone Yards.

Robert Castle, a hobo stonecutter, was convicted in the city court, Thursday morning, on a charge of petit larceny for breaking open tool-boxes of employees at the Geake stone yards on Pearl street, and was fined $20 and costs with sixty days added, all to be served at the state penal farm. The penalty will keep Castle there three months. The robbery was committed Sunday, and an investigation by Detective Sergeants W. P. Pappert and M. A. Rindell, pointed to Castle as the thief. He had pawned the stolen tools to get money to buy drinks. He was arrested by Detective Pappert. Castle declared in court that he had pawned the tools for a stranger.

Other City Court Cases.

Alvin Dietel established a complete alibi in the city court and Judge H. W. Waveland Kerr found him not guilty of a charge that he had driven his jitney two miles an hour. Ray said he had no recollection of the accident at Calhoun street and Douglas avenue. He was fined the state had failed to give the correct license number of a car owned by Dietel and driven by another person.

Grover Ray, an employee of the Traction company, was fined $10 and costs for exceeding the speed limit. He was arrested on South Wayne avenue Tuesday by Motorcycle Officer John Lynch, after giving a sprint at thirty miles per hour on his machine and did not think he was going too fast, though he had but a few minutes in which to report for work and was hastening.

Charles Richmond, Lawrence Guthrie and James Burns, drunks, were fined $3 and costs each, and Tom Hayes, another drunk $1 and costs.

Dan McGinnis, a loiterer, was turned loose.

Phil Mendel, a loiterer, arrested after he had pawned a ring, told a straight story of coming here from Columbia City, where he had been employed in a woolen mill, needing cash and negotiating a loan. He was allowed to leave town.

Arthur Carter, a negro, who was taken from a merchandise car on the Nickel Plate railroad by Capt. C. L. Bonk, of that railway's special police, was continued until the 23rd inst. Some merchandise has been reported missing from the car.

The cast against John Hagerman, the building contractor who is charged with operating a motor car while intoxicated, was set for trial next Monday. The case has been pending several weeks. Hagerman drove his motor truck into a collision with a jitney bus at Clinton and Washington streets, and a woman passenger in the jitney had a leg broken.

Phonograph Was No Inducement

With the ammunition factories, the stores and the other factories engaging women in their services, it is nearly impossible to find any but inefficient help for house work.

One Fort Wayne man, however, thought he had solved the problem. When he built his new home he gave the architect special instructions regarding the rooms that were to be occupied by the maid and other help. He had a phonograph installed for their amusement, folding beds, and every convenience that would make life a matter of fact he never did have much trouble in keeping his help, but he realized that the new home would mean extra work and he thought the phonograph and the other conveniences would make up the difference.

But he awakened one morning a week or two after moving into the new home, to find that the help had quit. And both he and the Mrs. have been experiencing no little trouble in getting desirable help, notwithstanding the phonograph and other inducements offered.

Fort Wayne brokers have been informed by letter that the Indiana Association of Licensed and Small Loan Brokers will hold its state convention in Indianapolis on May 26, instead of May 24.

LAWN INSPECTION IS INAUGURATED

First Scoring of Premises in Backyards Contest is Begun.

The work of inspecting lawns in the backyard contest in the clean-up and beautification campaign that is to proceed during the summer in Fort Wayne was inaugurated Thursday by the women chosen to do the scoring. The system of scoring establishes a possible 200 points—100 for civic beauty and 100 for sanitary conditions. That person who receives the highest average will be the winner.

The work of inspection is going rapidly and well. There will be two other inspections at later periods in the season.

Scoring for Civic Beauty.

In judging the yards on the point of civic beauty grades on four different phases will be given. For the general plan, based on the elements of landscape gardening—open space, planning in mass and avoiding straight lines—35 points will be given.

For general appearance 30 points will be given. This will include the idea of the best view, flower beds, etc., and the entire yard to the center of the alley will be taken into consideration. For cultural care 20 points will be given and 15 points will be allowed on arrangement.

Sanitary Scoring.

The following things will be considered for sanitary conditions:

First, toilets, 35 points. Consideration will be given to general appearance, outside or inside, open privy, and if open, whether screened or unscreened, etc.

Second, garbage, 35 points. The method of disposal will figure in here. Consideration will be given to the container, whether of wood or metal, and whether or not the tin cans are perforated.

Third, drainage, 15 points. Whether the drainage is open or closed, whether the dishwasher is thrown in the back yard, and conditions such as these will be taken into consideration.

Fourth, alleys, 15 points. The manure boxes will be considered and judged on whether or not they are closed. General cleanliness, fences, etc., will enter. Where window boxes are under consideration the harmonious coloring and whether or not they are evenly balanced will be the determining factors.

Board of Councilors Meet.

There was a meeting of the board of councilors, at the office of the board of health, Wednesday evening. Owing to numerous other meetings of various sorts in the city the attendance was not as large as was desired, but there was a discussion of plans and Mrs. Josephine Nesbitt, who is in charge of the campaign, discussed phases of the work with the councilors present. Hereafter there will be regular meetings of the councilors every Thursday evening at the office of the board of health, beginning next week.

Mrs. Nesbitt wants very much to get the addresses of a number of children who have fled applications in the backyards contest and have failed to tell where they live. Every effort to locate them has failed. The following are asked to send their addresses to Mrs. Nesbitt: Lester Felner, Eva Lites, Maurice Layton, Earl Roberts, Roth Opal Roberts, Raymond Monroe, Allan Ray, Herbert Ek and Joseph Birch.

LANDED IN A FENCE CORNER.

A. J. Diehl Is in Hospital With a Fractured Collar Bone.

A. J. Diehl, proprietor of the U. I. restaurant on West Main street, sustained a fractured collar bone and other injuries, Wednesday when he was thrown from a side car attached to a motorcycle in which he was riding, landing in a fence corner at the side of the Bass road half a mile from the city. He is now at St. Joseph hospital.

Diehl has a motorcycle for sale and James Joseph, a Nickel Plate brakeman, was a prospective purchaser. Before making the purchase, however, he wanted to try it out. Telling Diehl he could drive the machine, Joseph took the throttle and Diehl held the handlebars. The motorcycle went until it hit a bad spot in the road and when Diehl awakened he was in a fence corner. One of his shoes was later found in a field near by. Joseph escaped with a few minor bruises. Notwithstanding the injuries he received, Diehl failed to dispose of his machine.

REHEARING ASKED
BY CITY ATTORNEY

Petitions Supreme Court in Ornamental Lighting Assessments.

City Attorney Guy Colerick has just filed in the supreme court a petition for a rehearing in the case of Frank P. Will vs. the city of Fort Wayne for an injunction to restrain collection of the assessments for the ornamental lighting system on Calhoun street south of the railroad. In a recent decision the supreme court held that the city could enforce collection of assessments only for the lamp-posts and not for any other part of the installation. The petition for rehearing sets up that in one instance the supreme court erred and that in another it did not decide an essential question in its ruling.

Concordia Track Is Under Construction

Quarter Mile Cinder Path and Athletic Field at College

Capt. George E. Byroade has been hard at work on the Concordia college quarter mile track and athletic field in the past week or ten days and it will not be long before they will be ready for use. The track is a quarter mile, and runs around the edge of the big campus, while the tennis courts and athletic field are within it.

The campus is more or less rolling, with a low portion in the northeast corner, and a rise of probably three feet to the southwest end of the grounds. It is necessary to cut down the upper end and to fill in the lower and the Grace Construction company has been employed to haul in several hundred loads of earth for filling. As soon as the leveling is completed the cinder path will be laid, and it is hoped to have it in shape for working out early in June.

The tennis courts will be constructed toward the west end of the campus and there will be a number of them in a row. The gymnasium runs along the east end and between the courts and the gym will be a field large enough to conduct any field maneuvers the school battalion wishes to engage in.

WHITE-WELSH BOUT NOW IS CINCHED

It Will Go Over Twenty Rounds in South America.

New York, May 18.—Nate Lewis, on behalf of Charley White, today agreed to the terms of the South American promoters for a twenty round bout between White and Welsh, to take place in Buenos Aires the middle of July. Billy Gibson, representing the promoters, agreed to post 50 per cent. of White's guarantee in New York, the balance to be posted with the referee in Buenos Aires one week before the bout. Besides the purse White is to receive $1,000 extra for training expenses and three round trip tickets from Chicago.

Should the promoters for some unforeseen reason be unable to pull off the contest, they agree to forfeit the amount they have posted in America to White. Welsh's contract contains the same stipulations, and was satisfactory to him and his manager, Harry Pollock.

Gibson was agreed upon by all parties concerned as stakeholder. The South Americans agreed to post their money, which will amount to $17,000, by May 25. Part of this money goes as a forfeit for Jack Britton and Ted Lewis, who were matched to box today at the same carnival.

Moving pictures will be taken of the White-Welsh match and the promoters have allowed the boxers a 50 per cent interest. White and Welsh also were offered several lucrative theatrical offers, the same to begin with their arrival on South American soil. The fighters will sail June 17.

Lewis, White's manager, will leave for Chicago tomorrow morning to prepare White for two contests before sailing. He meets Milburn Saylor May 25 at Cincinnati and Ritchie Mitchell on May 29 at Milwaukee.

WISH CATHOLIC BOYS' HOME.

Lafayette Workers Begin Movement to Obtain Proposed Institution.

Lafayette, Ind., May 18.—Lafayette has begun an active campaign to obtain the Father Gibault Home for Catholic Boys, an institution the Knights of Columbus will found in the state. Final action on the proposition was taken at the fifteenth annual state convention of the order here last week and Lafayette is being considered seriously as the location. About fifty acres will be needed for the home. The Knights of Columbus throughout the state and the institution probably will be under the direction of Bishops Chartrand and Alerding of the Indianapolis and Fort Wayne dioceses. Stephen A. Callahan, of Fort Wayne, is the chairman of the commission which has charge of the project, and the other members are William J. Mooney, Indianapolis, and Rev. Father Jansen, of Gary.

MATTY MASTERS THE SPITTER.

Christy Mathewson has added the spitter to his long repertoire of pitching craft which hitherto featured the fastaway and the brainball. The old master doesn't possess the speed he once did, but he has added materially to his effectiveness by including the dampball, which he adopted a year ago. Now he uses it quite often and controls it so well he baffles many batters with it.

Matty resorted to the spitter several times during a recent game at Pittsburgh and was successful.

In addition Lawrence is the home of Eddie Teschner, crack Harvard sprinter.

Oberlin, O., May 18.—Oberlin college boasts a three-fingered pitcher named Tillman, who is fast acquiring a statewide reputation as a strikeout expert. The curves and shoots frequently fool Tillman's battery mate, Ciaque.

Jeffersonville, Ind., May 17.—Not every parole violator from the Indiana reformatory is necessarily a complete failure, the officials say, and they are pointing to the case of a young man, paroled about a year ago, who now is fighting "somewhere in France" with a contingent of troops from Canada. In letters he has written to the reformatory officials he has asserted he will come back if he lives through the war.

UNGUARDED CONVICTS PLAY BASEBALL GAME

Columbus, O., May 18.—Murderers, burglars, confidence men and pickpockets composing the Ohio penitentiary baseball team, today played an amateur game at the local American association ball park. It was said to be the first time that a convict team, unguarded, has been permitted to play outside of prison walls. Proceeds of the game will go to charity.

The prison band, composed of thirty convicts, accompanied the team to the park, and before the game and between innings entertained the crowd with lively airs. The sporting editor of the Ohio Penitentiary News, which is published by the convicts within the prison, represented the paper which will carry a full account.

Several prison officials attended the game but none of them were armed, all of the convicts being on their honor not to attempt to escape.

WISHES TO SERVE IN MEXICO

"Hanging Sheriff of Andersonville," 73, Would Like to Enlist.

Danville, Ill., May 18.—J. W. Payne, age seventy-three, "the hanging sheriff" of Andersonville prison, is anxious to take a hand in the Mexican trouble. In spite of his age, he says, he is in good condition for service. Mr. Payne lives near Danville on a small farm. He gained fame during the civil war when he was a prisoner at Andersonville. With Big Pete McCullough, of Mexico, Mo., who died a few months ago, he was in charge of the hanging of six of his fellow-prisoners at Andersonville when the men were convicted of stealing the scanty rations of other prisoners. As Payne often has expressed it, "they took our lives when they took our grub," and it was necessary to put a stop to the thieving.

Captain Wirz, who was in command of the prison, permitted the prisoners to organize a court and try the men believed to be guilty. McCullough was elected judge and Payne was elected sheriff. A gallows was erected within the stockade, and after a two days' trial, the ringleaders, six in number, were hanged.

Jack Vann, last year catcher for Terre Haute, and considered one of the strong men of the league, and who went to Salt Lake City the early part of this season, has been turned back to Gilbert's Terriers. Snakes Make Finest of Pets for the Kiddies, Says Snake Apostle

Man Devotes His Life to Fighting Hatred for Reptiles, and Converts Children Into Lovers of the Wriggling Creatures.

By Kenneth W. Payne.

New York, May 18.—Have you a little reptile in your home?

If not, you ought to grab the next snake you encounter and carry it home for the kiddies to play with! So says Allen Samuel Williams, apostle of serpenthood.

Williams once took 500 snakes into his house to live with him. Having learned all about them, he is traveling over the country with a suit case full of reptiles and converting boys and girls at the rate of several thousand a year into snake lovers.

"Of all wild creatures the easiest to tame and adapt to home companionship is the snake," says Williams, who has an office in the Metropolitan tower from where he will soon start on his annual tour to hundreds of summer camps to lecture to boys and girls. Williams is devoting his life to fighting the fear and hatred of snakes.

"Snakes and little children get along beautifully together."

"If fear and hate of reptiles were instinctive, children and women, most subject to such influences, would have the most uncontrollable panic when confronted with the creatures. But contrary to all common belief, I have found girls and women are much less afraid of snakes than men!"

"On the entire north American continent there are only two families and four species of venomous snakes. East of the Mississippi and north of the Potomac there are about a score of absolutely harmless snakes to two kinds that can hurt humans."

"So there is little reason for the hysterical clucking to death of every snake that crosses your path."

"Once you have learned the simple means of distinguishing the four poisonous species, the sport of collecting snakes becomes fascinating and is without risk."

"Any snake will bite, but only with his foot teeth, which are as fine as fish bones, and make only a little puncture or scratch. Since the snake swallows his food whole, there is no decaying matter caught in his teeth, and when he does bite, you needn't even use peroxide on the scratch."

"Snakes are nervous creatures, and feel quickly whether they are being handled by a person who fears or who understands them."

"The common black snake is the most highly nervous while the python is said to be the most intelligent, but because of its limited means of expression, the depth of a snake's intelligence cannot be sounded satisfactorily.

"Of all the foolish superstitions about snakes one of the silliest is the belief that the tongue, which the snake darts out at you when he is cornered, is a sting."

"It serves as a tongue, as a feeler; use when the snake is blind during the time his skin is scaling off, and lastly as his ears! It cannot hurt you any more than any other part of the snake can."

The Doctor's Advice

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Eldwood Sts., Dayton, O. enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name, and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

Comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balsam-wort, 1 oz.; syrup anemartica comp., 6 oz.; wine of colchicum, one-half oz.; sodium salicylate, 4 drams; iodide of potassium, 2 drams.

Miss Bertie L. asks: "What remedy can you recommend to reduce obesity safely? I want to reduce about thirty pounds."

Answer: I rely on five-grain arsenic tablets as being the most effective and convenient treatment to reduce abnormal fat. Druggists supply this in sealed tubes with complete directions. After the first few days a pound a day is not too much reduction.

Mrs. M. D. D. asks: "Do you think it is possible for me to increase my weight from 97 pounds to about 125 pounds?"

Answer: Yes, I believe that the regular use of a special tonic tablet will do this for you as it has for thousands of others. Ask your druggist for three-grain hypophosphoric tablets in sealed packages with full directions. Take them for several months to get the full benefit.

John C. L. writes: "I find my natural strength and nervous system failing me. I do not recuperate as of yore. My food and rest seem not to benefit me as they should. Am weak, despondent and unable to perform the duties which were assumed earlier in life, while my ambition for work and pleasure is slowly going."

Answer: I think a powerful, harmless tonic and nerve medicine will rejuvenate and restore the functions of digestion, assimilation and elimination by invigorating the nervous system. Obtain three-grain adenomene tablets, packed in sealed tubes, and take as per directions accompanying.

"Sarah" says: "Can anything be done for one who is bothered with rheumatism? If so, please reply."

PREPAREDNESS PARADE IDEA SWEEPING OVER NATION; MILLIONS TO MARCH.

Plans are being made in cities in all parts of the country for holding preparedness parades, on the order of the New York parade, pictured above, an indication that the preparedness demonstration idea is sweeping the nation.

The first preparedness parade was held in Cleveland, Washington's birthday.

One hundred and fifty thousand men and women took part in the New York parade. It took the marchers 13 hours to pass a given point. The picture, taken from a skyscraper, shows the marchers in a human river in Fifth avenue.

It is predicted that a similar parade in Chicago would call out nearly as many persons as took part in the New York demonstration. Parades in other large cities would call out about 100,000 in each case and with parades in smaller cities millions would march to demonstrate their patriotic spirit and desire for national preparedness.

SHRINERS HOPE TO SET A NEW RECORD

Convention in July Will Take 100,000 Visitors to Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 16.—Arrangements are being made for the holding of the annual convention of the imperial council of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine in this city, July 11, 12 and 13, and it is announced that unusual efforts are being made to set a new record this year for assemblages of this character. It is estimated that the convention will bring to Buffalo close to a hundred thousand persons.

J. Putnam Stevens, imperial potentate, of Portland, Me., has just completed a tour of the southern and Pacific states and the Hawaiian islands, devoted to urging the temples he visited to send large delegations to the 1916 Mecca. Buffalo has pledged $100,000 for the entertainment of the visitors. Many of the special trains in which the delegates will make the pilgrimage will be luxuriously fitted out. One California temple is spending $75,000 on its trip. The Chicago Shriner has engaged the largest passenger steamer on the Great Lakes for the water trip to Buffalo and are putting $40,000 into their excursion.

Among the amusement features planned is a national airplane race scheduled to open here July 12. Negotiations are under way to remove, if possible the Canadian government's objection to visitors at the Fort Niagara camps, so that the shriners may be accorded the privilege of seeing the Overseas regiments at training.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will cure One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by local applications. Send for circulars, free.

Dyspeptics Should Avoid Drugs And Medicines

Try a Little Magnesia Instead.

Some people instinctively shut their eyes to danger, and it may be that instinct or custom or habit cause dyspeptics to take drugs, patent foods and medicines, artificial digestants, etc.

But closing the eyes does not banish the danger, and it is certain that neither drugs nor medicines possess the power to destroy the harmful excessive acid in the stomach, which is the underlying cause of most forms of indigestion and dyspepsia. They may give temporary relief, but ever increasing quantities must be taken, and all the time the acid remains in the stomach as dangerous as ever.

Physicians know this and that is why their advice so often to sufferers from digestive and stomach trouble is "Just get about an ounce of pure bisulphated magnesia from your druggist and take a teaspoonful in a little water immediately after every meal. This will instantly neutralize the harmful acid in the stomach and stop all food fermentation, thus enabling you to enjoy hearty meals without experiencing the least pain or unpleasantness afterward."

RELIGION, TEMPERANCE AND HEALTH

What the King of Glory Did for Jimmy Smith

Jimmy Smith in 1862 was the terror of his regiment. He could cause his officers more trouble than the enemy could. He could drink the most whiskey, swear the loudest, and fight the hardest of any man in his company.

One day quite a number of new recruits came to the regiment, among whom was a Methodist class leader. One of the first things this Methodist leader did upon reaching camp was to organize a prayer meeting. And one of the first things that Jimmy Smith did upon hearing of this innovation was to resolve to break it up. With this purpose in view he called to his assistance two boon companions and started on the prayer tent. The plan was to turn over a rail fence upon the praying hand. Reaching the place of prayer, Smith and his companions were arrested by the sound of the leader's voice in earnest supplication.

"God," said the voice, "bless these many boys, who although far from home, are not so far away as to be beyond the reach of mother's love, and of mother's prayers which still go up to them at morning, noon and night, beneath the roof of the old childhood home. Some of the boys' fathers have fallen pretty low in morals and habits, but mother loves them just the same, and prays on, and hopes. O God, we beseech Thee, save them everyone."

"Boys," said Jimmy Smith, a great lump rising in his throat, "I guess we had better put off this job for another night."

And they went quietly back to their quarters, and the little company prayed on and never thought of danger this so near.

Strange to say, Jimmy Smith passed a restless night. As he would drop into a fitful sleep, he would dream of mother and hear again that prayer, and then it would come to him how changed a man he was from what he used to be; for he had been quite a man at home, but here he was mostly called "drunken Jim" and "rowdy Smith." He awoke the next morning with such depression on him that he felt he must have drunk at once to drown his conscience and release him from his misery. Now the commissary of the regiment had been forbidden to sell him liquor of any kind, and the only way he could obtain it was by getting a pass and going to Alexandria, and purchasing it. He accordingly went to his captain and asked for a pass, and was refused. After a little he went again, and the captain seeing that he was depressed in spirits and seemed quite anxious to go, said to him:

"Smith, there is one thing I can say in your favor—you have always kept your word with me, and if you will promise not to touch a drop of liquor while absent from camp I will give you a pass."

Jimmy at first refused to comply with the terms, but then he decided to get away from his companions because, strong that he finally made the promise, received his pass, and started for the city.

After getting a little way beyond the limits of the encampment there seemed to be two voices speaking in his ears. One voice said, "Get gloriously drunk; Jim, down care; break your promise; have one more old rollicking day." The other voice said, "Go into the woods, Jim; make an effort to be a man; talk with God; remember mother and home." He turned into a wood, and sitting down beneath the shade of a tree, the voice whispered, "Kneel and pray, pray loud." A squirrel flitting about caused a moment's hesitation, and then Jimmy Smith knelt and poured out his soul to God in confession of sin, in cries for help in his time of need, and for faith to his promises. As he prayed, he came, and Jimmy rose to his feet a saved man.

He hastened back to camp to tell his captain of the change that had come to him, but not finding him in, went to the first lieutenant's tent, who was a Christian, and who said to Jimmy as soon as he saw him, "Smith, you are a converted man."

"I am," said Smith, "and I wish you to aid me with your prayers, that I may let my life speak well for God as my old life has for Satan."

Time went on, the terrible war closed—peace, sweet peace, came to heal the wounds that years of cruel strife had made. In the meantime Jimmy Smith had been called of God and set apart by the church for the office and work of the ministry, and had done good work in the Master's cause. God so stamped His image on Jimmy's face that the people seemed at sight to feel that he was a man of God.

that he was an ambassador for Christ. The tones of his voice, the tender chords of heart, and the clasp of his hand were warm and helpful. Going on one occasion to talk with the workmen of a large foundry, the men excused themselves from shaking hands because they were so shivering. Jimmy, however, took their hands in his, and until it looked like theirs, and then none refused to shake, and thus he won their hands and hearts.

But Jimmy Smith had never forgotten the owner of the voice that offered that prayer which had resulted in his reformation, and it so happened one summer day he came to the place where the class leader lived, and held a series of revival services. Of course, one of his first inquiries was for the man who had been so great a help to him, and he was grieved to learn that the man was now himself a perfect wreck. Trouble and loss had come to him, and in a week hour he had taken to drink and was now a poor backslidden man. Then Jimmy resolved to try and do for that man what he had done for him. But the man avoided him, and managed to keep out of sight. When he called where he lived, he had just gone out, and when he visited places where he was usually found, he was not there. Then, in despair, Jimmy asked God to send the man to him, and God did so.

One night, soon after his having left the matter with the Lord, he got up to preach. He spent his man's way back in the farthest corner of the church, and he knew him, notwithstanding all the change that time and sin had made. He knew him because he loved him, and it was love that revealed him to him. He had arisen to announce his text, but behold the answer to his prayer, he commenced immediately to tell as he had never told before, the story of his conversion, and as he talked the people wept. Suddenly the speaker stopped, and seemed to offer a silent prayer, and then speaking to the audience, said:

"Friends, the man whose prayer and influence did so much for me in the years gone by, is this house tonight, and I feel I can go on with this service until he comes forward and gives me a shake of his hand."

And the man came forward, and great was the astonishment of the audience when they saw who it was, and great was their rejoicing, too, when the man said as he still wept:

"Brother Smith, I give not only my hand to you, but I also give my heart once more to God, and by His help will now try to live for Him again."

Then a great hallelujah went up from the congregation, and after a while new shouts of victory followed; several others found the Lord that very night.

Prayer and Power

If you want your spiritual life to be more healthy and vigorous, you must just come more boldly to the throne of grace. The secret of your weakness is your little faith and little prayer.

The fountain is unsealed, but you only sip a few drops. The bread of life is before you, yet you only eat a few crumbs. The treasury of heaven is open, but you only take a few pence. O man of little faith, wherefore do you doubt? Come boldly to the throne of grace, where the Father is ever waiting to give and Jesus stands by Him to intercede. Come boldly, for you may, all sinful as you are, if you come in the name of the great High Priest.

Come boldly and ask largely, and you shall have abundant answers, mercy like a river, and grace and strength like a coming boldly, and you shall have supplies exceeding all you can ask or think. Hitherto, you have asked nothing; ask and receive, that your joy may be full.—Bishop Ryle.

WHEN THEY ARE DECEIVED

When the shepherd in Scotland was asked if his sheep would follow the voice of a stranger, he replied: "Yes, when they are sick; but never when they are well. A sick sheep will follow anybody. Just so long as a Christian keeps himself in a healthy condition by feeding on God's Word and by exercising in his fields of activity there will be little danger of his going off after the 'faddists' and false teachers of his age. It is when his ears become diseased—when he has contracted ear-itching—that he becomes restless and dissatisfied with his Master."

EXAMPLES OF MEN WHO PRAY

Some notable examples of praying men will help us to practice this heavenly ministry of prayer.

Wesley spent two hours a day in prayer, and often more than this. He began at 4 in the morning. One who knew him well says of him: "He thought prayer to be more his business than anything else, and I have seen him come from his closet with a serenity of face next to shining."

John Fletcher stained the walls of his room with the breath of his prayers. Sometimes he would pray all night.

Luther said: "If I fail to spend two hours in prayer each morning, the devil gets the victory through the day." His motto was: "He that has prayed well has studied well."

Bishop Leighton was so much alone with God that he seemed to be in perpetual meditation. Substantially the same was said of Dr. A. J. Gordon.

Bishop Ashby said: "I propose to rise at 4 o'clock as often as I can and spend two hours in prayer and meditation."

Robert Murray McChesney spent from 6 to 8 a. m. and an hour after tea shut in with God.

John Welch, a worthy son-in-law of John Knox, and wonderful preacher, thought the day ill spent if he did not spend eight or ten hours in prayer. His wife would complain when she found him on the ground weeping. He would reply: "Oh, woman, I have the souls of 30,000 to answer for! I know not how it is with many of them!"

It is said of the saintly Payson that he wore the hardwood bogies into grooves where his knees pressed so often and so long. His biographer says: "His continuing instant in prayer is the most noticeable fact in his history and points out the duty of all who would rival his eminence."

Dr. Adoniram Judson spent several hours a day in prayer. He impressed an empire for Christ and laid the foundations of imperishable granite in the heart of Burma.

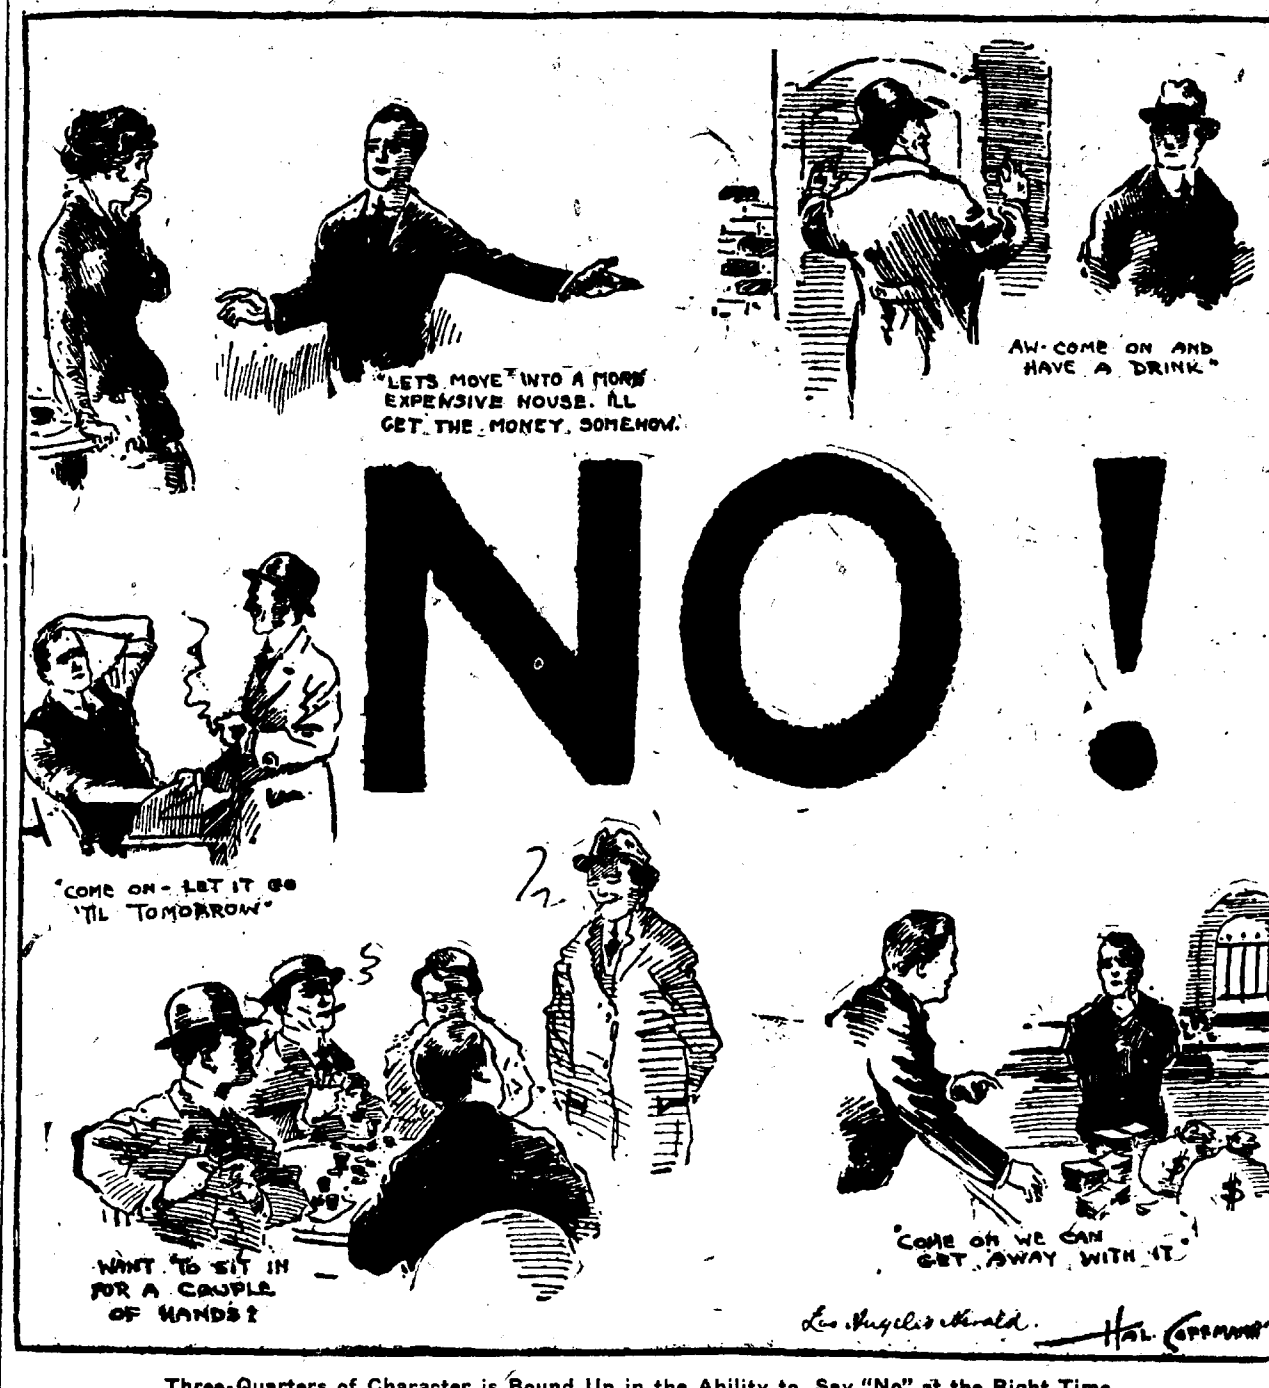

John Livingstone preached one sermon in Scotland after a night of prayer and five hundred professed conversion. Michael Roberts, of Wales, preached one thousand decided for Christ. Another mighty Welsh preacher, John Elizer, preached one sermon and twenty-five hundred were added to the church.

David said: "Early will I seek thee." "Thou shalt ever hear my voice."

Christ went to the place of prayer a great while before day.

Let us "give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the Word."—F. H. Senti, in The Evangelical Christian

SHORT AND HARD TO SAY

HABIT A MAKER OF CHARACTER

By Archer Brown.

After the aim, or main purpose, of life is fixed, the character begins to build. If the purpose is a high one, the ambitious boy will attain his ends much more quickly by knowing how best to use the means at his command. There is one powerful aid that should be seized at the very outset. It will work for you early and late, never failing, never varying, and only stop when life ceases. It is easy to enlist in your behalf, either for good or evil, and it is as hard to shake off, if you conclude at any time you have had enough of it. What is it? Habit.

Habit is "aptitude from frequent repetition." Think of a moment how few of your actions result from actual exertion of will; how many from mere momentum. Apply this to your speech, your work, your manners, your gait, your temper, your thinking, your study, your self-control. We make a grove, generally with no thought or plan, and then three-fourths of our real life is run through it. How important it is, then, to make that grove as, in our better moments we want it; not let it make itself.

It is easy to form or prevent a habit, very hard to break one when formed. If you doubt it, try yourself on that habit which you can "stop at any time."

A friend of mine, a man of character, brains, and influence, and active in Christian work, thought it better to stop smoking. He summoned his will and stopped. He soon found that he was battling with an enemy that had great strength. After months of conflict his wife begged him to return to smoking, as the effect on mind and body was too taxing. He did so, but again, unwilling to confess that a weed was more powerful than his will, he pledged a friend not to smoke another cigar without his friend's consent. A few weeks found him at his friend's house begging to be relieved from the pledge. Conscience, supported by will, was unequal to the contest with that trifling habit. If there is, then, a power of such restless force that can be set at work in our lives, why not have it working for us to accomplish the ends we aim at rather than to defeat them? So it is vital that we form correct habits and crush bad ones right at the start. The longer tolerated, the more hopeless the uprooting task. Here are some things that should be crystallized into habits: religious indifference, every subject; assimilating the knowledge that comes from observation and reading; correctness in conversation and manners; physical exercise and regular hours; Bible study; prayer; the old-fashioned virtues—the solvent of all the financial, social, and economic questions now agitated—industry and economy; method in work of every kind.

It is needless to say that the opposite of each of these habits—slipshod thinking, careless observation and reading, lack of physical exercise, and regular hours, religious indifference, every subject; assimilating the knowledge that comes from observation and reading; correctness in conversation and manners; physical exercise and regular hours; Bible study; prayer; the old-fashioned virtues—the solvent of all the financial, social, and economic questions now agitated—industry and economy; method in work of every kind.

Charles M. Schwab is pretty busy these days, but not so busy he cannot spare time to tell young America how to succeed.

The chairman of the Bethlehem Steel corporation talked to the Aldine club in New York, recently, about business and gave the young men and women of America his favorite recipe—ones he tries himself for "getting on."

Schwab, who is 54, began "getting on" when he was hired as a stakeholder in the engineering corps of the Carnegie Steel Co. Later he was president of the Carnegie company. He has no children to inherit his millions.

Here is what he says:

SCHWAB'S SUCCESS TIPS

Be square. Don't lie to cover up business mistakes.

A college education is desirable, but not necessary.

The survival of the fittest is a law of business.

When women marry they should transfer their activities to their homes.

Business is looking for young men who can produce something.

The man with brains is a success no matter how much or little money he has.

He knows how to do it.

I am not working for money; I have my children to work for. I am working for love of work.

There is no room in the business world for the snob.

Never in the history of the world were there such opportunities for young men as today.

Profit-sharing with the productive workers is going to settle the labor question.

Whose is It?—Mine, or God's?

To whom does it belong—this money I have inherited, this salary I am earning, this house I am building, these savings I have in the bank? I say my house, my bank account, my property, my salary, my clothes, my books, my education; but is it really mine? Who owns it—this wealth, this power, this influence?

"You do, of course," laughs the world.

"God does," asserts the Bible.

It's queer, isn't it, that after all the centuries of reading the Bible the church has made so little of property as a religious question? For the Bible is full of it.

Story and proverb and poem, legislation and parable and exhortation—all unite to emphasize God's sole ownership of earth and heaven. Through long centuries of painful training the children of Israel were taught to take the first fruit from the garden, the choicest lamb of the flock, the tenth of all the increase, as a token that they and all theirs belonged alike to God, the giver and owner of all. The tithe, the free-will offering, the gift at feast days and fast days were only so many reminders of funds held in trust.

The New Testament is not less startling in its emphasis of man's stewardship and God's ownership. Jesus' parable of the talents and his picture of the judgment agree in this that they weigh the questions of acquisition and expenditure with the issues of life and death.

Whose is it? If it is mine, I may use it to please myself, and it is nobody's business but my own; but if it is God's I must give an account to the owner for every penny.

Picking Out Good Men

"There goes a man who is doing his share toward elevating this old world," said one. "Some great preacher!" asked the other. "No, just an everyday, successful business man, but he has the secret of living on the heights right in the press of business life. One day I complimented him upon his ability to pick out such a fine lot of men for his office help. He smiled at me a moment, seemed to hesitate over the thought in his mind, and then spoke aloud: 'Yes, Davis,' he said quietly, 'I have as fine a lot of helpers as any one ever saw. But one of them came straight here from a jail term. Another once forged my name. A third could not keep sober for a week when I first took him. Oh, you need not look alarmed. They are all as straight as strings now.' It's a great game, Davis, a game I believe God put us here to play for all it is worth." Then he went on talking business as if nothing had happened. But something fine had happened. He had proved the practicality of serving God quietly and in the everyday walks of life."

MY SON

It was told once of an old man in a Yorkshire village whose son had been a sore grief to him. One day a neighbor inquired how he was doing. "Oh, very bad!" was the answer. "He has been drinking again, and behaving very rough." "Dear, dear!" said the neighbor. "If he was my son I would turn him out, rally his full force of will and crush it out. In like manner let him patiently, persistently, plant, cultivate and nourish the habits that help, until they are unalterably fixed and become sure allies for life."

HEALTH FIRST

Educators are awakening to the fact that there is little use in drilling the school child in the three R's unless it has sufficient physical vigor to perform the acts required by the educative process. A rather exacting process in this present day.

Nature is concerned first of all in maintaining life, and demands that the energy of the child be directed primarily to that end. The normal child is endowed with more energy or vigor than is required for nutrition and growth.

This factor of safety may be regarded as the margin to be utilized by the school for intellectual development. If vigor be deficient on account of inadequate nutrition, imperfect breathing due to adenoids, constant combating of germ poisons from infected tonsils or decayed teeth, there is less margin to be utilized in the school.

The margin of physical vigor in excess of bodily needs is the capital which the child has to invest in education.

It is the first business of the school to see that this capital is as large as possible.

The school therefore, should give primary attention to the health of the children, not only for the sake of health itself, but also to the end that education may be more effective.

Bathing is necessary, first of all, to remove dirt from outside and to wash off the waste material deposited on the skin by the evaporation of perspiration, which soon produces an unpleasant body smell if not removed.

Bathing also has an important influence upon the heat regulating machinery of the skin.

Warm baths increase the size of the blood vessels in the skin and draw the blood from the brain, making one feel comfortably sleepy. This is why a warm bath is best taken at bedtime.

A cold bath, on the other hand, contracts the skin blood vessels and by driving the blood to the brain makes one feel keen and alert.

Hot water rubbing is a powerful tonic to the skin since it trains the blood vessels to respond quickly to changes in temperature.

People who can stand cold baths regularly are likely to be harder and much less subject to colds than others. In the matter of bathing, cold bathing is a powerful tonic to the skin since it trains the blood vessels to respond quickly to changes in temperature.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF THE FARMER

Most Desirable Qualities in Tomatoes

There are a large number of sorts of tomatoes, each one possessing some points of merit or difference which distinguish it from all others. These differences enable the intelligent cultivator to select sorts for special purposes, as well as for special soils and climates. The varying demands of the markets and the different soil and climatic conditions presented in the various sections where the tomato is grown can only be satisfied by a variety list as variable as are the conditions.

Cross Section of Tomato, Showing the Small Seed Cavities and Thick Walls of Good Shipping Sorts.

It is fortunate that domesticated plants present so many different forms, otherwise the cultivation of many crops would be restricted to a few favored localities. Besides broadening the field to which the tomato is adapted, varieties present other important differences manifested chiefly in the fruit.

Early ripening sorts are frequently irregular in shape, have comparatively thin walls, large seed cavities, and numerous seeds. The fruit is apt to color and ripen unevenly, remaining green around the stem, or to contain a hard, green core. Later-ripening sorts, while not all superior to the others, have as a rule thicker and firmer walls, smaller seed cavities, and few seeds.

The most highly developed varieties now make few seeds and ripen evenly. These characteristics of the fruits are important factors in determining their fitness for special purposes.

Medium-sized, smooth, spherical fruits, which ripen evenly and have small seed cavities and thick walls, are especially suited to long-distance shipment.

Those qualities should enter into every sort selected to the greatest possible degree consistent with earliness, lateness, heavy yields, or any other special quality which gives the variety a marked commercial advantage.

Owing to the fact that in canned tomatoes it is difficult for the average consumer to note any deficiencies in the appearance of the original fruit, many labor under the delusion that any variety will answer for this purpose. This is a mistaken idea, as quality in canned goods is now an important factor, and it is quite as important that a good quality of product should be used for canning as for growing for the early or general market, although from the field side it

THE FARM WATER SUPPLY IS AN IMPORTANT MATTER

A Pure Water Supply is One of the Most Important Factors in Farm Life Today—Without This, the Health of the Family is in Danger, However Attractive and Well Arranged the Farm and Farm House May Be in Every Other Respect—This is Something That Should Not Be Postponed to a Time When Other Matters Do Not Press For Attention, But Should Be Considered Promptly.

Farm water supplies may be divided into three classes, which in the order of their liability to pollution are surface supplies, shallow underground supplies, and deep underground supplies. The surface supplies are obtained from streams, ponds, reservoirs, and cisterns; both shallow and deep underground supplies are obtained from dug, bored, driven, or drilled wells, and from springs.

Surface water supplies should not be used for household purposes or for washing milk cans. They should not even be used for laundry purposes unless no other supply is available. Rain water from the roof of a house is polluted by dust, leaves, and the droppings from birds. Any person who drinks water from surface supplies endangers his health if such supplies are not adequately protected and then purified.

Where underground waters are hard to obtain, cisterns may be used where the store of rain water and surface supplies will be filtered and partially purified.

The cistern should be of water-tight construction, to prevent leakage and to prevent pollution from the neighboring soil. It should have an overflow drain and a tight cover. There should also be suitable provision for straining the water previous to its entrance to the cistern.

Unpolluted springs are, as a rule, good sources of water supply, since the water usually comes from great depths within the rock or is filtered through many layers of sand and gravel. However, springs are subject to pollution from the same sources as wells, and should be closely watched in this respect. Farm spring supplies are often polluted by the drainage from buildings and stock pens. Spring water supplies from limestone are also subject to pollution from distant garbage and sewage dumped in sink holes. The same precautions should be taken for safeguarding spring supplies as in the case of wells, and in addition the spring should always be fenced to keep out stock.

After a pure water supply has been made available for the farm home, the quantity of water needed must be considered. A suitable pumping equipment must be chosen, and then a satisfactory means for distributing and storing the water must be provided.

There are three general systems of storage and distribution which may be readily applied to farm conditions: the gravity, pneumatic, and auto-pneumatic systems.

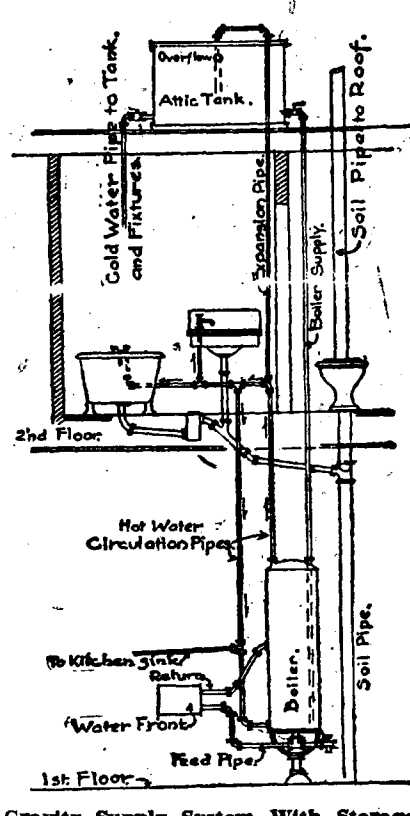

In the gravity system water is forced into the elevated tank placed higher than the highest discharge cock. A storage tank may be placed in the attic, on the roof, or on a tower outside. The agricultural experiment station at Ames, Iowa, has designed a silo with a storage tank placed on top. Since there is considerable frictional resistance to the flow of water through the distribution pipes, the tank should be placed at least ten feet higher than the highest discharge cock to insure a flow under pressure.

Water weighs 8.3 pounds per cubic foot or about 8.4 pounds per gallon, so that in placing a tank in the attic or on the roof the supports should be made sufficiently strong to uphold this weight.

Either wooden or galvanized metal tanks may be used. Wooden tanks may be obtained of almost any size, either circular or rectangular in shape. They are generally built of bottom and not on that part of the stove which projects below.

The capacities of circular tanks may be found by the following: Capacity in gallons equals diameter in feet, squared, multiplied by 0.7854, multiplied by the depth in feet, multiplied by 7.48. One cubic foot equals 7.48 gallons. When located in buildings wooden tanks are commonly made rectangular. They may be lined with tinned copper, but never with lead. To obviate the use of heavy planking, rods are used to rigidly tie together the end and side braces.

The pneumatic tank system consists of a force pump, an air-tight steel tank, necessary pipe, valves, fittings, etc., and power for operating the pump. The system may be a small one operated by hand, windmill, or small engine, or it may consist of a large pump operated by a powerful engine with two or more tanks of large capacity.

The tank may be placed in the basement or underground, thus keeping the water cool and preventing freezing. In the operation of the pneumatic system water is forced into the air-tight tank, thus compressing the air into a smaller space and creating an air pressure which forces the water to the discharge cocks.

In determining the capacity of the tank, it is necessary that about one-third of the computed storage capacity be added to provide space for the compressed air.

In the auto-pneumatic system the water is delivered fresh from the well to the faucets. This system consists essentially of an air compressor driven by a small gas engine or electric motor, an air-tight steel air-pressure tank, and one or more auto-pneumatic pumps. No water tank is required, since nothing is stored but compressed air. The pump consists of two small metallic chambers submerged in the water, and when a faucet is opened they automatically fill and discharge, owing to the air pressure from the storage tank, thus giving a continuous flow of fresh water.

The auto-pneumatic pump can be used in wells, springs, or lakes where the water is free from sand and mud and does not have to be lifted more than one hundred feet or where the working pressure does not exceed 65 pounds.

KOHL-RABI.

Considering all its qualities, it seems strange that kohlrabi is so little known. It has been likened to a sort of turnip-rooted cabbage, which forms a large ball on the surface of the ground. But to be so called is not a roof, but an enlargement of the stem; it is the part that is used for food. Kohlrabi is much used in Europe and its merits are slowly becoming recognized here. Although quite different in flavor, it may be used in place of the turnip, and in sections where the turnip does not succeed, it will usually be found that the kohlrabi grows on in spite of heat.

The Culture of Leeks is Increasing

The leek belongs to the onion family, and is used mostly as flavoring for soups. Well grown leeks have a very agreeable, and not very strong onion flavor. The leek is of the easiest culture, and is usually grown as a second crop, to follow beets, early peas, and other large vegetables. In form it is a hardy, flat-leaved, bulbous perennial. The blanched stems and bulb are used in cookery for seasoning in the same manner as the onion.

The leek has not, in the past, been much cultivated in this country except near large cities and where there is a considerable foreign population, but of late years its value is becoming more generally appreciated and now most gardens contain, at least, a few plants.

The seed should be sown in a seed bed in late April or early May and the seedlings transplanted to the garden in June or July, when they should be 5 or 6 inches tall. At this time the tops should be cut back half and the plants set deep twelve to fifteen inches apart and six to nine inches asunder. The reason for setting the plants so deep is that the neck and lower part of the leaves are to be used in a blanched condition. The soil may be drawn toward the plants in cultivating to further the blanching. One ounce of seed is used to one hundred feet of drill.

Being very hardy, the plants may be dug in late fall, and stored in the same manner as celery, in trenches or in a cool root cellar.

As the mild flavor and excellent seasoning qualities of this vegetable are beginning to be more generally known, the demand is increasing and it may now be found on all the vegetable stands of cities.

INSECT DESTROYERS.

It has been conservatively estimated that the food of the average young bird while in the nest amounts to four times the bird's weight, each day. In the case of those insects which subsist entirely upon insects the good they do is absolutely incalculable.

Poisoning Cutworms

Efficacious Remedy Discovered for These Pests.

Tomatoes, cabbage, sweet potatoes and other vegetables and garden plants and especially those which are started under glass and transplanted, are subject to serious injury by cutworms, says Indiana farmer. These insects appear sometimes in great numbers in spring and early summer and frequently do severe injury before their ravages are noticed. The method of attack is to cut off the young plants at about the surface of the ground, and as these insects are of large size and voracious feeders, they are capable of destroying many plants in a single night. During the past two years these insects working generally throughout the United States, destroyed hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of crops. By the timely application of remedies, however, it was demonstrated by the Department of Agriculture through field agents and others of the Bureau of Entomology engaged in the investigation of insects injurious to truck and sugar beets in some of the principal trucking regions that these insects can be readily controlled, large areas being successfully treated. The usual method of control is by the use of poisoned baits.

Take a bushel of dry bran, add one pound of arsenic or Paris green, and mix it thoroughly into a mash with eight gallons of water, in which has been stirred half a gallon of sorghum, or other cheap molasses. After the mash has stood several hours, scatter it in lumps of about the size of a marble over the fields where injury is beginning to appear and about the bases of the plants set out. Apply late in the day so as to place the poison about the plants over night, which is the time when the cutworms are active. Apply a second time if necessary.

A GOOD RATION.

A desirable grain ration for cows when corn and oats are used as a base, is one made up of 300 pounds of corn-and-cob meal, 200 pounds of oats and 100 pounds of cotton-seed meal. Feed this at the rate of one pound for every three pounds of four per cent. milk produced. In addition feed as much legume hay and corn stover as the cows will consume.

Probably only those who are acquainted with tests which have actually been made realize how quickly sunshine kills disease germs exposed to it.

Docking the Lambs

By H. Hackborn, Missouri College of Agriculture.

The lambs that have not already been docked should be attended to at once. If docking is delayed much longer, flies will give trouble by laying eggs close to the wounds. The maggots that hatch from these eggs feed on or near the wound and prevent it from healing.

Is docking necessary? Not absolutely, but it is advisable because (1) docked lambs present a more attractive appearance than those with long tails, (2) they bring from 25 to 50 cents more per 100 pounds when marketed, and (3) in case of scours when the flock is turned on grass filth will collect on the tails of the lambs, presenting an ideal place for maggots to live.

In this practice at the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station no bad results from docking have ever been noticed and in no case do the records show any loss in weight due to docking. Strong, healthy lambs can be docked most easily when from two to three weeks old by cutting the tails off about an inch from the body with a good sharp knife. Older lambs will frequently bleed badly if docked with a knife or hatchet. Hot irons are used in order to prevent the loss of blood, which is some cases will be so great as to weaken the lambs and cut down their gain for a week or more. The regular docking iron which can be purchased from any sheep supply house at $1.25 to $1.50 is used for docking the lambs. A hot chisel, no doubt, would be just as successful.

The purpose of the use of the hot iron is to prevent bleeding by thoroughly searing the ends of the blood vessels. The irons should be heated until they are cherry red. If they are too cold, the blood vessels will not be seared thoroughly, or if they are too hot, the tails will be taken off too quickly and some bleeding will frequently occur. An ordinary tinsmith's blow torch is one of the most convenient means of heating the irons, but a portable forge may be used.

Ram lambs that are not to be kept for breeding purposes should always be castrated at docking time. This is not necessary in case of lambs that are to be sold for mutton at the age of three or four months. However, spring lambs that are not marketed until fall are always castrated because they are easier to manage and fatten than ram lambs. This operation should always be performed before flies become troublesome in spring.

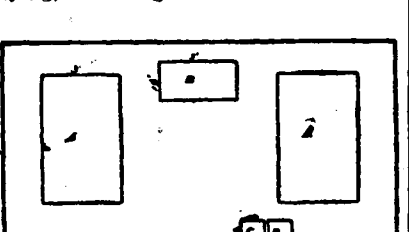

A hard and fast spraying calendar or cherries has not yet been worked out, and perhaps never will be.

PLAIN BUILDINGS OF SIMPLE CONSTRUCTION BEST FOR LAYING HENS

In a great state in the far west, one of the most successful poultry farmers is a woman. She began with common hens of no particular breed, but it was soon found that well-bred fowls pay better than scrubs. So the breeding of pure-bred fowls was begun and is still practiced on this farm.

There are a great many lemons we could learn from this Oregon poultry raiser, but only one will be mentioned in this article and that is the poultry buildings. The houses described are for laying hens only. The breeding pens are similarly constructed, but are not so large, since fewer hens are kept together.

While the poultry houses on this farm are not expensive, they are eminently practical and have been designed with a view to convenience in management, comfort and cleanliness of the fowls, and protection against enemies of all kinds. There are no losses from weasels or other small animals, for these pests of the poultryman are completely fenced out of the laying, breeding and brooder houses.

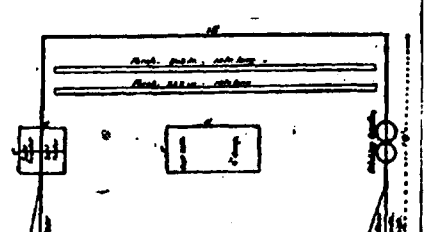

Front View of Single Compartment.

The houses for the laying pens cost about $1 per hen.

A building 128 feet long and 10 feet wide is cut into eight rooms 10 by 15 feet and a storeroom for feed 8 by 10 feet. One of the runs on this side extends beyond the end of the building. This arrangement was made necessary by the nature of the space available. In each of the eight compartments with runs attached 30 hens are kept. The floor space in the building is 5 square feet for each hen and in the runs 135 square feet. Some good poultrymen give each hen only 4 square feet within doors, so the allowance in this respect is liberal. Even with 135 square feet of outdoor space for each hen not much of a growth of green stuff can be maintained in the runs, the space being intended more for exercise than for pasture.

In the end of the building the feed room is located. Dirt floors are used in the compartments or pens. The self-feeders and the drinking pans are placed in appropriate openings in the partitions between two pens. The doors are 4 feet wide and 6 feet high and swing both ways. The upper half of each door is of chicken wire, the lower half of boards. The two perches are on a level with each other, so that there is no crowding on the top perch. The hens enter the runs from the droppings board. The perches do not touch the walls of the room at any point. This is important, as it aids in keeping down vermin.

Plan of Building and Yards.

The perches and nest boxes are supported entirely by suspension from the rafters. The supporting frame does not touch the walls at any point. The hens enter the runs from the droppings board. The perches do not touch the walls of the room at any point. This is important, as it aids in keeping down vermin.

These houses are not artificially heated at any season of the year. On the coldest nights during the winter the openings (doors, windows, and passages from pens) are all closed, the ventilation being entirely through the muslin doors and the muslin-covered ventilator. In cold weather the fowls must not be exposed to drafts.

Vermin (mites) are the bane of improperly managed houses. They conceal themselves on the undersurface of the perch, in the corners of nest boxes, under the droppings board, and in crevices wherever convenient to the roosting places of the fowls. In these places of concealment the vermin deposit their eggs. Once every year every possible hiding place for vermin is painted with a coal-tar preparation. This is applied full strength with a brush. The whole nest of the nest boxes is thus painted. This treatment keeps the vermin in subjection.

The dirt floors of the pens are usually covered several inches deep with straw which is changed about every ten days. In summer the floors are swept clean about once a month, in winter, less often—usually twice during the season.

The interior of these houses is whitewashed once a year, a pint of disinfectant being added to each bucket of whitewash. This aids in keeping down vermin. The fact that the perches and nest boxes are swung from the rafters and nowhere touch the walls keeps them free from hiding in crevices in the walls.

The owner estimates that with houses constructed as these are one man could take care of 1,500 to 2,000 hens.

Front View of Perches, Nest Boxes, Etc.

OLD WALNUT IS STILL VALUABLE.

A good idea of the increase in value of the wood products of our farm wood lots is shown in the fact that an old walnut tree that had been blown down and buried in the alluvial sands along one of the western rivers brought over $1500 on the market, though it had to be hauled a considerable distance to the nearest railroad after being sawed into logs.

No man can feed intelligently unless he understands the nature of foods and the requirements of the animals at the different periods of their development.

CARE OF THE INCUBATOR.

After the hatch is over, all shells and bad eggs should be removed and the incubator thoroughly cleaned and disinfected by spraying with croilin. The trays should be scrubbed in the same solution. After disinfection, the machine should be closed up with the heat still running and allowed to steam from the disinfectant spray.

Don't try to get dirt out of milk-keep it out, in the first place.

Exercise must be provided for little chicks and this is accomplished easiest by feeding them in finely cut litter so they must scratch for their food.

EASILY CONTROLLED.

The Kansas Experiment Station is of the opinion that the spring canker worm has killed more apple trees in that state in a single season than the San Jose scale has done since its first introduction. Anything so easy of control as the canker worm should not be allowed to do serious damage. The canker worm is a leaf-eating insect and easily poisoned by spraying.

Horses that are allowed to go to their stalls at night covered with grime and sweat, and are then sent to the field next morning without a thorough cleaning will soon go stale.

STRAWBERRY RUNNERS.

Strawberries propagate from runners which take root and are then separated from the parent plant and from each other. If allowed to put out runners the bearing of the plants is more or less curtailed, but on a commercial plantation it is hardly practical to take 1 1/2 a time to cut off all runners.

The feeding of the young chicks for the first few weeks is the foundation upon which the future of the flock depends.

WORTH KNOWING.

If vegetables have burned in the kettle put in soda and a little water; boil a while and the kettle is easily cleaned.

Pruning back at planting is as necessary with shrubs as with trees.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, May 18.—Wheat prices underwent a fresh setback today, influenced by assertions that the general condition of the Kansas crop was not alarming despite big losses in the central and southern sections of the state. Opening prices, which ranged from 1/4c to 3/4c lower, including July at $1.15 to $1.16, and September at $1.16 to $1.17, were followed by a material further decline. The market closed heavy, 2 1/2c to 3 1/2c net lower, with July at $1.12 and September at $1.13.
Corn yielded a little to the influence of wheat weakness. The close was weak at 1/2c to 1c net decline. Oats eased off with other grain. Strength in the hog market lifted provisions.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, May 18.—War shares and related issues recorded material gains at the active opening of today's market. Crucible Steel, Mexican Petroleum and the shipping shares rising a point or more with less substantial advances in motor and metal. Reading was the foremost feature early in the trading, at 92 to 93 1/2 and continuing its rise to 94 1/2, a new high quotation. Canadian Pacific and Lehigh Valley were included with the other strong rails. Distilling issues and Harvester figured among the less prominent specialties, with gains of one to two points.

Rails assumed a commanding position.

Reading common and second preferred making new high records on the overnight gains of 3 1/2 and four points to 96 1/2 and 51 1/2, respectively, with an advance of 1 1/2 for the first preferred at 44 1/2. There was a simultaneous rise of a point in Western Maryland, which was assumed to have some bearing upon the movement in Reading. Gains of one to three points also were made by Canadian Pacific, Lehigh Valley, Union Pacific, St. Paul, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Erie and New Haven. Industrials and specialties as a whole supplemented early advances. Steel's gain of a point being accompanied by extraordinarily large dealings. Bonds were firm.

Reading established its best price in the first hour on a further advance to above 99, while other rails, including the Union group, made appreciable gains. The closing was strong.

Gold and Extra Vote Offer Proves a Big Incentive

The Campaign Manager States the Proposition Clearly for the Benefit of the Candidates, and He Tells Them "If Not Busy, Get Busy"—Nine More Days of the Great Special Offer.

Miss Dorothy Osborn, Montpelier, Ohio, a popular young society matron of that town. She has declared herself "out to win one of the Sentinel's automobiles" and is another active worker of District No. 6.

The little surprise that has been stored up for the candidates in the "Sentinel Automobile Circulation Campaign," has created unusual interest. And it's gold! Bright, shining, clinking, new gold pieces; enough to take you on a vacation to the seashore, sufficient to buy your new summer outfit; the suit, the hat, the well-thing you need. All is gold, divided into four prizes. The Sentinel will give this away absolutely free to the young women, who, within the next nine days, secure the largest amount in "new" subscriptions to the Sentinel.

This is the one great opportunity to test your mettle; the chance to put a handful of gold coins in your own purse, to use in whatever manner you wish. All that is necessary is to be one of those four young women who demonstrate the most energy within the next few days.

This liberal offer in no way affects the distribution of the automobiles and the fourteen other valuable prizes, but is offered as an added incentive to contestants who make a special effort during the next nine days.

The second offer is a splendid opportunity for those contestants who thus far have made no appreciable gain in their vote standing. For every combination of $25 in new subscription payments to the Sentinel, paid in advance, 90,000 extra votes will be given, over and above the votes the candidates receive as per the vote schedule.

You can pile up thousands of votes the next nine days and win the gold besides, by just a little added effort you can secure enough votes to put you up to the very top of the list of candidates and perhaps create a lead that would be difficult to overcome. It won't be the means of placing you right with in reach of one of the splendid automobiles that will be awarded June 17th. The candidate that is now at the very bottom of the list can ascend to the highest standing, if she will but take advantage of the offer.

Where nominations have, through indecision, been withheld until now, this offer presents an attractive appeal, for they can launch their campaign under the most auspicious circumstances. An exceedingly simple matter it will prove to make them a formidable opponent in the campaign.

Make up your mind that you will be the one to pocket this gold. You can do so just as easy as any of the other candidates. Besides, look at the thousands of extra votes that you will receive. Should you win the gold, the additional bonus of votes will be issued to you besides. If you don't succeed, the additional votes will help wonderfully, anyhow.

But never let the word "Can't" enter your mind. It's determination that carries an irresistible force that will not be downed. Lose no time in seeing your friends, all your acquaintances, and everybody else you ever met, and secure their subscription. It may be the means of your being the one to count out the gold pieces and will cut down the distance between you and an automobile to practically nothing.

If you require additional supplies, such as receipt books, blanks, etc., don't hesitate to let your wants be known at the Campaign Office. Either write or telephone, and they will be mailed to you, or call personally and every assistance will be extended.

Inquiries have been received as to whether subscriptions given direct to contestants will deprive the agents of the Sentinel of their regular commission. It does not.

PAINTING SCENERY FOR THE PAGEANT

Vast Areas of Canvas Will Be Used in Depicting Six Episodes.

"Bill" Ersig and his corps of scenic artists are spreading paint over vast areas of canvas these days in the reproduction of the scenes of the six episodes of the Fort Wayne pageant.

The simplicity of the setting of scene 1 is suggested by the primitive surroundings in the clearing in the woods on the bank of the St. Mary's river on the site of Fort Wayne in the earliest French period. It consists of log cabins of the French traders and the large group of tepees of the Miami Indians. The whites and the aborigines are living at peace in this first scene, and the entire atmosphere of the place is such as to suggest the wild yet harmonious life of the forest. The log houses for this scene are receiving the finishing touches, and the tepees of the Indians are being made of substantial material and seemingly for permanent use. The corn dance of the children in this scene, upon the rise of the curtain, is a beautiful conception of primitive life, and will prove a pleasing feature for the children of today.

The British Scene. In the second scene, which takes place in the famous incident of the betrayal of the British commandant, Ensign Robert Holmes, the scenery is more elaborate. The picture includes two log buildings within a high picketed stockade, with heavy gate posts upon which swing the gates of the British fort. The audience is given the opportunity to witness the action of the treacherous savages outside of the fort, snatched to murderous fury by Pontiac, and the officers and their men within the fort before and after the betrayal. The scenery for this part of the production is built and the stockade and buildings will be finished this week.

DREIER DRUG CO. 528 Calhoun St., and 1402 Calhoun St.

Old Fort Wayne in Scene Three. Scene 3 is in two parts. The first shows the great council of the Indian chiefs in the woods on the night before the battle of Fallen Timber. While this is one of the most spectacular of the stage pictures of the entire series, with its hundreds of dancing, howling, defiant savages, and the groups of waiting squaws and Indian children, the scenic artist centers his efforts upon the last half of the scene—one which will bring the applause of the audience when the morning dawns and Old Fort Wayne is revealed as it stood on the 22d of October, 1794, the day of its dedication. A blockhouse, with its projecting upper floor, will occupy a point in the foreground. With the gate in the foreground, the receding stockade is interrupted by the insertion of the building occupied as the soldiers' quarters. The scenery as designed and built will give a good picture of the old fort. General Wayne figures in both parts of scene 3.

Inside the Fort. The fourth scene takes the beholder within the fort itself, and the story tells of the wild excitement accompanying the siege of 1812. Here we have a view of the farther blockhouse, the railades and the soldiers' quarters, all elaborate examples of the art of the stage carpenter and the scenic artist, which art will be forgotten in the realistic appearance of the result.

The Fort Disappears. The view of the fort in the fifth scene is similar to that of scene 3, with the exception that a village has "sprung up" about the old stockade, and the evidences of civilization point to the disappearance of the old fortification. The scene makers have here constructed the buildings of the village, and the surrounding country, and the earliest families of the permanent settlers.

Scene 6 Shows War Times. The final scene of the pageant shows a Fort Wayne street in war times. A section of Barr street, including the Hedekin house, and the adjoining building in which was located Hedekin's hall, where many enlistments for the war were recorded, has been selected for this scene. The construction work here is even more elaborate than in any of the other scenes, owing to the size of the structures to be shown. All of the framework for this final scene is completed, the canvases are being mounted, and the last of the work of painting the buildings will be under way in ample time next week.

RACING SHARKS GET $4,000 FROM FARMER

Victim Hands Over Cash to Swindlers and Awaits Their Return.

Indianapolis, May 18.—Mark up another victim of the wiles of city sharpers.

This time it is Alexander Lowe, of Marion, O., who was awakened from sweet dreams in a big chair in the Claypool hotel lobby yesterday afternoon to be told that $4,000 he had entrusted to some strangers for race betting was gone for good. Lowe was waiting patiently for his new-found friends to show up with his money when his bubble was shattered by Detectives Reilly and Reynolds. The case has been put in the hands of the grand jury and the police, but there isn't the faintest trace of Lowe's swindlers.

The sum represents Lowe's lifetime savings on the farm which he recently left to move to town and take life easier.

VATICAN ASKS GERMANY TO QUIT SUBMARINE WARFARE

ROME TAKES QUESTION UP

Makes Representations to Berlin to Abandon Use of the U-Boats.

AUSTRIANS HIT ITALIANS HARD

Rival Claims in Fighting at Verdun Still Vary Widely.

Today's War News Given in Summary

The Austrian offensive on the Italian front is being pushed vigorously, according to current official reports and the Italians admitted they have fallen in back in the southern Tyrol before the Austrian onslaught.

In the fighting about Verdun the French who have been retreating under German occupation of parts of the dominating height, known as hill 304, northwest of the fortress, have now succeeded in partly ousting the Teutons. Paris today reports the capture of a German fortified position on the northeast slope of the hill. On the German side, an attempt was made by means of several attacks to capture a redoubt at Avocourt, on the French left flank, but the assaults are declared to have been repulsed with heavy losses to the Germans.

In contrast with the Paris report announcing a French success at hill 304, on the Verdun front, Berlin today declares that three attacks by the French on the German positions on that height were repulsed.

Successful air raids by Austrian airmen have been made on Venice, Udine, and other places in northern Italy, according to Vienna.

The British foreign office has received information through its minister at the vatican that representations have been made by the vatican to Germany with a view to inducing her to abandon submarine warfare.

London, May 18.—Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary, announced in the house of commons today that the government had been informed by Sir Henry Howard, British minister at the vatican, that representations have been made to Germany by the vatican with a view of inducing Germany to abandon submarine warfare.

French Steamer Sunk.

Lloyds announces that the French steamer Mira has been sunk. The announcement gives no details as to her sinking.

The steamer Mira was a vessel of 3,050 tons gross, built at South Shields in 1895 and owned in Marseilles. She was last reported as having arrived at Penarth, Wales, on April 21, from Algiers.

AUSTRIANS ARE ACTIVE.

Hammer Hard at Italians All Along the War Front.

Berlin, May 18.—Artillery engagements are in progress all along the Austro-Italian front on which the Austrians began an offensive movement yesterday.

BERLIN ADMONISHES GERMAN SUBJECTS

IN U. S. TO OBSERVE LAWS CAREFULLY

Washington, May 18.—Germany, through Count von Bernstorff, has instructed all German consuls in the United States to admonish German citizens in their districts to scrupulously observe American laws. This was done in an effort to end various alleged violations of American neutrality. The ambassador acted on instructions from the Berlin foreign office. The action was announced today in this official statement from the German embassy:

"In consequence of cases which have occurred, the German ambassador has sent instructions to all German consuls in the United States to strongly impress upon German citizens living in their districts that it is their duty scrupulously to obey the laws of the state in which they reside."

SIXTH BALLOT FOR BISHOPS IS FUTILE

But Voting of Methodists is Bringing Changes in Standing in Race.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., May 18.—The third day of voting for seven new bishops or general superintendents of the Methodist Episcopal church opened today with the announcement that no election had resulted from the ballot which was cast late last night and before proceeding with its executive business the sixth ballot was taken. The fifth ballot showed many changes. President Herbert Welch, of Ohio Wesleyan university, was the leader with 444 votes.

Following in order came Thomas Nicholson, secretary of the board of education, 439; A. W. Leonard, Seattle, Wash., 428; Secretary W. F. Oldham, of the foreign missionary board, 424; Matt S. Hughes, Pasadena, Cal., 419; Chancellor Franklin Hamilton, Washington, D. C., 398; C. B. Mitchell, 387; President E. S. Tipple, of Drew Theological seminary, 365; E. G. Richardson, Brooklyn, N. Y., 298; C. E. Locke, Los Angeles, 288.

A brisk debate preceded the adoption by the conference of an amendment to the discipline plan, providing that ministers should serve a three year term on probation and be admitted on trial for two years before they can be eligible to full membership in any conference.

None of the candidates for bishop received a two-thirds vote on the sixth ballot.

The conference adopted the report of the temperance committee, which denounced the liquor traffic and the licensing system, declared for prohibition and urged congressional action to forbid interstate shipments of intoxicants; to bar liquor advertisements from the mails and to enact statutory prohibition in all districts and territories under federal control.

FORT WAYNE BOY ON THREATENED BOAT

John E. Benz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Benz, 1216 Barthold street, is an electrician on the mine-laying ship San Francisco, which was stranded for several hours Wednesday on one of the Nantucket shoals, but finally succeeded in freeing itself without assistance. The ship is now at anchor in deep water, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Boston, waiting for the fog to lift before proceeding. Eight members of the crew, officers of the San Francisco for a time feared, had been lost. The men who left the stranded cruiser in a whaleboat to place a keel anchor were blown off by the gale and lost their bearings in the heavy fog. After rowing about for several hours they sighted Great Round shoals lightship and were taken aboard.

BOOSTERS MEET AT COLUMBIA CITY

H. O. Cooley, one of the head officials in the Yellowstone Trail association, which proposes to extend the Yellowstone trail eastward to the Plymouth Rock, arrived in Fort Wayne at 1:55 o'clock Thursday afternoon and was immediately taken to Columbia City in an automobile to attend a state meeting of boosters for the highway. Mr. Cooley was met at the station by Charles L. Biederwolf, secretary of the Fort Wayne Commercial club. Mr. Biederwolf is one of the principal speakers. He will talk on "Organization." Mr. Cooley came all the way from South Dakota in order to be in attendance at the Columbia City meeting.

One of the principal matters to be discussed will be the route the proposed highway is to take through Indiana. The route of the highway in Allen county will probably be over the Yellow River road.

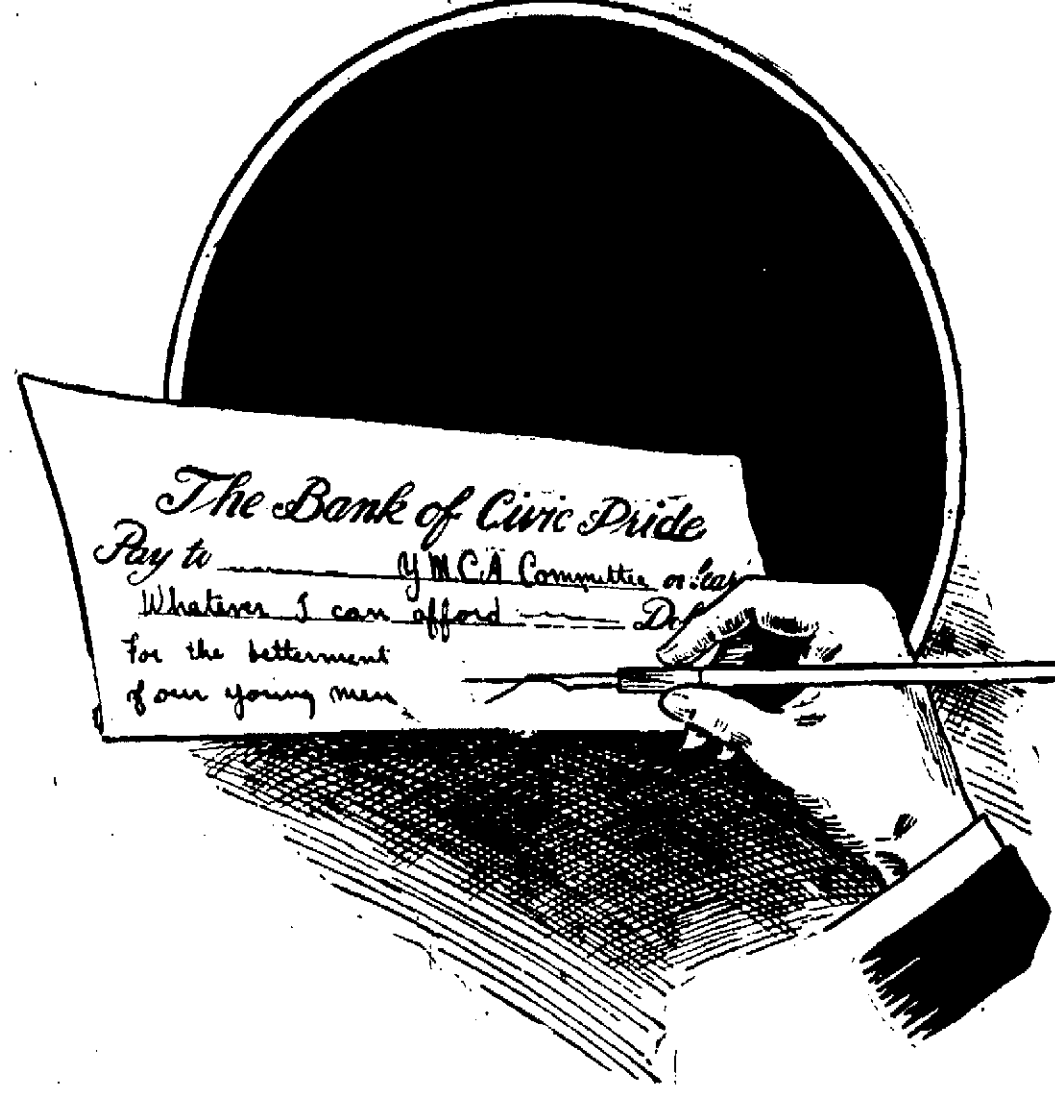

ADRIATIC COAST IS SHAKEN BY 'QUAKE

Rome, May 17.—Via Paris, May 18.—An earthquake of particular violence has occurred along the Adriatic coast between Rimini and Cesena. At the latter town a dozen people were injured by the fall of cornices.

Father Alfani, director of the observatory at Florence, predicts a repetition of the earthquake, which extended to the Venetian provinces.

The entire central section of Italy was shaken by repeated earthquakes, which lasted through Tuesday and Wednesday. Only the most meagre details have as yet been received in this country and it is not known what loss of life occurred, if any.

HAVE YOU DONE IT YET?

142 IN FIRST SCENE ALONE

Cast of Characters for the Opening of Pageant Spectacle.

Fact Gives Some Inkling of the Bigness of the Production.

Today is given out for publication the names of the persons who will assume characters in the first scene of the great Fort Wayne pageant. One hundred and forty-two Fort Wayne men, women and children will appear in this opening act. This cast suggests the bigness of the production and the broadness of the effort to select the participants from every branch of Fort Wayne society.

In reading the names of those mentioned in this Scene I it should be borne in mind that this is only one scene out of the entire six which are required to tell the story of Fort Wayne.

The scene itself is one of the most picturesque imaginable. In the virgin forest, beside the St. Mary's river, where the Indians have chosen to locate their village and where their groups of teepees form a large section of the stage picture, are gathered the tribes living in their primitive state, while at the other side of the picture are two log huts of the French traders, illustrative of the coming of the first whites. The story of the first scene is that of the coming of the first of the Jesuit priests to the wilderness, their great object being to make of the uneducated savages into a great Christian race.

Following are the characters of Scene 1:

Thunderhead, a prophet of the Miami—Donald Robertson. Mr. Robertson, manager of the pageant, assumes the character of Thunderhead, the prophet, an heroic figure who does not enter into the plot but who, as the spirit of the tribes of Red men, speaks to the audience the lines which introduce the story and which provide the connection between the succeeding scenes.

ASSERT THAT PEACE MUST REST ON FORCE

Radical Feature of Peace League Plan Debated at Lake Mohonk.

Mohonk Lake, N. Y., May 18.—The use of military compulsion by a group of nations to prevent war, which is the most radical feature of the plan advocated by the league to enforce peace, was debated today before the Lake Mohonk conference on international arbitration. The proposition was favored by Herbert S. Houston and Dr. George Haven Putnam, New York publishers, and opposed by Dr. James L. Tryon, of Boston, director of the New England department of the American Peace society, and Alpheus Snow, a Washington, D. C. lawyer.

"Peace between nations," said Mr. Houston, "just as does peace within nations, must rest on force. Peace must be put on a war footing and its advocates must quit the forum for the field, if need be, to fight, not to urge war, but to establish peace."

Mr. Snow's conclusion was that the plan of the league to enforce peace was impracticable and dangerous for many reasons, chiefly because it proposes to use joint instead of united force and provides no executive to determine and direct the force.

COUPLE HELD AS FIREBUGS

John Bowen and His Wife Put Under Arrest at Logansport.

One Large Grave at Macy for Four Victims of Dollar Tragedy.

Indianapolis, May 18.—Garrett Fox and F. E. Emerson, deputies in the office of the state fire marshal, returned to Indianapolis today from Logansport, where they arrested John Bowen and his wife on the charge of setting fire to their home in an attempt to defraud an insurance company. The case involves scientific questions in regard to the combustibility of gasoline. The damage to the house was slight.

BOWEN PLEADS GUILTY.

Wife is Held Guiltless and is Given Her Release.

Logansport, Ind., May 18.—John C. Bowen, 43, was arraigned in the circuit court today and entered a plea of guilty to a charge of arson, based on an attempt to burn his house. His wife, who was arrested on a similar charge was released as it was found she had nothing to do with starting the fire. Bowen was fined $40, disfranchised for three years and sentenced to state prison for two to twenty-one years.

ONE GRAVE FOR FOUR.

Victims of Dollar Tragedy Are Entombed at Macy.

BAPTISTS SEEKING MORE EFFICIENCY

Minneapolis, Minn., May 18.—Consideration of the report of the efficiency committee of the proposal to merge the missionary work of the American Baptist Publication society and the American Baptist Home Mission society is the principal business before the Northern Baptist convention today. The committee report recommended that inasmuch as a large sum of money is needlessly expended each year by the two divisions of the church covering the same ground all missionary work should be directed by a single body.

Despite the threats of opponents of the proposal that the publication society will secede if the amalgamation is voted the convention is expected to push the issue to a final test.

DIES IN CARRIAGE DRIVING ON STREET

C. N. Durley, Pinceton, Ill., Salesman is Suddenly Stricken.

C. N. Durley, aged about 55, a nursery salesman for Arthur Bryant & Son, Princeton, Ill., was suddenly stricken with heart disease while driving in a carriage on West Main street, near the Lake Erie and Western railway crossing, at 9:30 Thursday morning, and died before he could be lifted from the vehicle.

Dr. W. O. Gross, 415 East Washington street, was in his automobile immediately behind Durley's rig and saw the man's hat fall off and the man himself crumple up in the carriage. Dr. Gross hurried forward, and when he had reached the side of the stricken man and stopped the horse the victim of the attack was still breathing, but he died as he was being lifted from the buggy. T. H. Nellesen, proprietor of a moving picture show at 1804 West Main street, assisted Dr. Gross to get the man from the buggy and the body was carried into the lobby of the theater.

Dr. J. E. McArdle, coroner of Allen county, was notified and after viewing the remains turned them over to Klachin & Melching, undertakers. Both Coroner McArdle and Dr. Gross gave the opinion that Durley had been stricken by heart disease. He was a heavy man, and doubtless suffered from fatty degeneration of the heart. Durley was well dressed throughout and in his pockets was found the sum of $14.36 cash.

Durley evidently had started to drive into the country to take orders for nursery stock, for he had his catalogues and order books with him.

TENTS AND AWNINGS GO UP IN PRICE, TOO

Fort Wayne residents who place awnings at their homes to provide shade and comfort will pay more for their "coolness" this year, according to local dealers who have received communications from awning concerns.

"A 25 per cent increase is noticeable in the price of canvas awnings," declared one dealer. "Tents will cost 10 per cent more and then you've no chance to be very particular as to the color you desire. Green and red awnings are especially hard to get."

Together with the announcement of the increase in awnings comes one to the effect that the steel frame work for their support has also increased. The high cost of labor and the shortage of dyes because of the European war are given as a cause of the increase in awnings and tents.

ALLEN COUNTY BOY NAMED AN INTERNE

Roy Bandler, son of Louis Bandler, living east of New Haven, is one of three seniors in the Indiana university school of medicine who have been appointed internes at the Robert W. Long hospital in Indianapolis. The appointments are given each year to the three seniors who have had the highest scholarship record during their four years in the medical school. Bandler, who will receive his degree in June, is a member of the Phi Chi fraternity. The other two internes selected were E. W. Kime, of Indianapolis, and George Kent, of Muncie.

FIVE NURSES ARRIVE AT GOAL OF TRAINING

Graduation Exercises of Hope Hospital Held at
First M. E. Church.

Five young ladies who have spent the past three years in training at Hope hospital were given their diplomas of graduation at the sixteenth annual commencement exercises held Wednesday evening at the First M. E. church. The class of 1916 was composed of Dullie Densel, Mae Ziller, Elizabeth Johnson, Inez Slough and Florence Spriggs.

The beautiful and appropriate program which was rendered was a feature of the exercises. Rev. Arthur J. Folsom, pastor of Plymouth Congregational church, delivered the main address of the evening in which he paid a glowing tribute to the nurses' profession and complimented the members of the graduation class for their success in this great work. A. G. Barry, president of the hospital association, presented the graduates with the diplomas, while Miss E. M. Albright, superintendent of the institution, presented them with the school badges.

The musical program, rendered as a feature of the services, Fred Church gave several organ selections and Mr. Giebel and Mrs. Horton rendered a harp and violin duet. Vocal numbers were given by Leslie Lopp and Master Lynus Link. A large and appreciative audience was present.

Rev. Folsom said in part: "Your life work is one of superior quality and it will demand of you not simply intelligence and skill, but the deepest feelings of your heart and soul. You have been trained in a school second to none in the state of Indiana. And you have been trained not in mental proficiency alone, but in heart and character as well. You must have character as a basis of action to inspire confidence. You must be honest; you must be conscientious; and you must have human welfare at heart if you are to succeed. Self-sacrifice is one of the prime necessities of your profession. Your influence everywhere will be measured, not alone by your mental ability and skill, but also by your willingness to serve. We therefore presume that you have caught a vision of humanity's needs, and desire to minister to common welfare and happiness.

Yours is a wonderful life. It knows no bounds of good influence. God alone can measure the happiness you will bring to your brothers. So may your hearts be pure, your characters above reproach, and your influence for good, far-reaching as the east is from the west. 'Patience and abnegation of self, and devotion to others' shall always be the secret of your happiness. May the Master Physician be your ideal, and His word your guide, 'I came not to be ministered unto, but to minister.' "May God bless you with health and strength, with wisdom and happiness, with friendships and love in your noble calling. And may you ever remember in your work of ministry that 'Love never faileth.'"

L. H. Keller, Pennsylvania machine operator, will leave Saturday to spend the week-end in Chicago.

Miss Helen McCreedy returned to Huntington Thursday, after a visit here with Miss Phyllis Randall.

IOWA REPUBLICANS HISS T. R.'S NAME

vokes Big Storm.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., May 18.—That the term "old time love feast" applied to the republican state convention meeting here yesterday was no misnomer was proved when a near riot resulted from the attempt of Robert Healy, of Webster county, to boost the candidacy of Roosevelt for the presidential nomination at the expense of Senator Albert B. Cummins, the choice of Iowa republicans.

Healy declared this a time for the party to choose the strongest man and characterized Roosevelt as "the greatest man in the world."

At the mention of Roosevelt's name a bedlam of hisses and yells broke loose and Healy was booed from the stage.

The other sensational episode occurred when Attorney General George Cosson, candidate for governor, addressed the convention and was forced to give way before his time limit of ten minutes had expired by a clamorous call for Lieut. Gov. William L. Harding that drowned out the speaker.

Harding is the delegate's choice for governor. His popularity grew from the time of his arrival in town with his appearance before the convention, when he was greeted with a tumultuous storm of cheers.

Mr. Harding, in his speech, eulogized Cummins and added fuel to the already white hot flame of approval that swept the convention for the Iowa candidate for president. During the day the delegates unanimously endorsed Cummins' candidacy by resolution.

No platform timber was definitely selected. The sentiment of the delegates, however, was apparent on equal suffrage when every mention of Temporary Chairman Howard J. Clark of this subject elicited continuous cheering.

Mr. Harding referred to the liquor question by declaring that Iowa was "dry" for all time. His remarks seemed to be generally approved by the delegates.

The assignment of officers from the canal zone is due to the death of available men owing to the numerous transfers to Mexico and the border.

Its Observance Urged by Friends of the Lower Animals.

This is also "Be-Kind-to-Animals" week, when the society is especially urging consideration for the animal kingdom and endeavoring to further the propaganda of kindness.

BLIND PHYSICIAN EXPIRES SUDDENLY

Heart Attack Fatal to Dr.
J. H. Jones at Age of 84 Years.

Stricken suddenly shortly before eleven o'clock Wednesday evening with an attack of heart trouble, Dr. Joseph H. Jones died a few minutes later at his home, 1226 West Jefferson street. He was one of the oldest physicians in the city of Fort Wayne, having attained the advanced age of 84 years.

The earlier part of the evening he seemingly was enjoying the best of health but death came so quickly after the fatal attack that the physician who was summoned did not have time to arrive.

Dr. Jones was born in Harrison county, Ohio, and received his early education at Athens college and the Cincinnati Medical college. Shortly after he had taken up active practice, he was so prostrated by a fall that he lost the sight of both eyes. He had been totally blind for the past fifty years.

He came to Fort Wayne, fifty years ago and had resided here ever since. He was united in marriage to Miss Lydia Lewis of Bluffton, in 1868, who alone survives him. The deceased was a man whose one great passion was the love for his home and never became affiliated with any fraternal organizations. He was a staunch supporter and a faithful member of the Wayne Street M. E. church.

Address by Donald Robertson
The address of the afternoon will be given by Pageant Master Donald Robertson, the man of power and strength in his grasp upon the great purpose of the pageant, who will tell of the place which it holds in modern life. Mr. Robertson is a man of splendid voice, capable of transferring to his hearers his lofty conception of the great play which will be unfolded during the days to follow the event of Sunday afternoon.

"It has been a most gratifying accomplishment," observed Rev. Mr. Folsom, chairman of the arrangements committee. "I have found everyone enthusiastically in favor of this great common service in which we may unite to give serious thought to the meaning of the pageant. Bishop Alving has shown his deep interest in the undertaking in making it a success. Every pastor in the city seems to be earnestly pleased with the plan of the forthcoming service. The inspiration of that day will mean much to all of us. It is a clear expression of the community spirit of modern times."

OF AUTOMOBILES
The centennial association has secured the use of the broad area of city property and the adjoining Canadian property, east of Clinton street, for the purpose of parking the thousands of automobiles which will bring more thousands of visitors to Fort Wayne during the first week in June.

The problem of caring for automobiles has been a vexatious one, and the securing of the use of this broad area will help materially to solve it. A series of entrances are arranged for Clinton street, and corresponding exits on Barr street. Stakes will be driven in the ground to which will be attached ropes to indicate the division of the grounds.

DREWETT IS BUSY
Guy Drewett, designer of the Fort Wayne flag, who is making an active house-to-house canvass of the city, is meeting with excellent success in distributing flags of all kinds and decorations for the homes. Today he is visiting the district east of Calhoun street and south of the Pennsylvania tracks.

CENTENNIAL NOTES
Merchants and others who desire exhibit booths at the industrial exposition should notify R. B. Garraire at centennial headquarters.

Use the coupon in this paper to notify the homecoming committee of the names and addresses of people who formerly lived in Fort Wayne, and who should be invited to the celebration. The invitation will be sent direct and without expense to the person handing in the names.

DONOR KEEPS IDENTITY SECRET.
Statue of Washington to Be Unveiled at Westpoint.

Westpoint, N. Y., May 15.—An equestrian statue of George Washington, the gift of an anonymous "Patriotic citizen and veteran of the civil war" will be unveiled tomorrow on the Westpoint Plain.

Statues of many of the great sons of Westpoint adorn the government reservation here but until now there have been no memorial to the man who more than any other was responsible for the establishment of the academy. All that is known of the donor is that he is a New Englander and well known nationally.

Paris, May 18.—The attack launched by the Austrians against the Italian front in the southern Tyrol, which has gradually extended to the entire Austro-Italian front, is being followed here with close attention. It is generally believed in military circles that the great Austrian offensive which has been expected for some time past has at last begun.

No importance is attached to the falling back of the Italian advance lines, which is considered an obvious move, as they were not sufficiently strong to resist an attack on a large scale. Although the Italian central position on the Lavarone plateau is not yet involved it is thought probable the principal effort of the Austrians will be made in that direction. It seems evident that the Austrian generals intend to try to carry out their former plan of smashing a way through to the Venetian plain. The fact that heavy reinforcements have been moved up under cover of the formidable series of forts stretching from Folgaria and Lavarone favors the belief that Vienna is the real objective.

French military authorities are satisfied that the Austrians are doomed to failure regardless of what efforts they make. It is pointed out that the Italians have made every possible preparation for just such an attack as the present and that the most powerful defenses that engineering skill could devise have been prepared on the Asiago plateau and in the mountains northwest of Asiago. It is on this line that the Italians are expected to make their real stand in event the Austrians continue to push their offensive.

ANNUAL SESSIONS WILL ALWAYS BE HELD HERE
Fort Wayne delegates who attended the fifteenth annual convention of the Catholic Renewal League of Indiana held at Hammond this week returned Wednesday evening and report that Fort Wayne was chosen as the convention city for this organization. The yearly meetings will hereafter be held in this city.

This was the first time in the history of the society that the convention was not held in Fort Wayne. Hammond made a strong contention to have next year's meeting held there. In view of the fact, however, that Fort Wayne is the home of the supreme council and that the four local councils embrace a membership of nearly seven hundred, it was voted that the meetings be held in Fort Wayne.

It was decided to hold a meeting of this organization in Fort Wayne on September 19. Supreme President Michael Kinder will have charge.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

ORGANIZED SIXTY YEARS.

Columbia City Lodge of Masons Will Observe Anniversary May 29.

Columbia City, Ind., May 18.—Columbia City lodge No. 189, Free and Accepted Masons, will hold a sixtieth anniversary celebration on May 29, and plans are being made to have a big time. The arrangements include degree work, a banquet, a musical entertainment and a pipe organ recital and an address on Masonry by William Geake, of Fort Wayne. The Masonic lodge in this city was organized May 27, 1856, but as the 25th comes on Saturday this year the celebration was postponed until Monday, May 29. The Master Mason degree will be conferred between 3 o'clock and 6 o'clock on one candidate, and at the latter hour the ladies of the M. E. church will serve a banquet in the banquet room on the second floor of the Temple building. The lodges of South Whitley, Chubbuck, Larwill, Pierceton, Roanoke and Wolf Lake have been invited to attend, so a big crowd is anticipated. The Scottish Rite pipe organist and quartet from Fort Wayne will be on hand to give a musical entertainment and pipe organ recital. Mr. Fred Church, the pipe organist, is the best in Fort Wayne and he will be present to play for the crowd. Mr. William Geake, a 33rd degree Mason and one of the most prominent members of the order in the United States, will be present to deliver an address on Masonry.

IN BULL'S BOX STALL.

Animal on Whitley County's Poor Farm Recently Intrusion.

Columbia City, Ind., May 18.—Wayne Druley, an inmate of the county farm, was injured by a bull and sustained some severe and painful bruises before he was rescued from the infuriated animal. Dr. Alice Williams, the county physician, was called to dress his injuries. He had several ribs fractured and his back injured and there appeared to be internal injuries. The trouble came about somewhat in this way: The animal was being led to water out in the barn lot and while he was out, Mr. Druley went into the stall to clean it out and spread some bedding around. The bull was brought back and the man who was leading him did not know that Mr. Druley was in the stall. The powerful bull was turned into the box stall and soon discovered the presence of Druley. The man who was leading the bull called to Mr. Druley to climb out in a hurry but the big animal lunged at him and knocked him down before he could get out. Workmen there rushed to his rescue and the bull was forced back at the point of pitchforks.

HORSE RACES WITH TRAIN

Avilla Nag Gets on Track and Runs for Miles Ahead of Locomotive.

Avilla, Ind., May 18.—D. D. Stewart, of this place, drove to the F. C. Yeiser farm, west of town a few days ago to assist in building fence along the B. & O. right-of-way. On reaching his destination he turned his horse loose in a field along which there was no fence. One freight train came along and the animal paid but little attention to it, but when the second train approached she ran along beside it and finally gained the track ahead. She raced up the track, most of the time ahead of the train, until she reached Albion, when she turned off. Mr. Stewart went to the tower at Ripley and accompanied by Operator Miller, started west in pursuit of the latter's speeder. They found the mare in the Albion ball park, practically uninjured but badly stiffened from her experience. Mr. Stewart led his horse back to the point from which she started and drove home in the evening. He says that the distance is six miles and was covered in twenty minutes.

SUFFRAGISTS TO AMALGAMATE.

Indiana Societies Name Committee to Bring About Union.

Kokomo, Ind., May 18.—Important steps were taken here looking toward the amalgamation of the women's franchise league and the Equal Suffrage association of Indiana, when a committee, consisting of the state presidents of each organization and other appointed members, declared in favor of such amalgamation and decided to appoint a committee which will meet in Indianapolis on June 19 to consider plans for such a step.

association of Indiana, when a committee, consisting of the state presidents of each organization and other appointed members, declared in favor of such amalgamation and decided to appoint a committee which will meet in Indianapolis on June 19 to consider plans for such a step.

Kokomo had been chosen as a meeting place of the two committees today because of the fact that it was located between the home city of Dr. Amelia R. Keller, president of the Franchise league, and Logansport, the home of Mrs. Anna Dunn-Noland, president of the Equal Suffrage association.

REGULATING POOLROOMS

Huntington, Ind., May 18.—In a compromise agreement the city council has passed the ordinance closing the poolrooms at 11 o'clock and at the same time amended an old ordinance thus cutting the poolroom license fees from $25 to $15 a year. The agreement means a $140 loss to the city, according to the figures in City Clerk Harry Young's office. The poolrooms last year paid in $350 in license fees but under the amended ordinance they will pay $210. The passage of the 11 o'clock ordinance came as a result of the petitions circulated by the members of the Christian Endeavor Union. Nearly 500 names were obtained on the petitions and the matter was brought before the council.

PIERCETON WOMAN INJURED.

Warsaw, Ind., May 18.—Mrs. Ray Scott, of Pierceton, was seriously injured and three others badly bruised as the result of a Ford car turning turtle, while turning at the Lightensizer corner, one mile west of Pierceton, Tuesday afternoon. The aged woman was hurried to a physician and is now under his care. The car was being driven by W. Scott and owing to the muddy condition of the roads, the light machine skidded while turning, causing it to roll over. The woman, mother of Mr. Scott, was pinned beneath and sustained many severe injuries. The other occupants of the car were a child of Mr. Scott and a neighbor girl.

HE MERELY DIDN'T KNOW

Huntington, Ind., May 18.—Morris Randall, 18 years old, shot himself in the left knee with a revolver while at the home of Amil Brooks, in this city. Randall had removed three shells from a .22 calibre gun, he said, and thought it was entirely unloaded. He began rapidly pulling the trigger with the muzzle of the gun pointed to the floor. The bullet entered his leg about six inches above the knee and plowed downward. Just how near the knee the bullet lodged, the surgeon could not say because of the swelling. Danger from infection is imminent, the surgeon said, and an operation may be necessary to remove the bullet.

FREAK ANIMALS ARE BORN

Van Wert, Ohio, May 18.—Two peculiarly formed animals have been born in the county within the past few days. At the farm of James E. Foust, northwest of Grover Hill, a calf was foaled with hind legs much longer than the normal and with no fore legs. Some of the internal organs were on the external surface of the body. This freak has been embalmed and is now at the office of Dr. Zeigenshush, of Grover Hill. At the home of Benjamin Brodix, in Liberty township, twin lambs were born, each of the lambs having two pairs of ears. The lambs are apparently in good health.

GIRL VICTIM OF WHITE PLAGUE.

Auburn, Ind., May 18.—Miss Laura Stevens, the fifteen year old daughter of Mrs. Laura Stevens, of this city, is dead after a long illness of tuberculosis. She was born at LaOtto April 8, 1901, coming to Auburn with her mother about five years ago. Her's is the fourth death in the family, the father and two sisters having preceded her in death. Besides the mother she leaves two sisters, Julia and Ruth, and three brothers, Lloyd, Norman and Earnest, and other relatives. She was a member of the Methodist church, from which place the funeral will be held Friday morning.

MONTPELIER MARSHAL SHOT AT.

Montpelier, Ind., May 18.—What looked like an attempt on the life of City Marshal Jesse Morris, took place about midnight, when two shots were fired by an unknown person, both missing the officer by very narrow margins. One bullet went a few inches over the officer's head and through the glass in the window in the tie-in-barn, while the other was still higher, striking in the woodwork at the top of the window. The shots were fired from the stairway that leads to the second story of the Frank Hedges building on Huntington street.

CONVICTED OF ASSAULT

Van Wert, Ohio, May 18.—Guilty on the second count of an indictment, was the verdict of the jury in the case of Clarence Vanover, who was charged with criminally assaulting May Wise, eight years old, of Ohio City, last November. The deliberations of the jury were short, the case being given to them shortly before 6 o'clock and time being taken out for supper. Four ballots only were taken. The punishment provided by law in the case is from one to twenty years in the penitentiary.

Chubbuck, Ind., May 18.—Prof. Lloyd F. Gates and wife, of Chubbuck, will leave the latter part of May for Quebec, Canada, where they will spend the summer. As a precaution against any trouble that might come up, they applied for passports and a considerable amount of red tape had to be followed out with great accuracy, presumably to prevent frauds.

Bluffton, Ind., May 18.—The county jail is now empty for the first time in twenty months. The last inmate, Foreman Inskeep, was taken to the county infirmary Tuesday afternoon. Rose Polytechnic Trustees Propose to Give City Five Acres.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 18.—The trustees of Rose Polytechnic institute have made a formal tender to the city of Terre Haute for park purposes of a five-acre tract of land on the Wabash river, on condition that the city open a parkway along the river bank, and keep the land for park purposes. The trustees reserve the right to erect and Mark 2:3-12.

3 And they came unto him, bringing one sick of the palsy, which was borne of four.
4 And when they could not come nigh unto him for the press, they uncovered the roof where he was: and when they had broken it up, they let down the bed wherein the sick of the palsy lay.
5 When Jesus saw their faith, he said unto the sick of the palsy, Son, thy sins be forgiven thee.
6 But there were certain of the scribes sitting there, and reasoning in their hearts,
7 Why doth this man thus speak blasphemies? who can forgive sins but God only?
8 And immediately, when Jesus perceived in his spirit that they so reasoned within themselves, he said unto them, Why reason ye these things in your hearts?
9 Whether is it easier to say to the sick of the palsy, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and take up thy bed, and walk?
10 But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (he saith to the sick of the palsy,) I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy bed, and go thy way into thine house.
12 And immediately he arose, took up the bed, and went forth before them all; insomuch that they were all amazed, and glorified God, saying, We never saw it on this fashion.

Let us think of our Lord as having all power. There is that about Him that compels faith. Some of these bearers had "seen Jesus" and decided that their palsied friend could be healed. The church is to continue to produce such conviction.

Sunday Real Estate Selling.

Something like a year ago the Fort Wayne Real Estate exchange took an admirable step when it voted to discontinue the practice of Sunday real estate sales, which had apparently gotten a firm foothold among firms which were engaged in placing new additions upon the market. It had become the practice of many dealers to advertise heavily, invite prospective purchasers to visit the newly-platted territory on Sunday, place energetic salesmen in charge on those days and no doubt a considerable volume of business was transacted in this way. But it was wrong, and the realty men realized it. They knew a business contract made on Sunday was invalid, that the practice was morally open to suspicion and that the plan was not in accord with high-class business principles. Its members determined to end it, and they have kept the faith.

Recently, however, there has been a disposition upon the part of outside promoters of property here, not members of the Real Estate exchange, to defy the code set up by the Fort Wayne realty men and to devote Sunday to the exploitation of additions in which they are interested. Whether it will be found possible by some form of evasion to avoid a technical violation of the law regarding Sabbath desecration or not, The Sentinel is not lawyer enough to say. It does believe, however, that the system is wrong both ethically and morally, and that it should be emphatically discontinued. The Fort Wayne realty men are absolutely right in the position they have taken, and in their attitude they should have the most emphatic support of the Fort Wayne public.

Governor Ralston, when he assumed the duties of chief executive of Indiana, was no doubt fully aware that he had not acquired a sinecure, but a job in which there was to be a tremendously big lot of work and no little responsibility as well as the honor that is one of the perquisites of the position. Yet we doubt if he correctly measured the variety of the demands that were to be made upon both his time and his versatility. By no conceivable stretch of the imagination can be it assumed that he expected to be drafted into service as a star in a movie film or as an actor in a pageant. Yet both have happened to Mr. Ralston in connection with the Indiana centennial within the past few days. In casting about for future governors, we might take into account the possibility that the future may make demands upon them as aviators as well. There's no telling where this thing will end.

The president's position in urging the largest measure of co-operation by the federal trade commission with the business interests of the country will be warmly endorsed by business generally. Too often we take the unwarranted view that the purpose of a government commission is wholly regulative and generally antagonistic, when just the opposite should be true. The trade commission's labor is to help and not to hinder. Among the practical suggestions made by the president was that in which he urged that if the federal body finds an industry that is not in a healthy condition, it should, in co-operation with the parties interested, suggest a practical and helpful remedy. The federal trade commission is largely an experiment, and it is in a sense merely on trial. It should be able to prove by the good it accomplishes its right to exist.

Secretary of War Baker is frowning on the suggestion of well-meaning but misguided friends of his that he run for the democratic vice presidential nomination. Possibly Mr. Baker believes his present job is sufficiently troublesome for any one man, without going about looking for others, and so long as the Mexican chaos continues the conclusion appears to be wholly justified. Secretary Baker favors the renomination of Vice President Marshall, as do pretty nearly all the other democrats and no inconsiderable number of republicans in these United States.

In the bitter fight which attended the republican primary election in Pennsylvania Senator Boies Penrose gave another exhibition of his power and not only entrenched himself firmly in party leadership in the Keystone state, but settled for some time to come just whom you've got to see in Pennsylvania. Just at this juncture it would be interesting to have the unbiased opinion of the progressive republicans of that state as to the party's progress toward progressiveness.

The lower house has passed the bill appropriating $15,000,000 for flood prevention along the Mississippi and Sacramento rivers. Every once in a while something occurs somewhere to remind us that upon a time we were going to do some flood preventing right here in Fort Wayne.

Seeks Comfort in Travel; War Made Woman Wanderer

MRS. NEWTON FORD

The fortunes of war have made Mrs. Newton Ford a wanderer about the earth in search of solace. Somewhere in France her husband is suffering from wounds received in battle. In an unmarked grave lies her brother, once a prominent clergyman of London. Her husband and brother enlisted shortly after the war began. First came the word that the husband had been wounded. Soon after the news came to her that her brother had been shot through the head and killed while he was endeavoring to assist a soldier on the battlefield. Unable to endure the tragedy the war brought her, Mrs. Ford left England and is now traveling in the United States.

(From The Fatherland). Those who assume that there is something impertinent in Germany making her submarine policy contingent on an enforcement of our neutral rights against England willfully misstate the case as presented in the German note. The question whether we shall insist on our rights or not, is truly a matter for our own consideration, and cannot possibly justify Germany in dictating to us. If we choose to surrender our independence to England it is strictly our own affair.

But it does concern Germany if we demand of her to obey "the dictates of humanity" by abandoning her submarine policy and allow Great Britain to go on in the unrestricted enjoyment of an "ineffective, illegal and indefensible blockade"—to quote Secretary Lansing's own words—intended to starve the civil population into submission, as the Buer republics were starved into submission, forcing the laws of humanity to apply to Germany and not to her enemy. It is not a question of Germany requiring us to force Great Britain to respect our neutral rights, as contended by those interested in absorbing the issue, but of compelling an impartial observation of the principles of humanity, compelling Great Britain to subscribe to those principles now that Germany has subscribed to them. Since humanity is to be elevated into an administration doctrine, it must be enforced against both groups of belligerents or against neither.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

WICHITA HAS TWO PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES — THEY'RE EDITORS OF OPPOSING NEWSPAPERS.

VICTOR MURDOCK
Washington, D. C., May 18.—The chance was mentioned for the presidency is to run a newspaper in Wichita, Kas.

Wichita has two presidential possibilities—men who may run for president on the progressive ticket if Roosevelt doesn't, or who may run for vice president if T. R. heads the slate.

And both possibilities are newspapermen.

Victor Murdock was managing editor of the Wichita Eagle for nine years, until he was elected to congress in 1903. His mother owns the Eagle and Victor still writes for it occasionally.

Henry J. Allen, the other favorite son, is editor and owner of the Wichita Beacon; he spends much time in Washington as correspondent for his paper and the Kansas City Star.

Allen is a native of Pennsylvania and was born in 1868. He got his schooling in Kansas, where he was graduated from two colleges, and soon afterward he started buying newspapers, building them up, and letting them go for something bigger.

Murdock, though, is a native Kansan, and was born into the newspaper game. His father owned the Eagle and Victor grew up in the business. He was born in '71.

HUMDRUM AFFAIR IS WAR, HE SAYS

American Youth in Midst of Fighting Calls It Monotonous.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 18.—Declaring Rudolph V. Surr, 21 years old, son of Attorney Vincent Surr, of Berkeley and San Francisco, rather "rips the brass buttons off the war," even though he does describe the great conflict as "appallingly monotonous and as impersonal as a thunderstorm."

Young Surr has been in charge of a gunner's detachment on the western front for six months without leave. He is living 20 feet underground, except when in action, for the stench of unburied bodies scattered on the ground above is unbearable, he says.

"This part of the line has seen some fierce fighting. You can't dig trenches without cutting through graves," the young lieutenant wrote in a letter to his father. We are well supplied with dug-outs and take shelter in them when the shells begin to come our way.

"On bright days we would enjoy sitting in the trenches, open to the air and sunlight. Ours would be all right if it were not for a dead Frenchman in the side of the trench, half exposed to view, who makes the place unendurable when the wind blows from the south. We can't cover him up without blocking the trench and if we went anywhere else it would be just the same thing."

"This war, on the whole, is different from all others; it's a day-in, day-out, business and is run much as a big factory is run. Shifts and turns and regular hours for meals and arrivals of rations, ammunition and mail, and so on. That's why, compared with all other wars, it's so appallingly monotonous. You probably think it rubbish to say that sheer boredom is the keynote of the whole thing, but it's the literal truth. It is all as impersonal as a thunder storm."

"I felt I should like to kill a few Boches for sacrilege the first time I saw a dead woman unearthed from a vault, but the angry feeling passed, and now I look on it as a business. It's my duty to kill Fritz, and Fritz' to kill me, and in the process we do some unpleasant things that can't be helped."

SHE TOLD HER NEIGHBOR.

"I told a neighbor whose very young child had croup about Foley's Honey and Tar," writes Mrs. Rehkamp, 2404 Herman St., Covington, Ky. "She thought that the child surely would die it was so bad. When she gave it a couple doses of Foley's Honey and Tar she was so pleased with the change she did not know what to say." This old reliable cough syrup immediately helps coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. Just as good for old as it is for young folks. Drier Drug Co.—Advertisement.

Berkeley, Cal., May 18.—Lieutenant that he was fighting for a principle and not for a license. Dr. T. F. Ratledge, chiropractic practitioner, went to jail here recently after the governor had offered him a pardon, providing he would submit to the examinations of the state medical board.

Dr. Ratledge was arrested on a charge of practicing without a license and after a fight that went to the supreme court was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail. The matter has been in the courts practically since 1912.

"I do not want a license as a 'druggish practitioner,'" says Dr. Ratledge. "That would be only a slur and an insult to my profession. What I am fighting for is a separate board of examiners to pass on chiropractors who differ as much from doctors as night does from day."

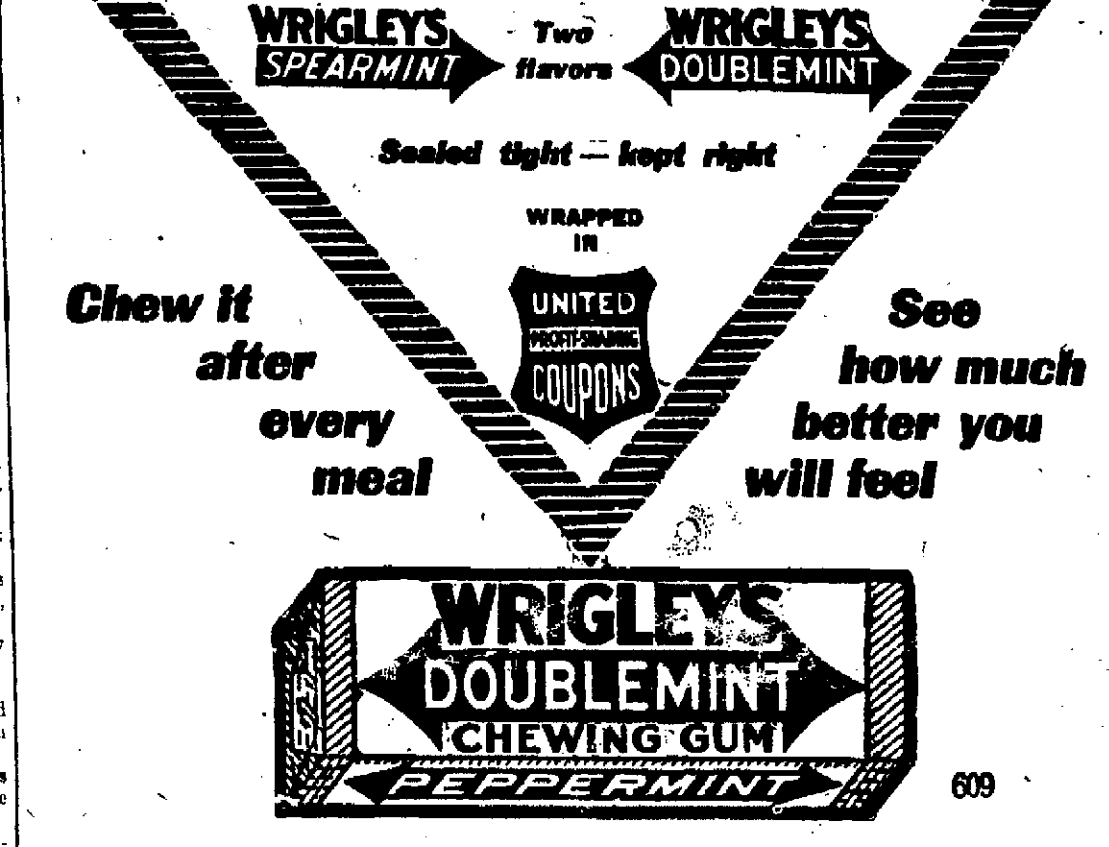

"I am fighting for the same recognition for chiropractors in California that has been accorded them in five other states—Kansas, Arkansas, Nebraska, North Dakota and Oregon; the privilege of separate examinations by men who understand our work."

WINS AFTER 27 YEARS' STRUGGLE

Elijah Eckenbarger at Last Defeats Troubles With the Aid of Tanlac.

Elijah Eckenbarger, 41 years old, a well known farmer who lives on rural route No. 29, Fort Wayne, is one of the firmest of the hundreds of friends of Tanlac, the Master Medicine, who have made in this city and vicinity.

"For the last twenty-seven years I have suffered from rheumatism and rheumatism. Severe rheumatic pains came in my arms and shoulders, and neuralgia pains came in various parts of my body. I was bothered so that I hardly could sleep at night. I also have had kidney trouble for the last five years, pains in my back bothering me.

"I saw Tanlac advertised and decided to give the medicine a trial. I had taken only about a half bottle of Tanlac when I realized the kidney and neuralgia pains were gradually becoming less severe. Soon I began to feel better in every way. Now the rheumatic and kidney pains have practically all disappeared.

"I can do a whole day's work with more ease now than I formerly could do two hours' work. Tanlac is doing away with my troubles of years' standing, and I therefore am glad to recommend it. I already have told dozens of friends about the medicine. My son, who is 23 years old, is taking Tanlac now."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism, nervousness, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, and the like and is a fine blood purifier and general tonic.

Tanlac is now being introduced in Fort Wayne at the Wayne and Calhoun streets store of the Meyer Drug Co., where the Tanlac Man is explaining the new remedy. It also may be obtained at the other Meyer stores, Calhoun and Columbia, 1420 Calhoun and Broadway and Taylor.—Advertisement.

DONALD ROBERTSON, PAGEANTMASTER

The Man Who is Entering Upon Final Rehearsals of Vast Acting Company of Over 1,000 People Who Will Present the Great Pageant of Fort Wayne.

ONE OF the most remarkable men who has come into the life of Fort Wayne in many a year is Donald Robertson, the man upon whose shoulders has fallen the responsibility of training 1,140 amateur actors—all true Fort Wayne citizens—and making of them the interpreters of the thrilling story of Fort Wayne. William Owen, close friend and stage associate of Donald Robertson, who has been called in to serve as assistant in the great undertaking, speaks of his friend in an article which he has been requested to prepare for the press.

DONALD ROBERTSON

(By William Owen)

In selecting Donald Robertson as its pageant master, the centennial committee has secured one of the most important figures on the American stage, and one whose career is a combination of youthful desire carried out with a romantic movement, that would have delighted Dumas or Scott.

In a recent talk with the writer of these lines, Mr. Robertson, in going over some of his earlier experiences, drew such happy, quaint moving pictures that I was forced to say to myself, "Romance, driven out of every other occupation, is making its last stand in the theater." Not that there was anything overdrawn or sensational in the telling. Mr. Robertson is far too modest for that. It was the simple story of a boy who had an ideal, with the initiative and the vigor to put it into operation; and the story was the simple happenings that befell him on the way.

His Boyhood.

Literature had been his passion from his earliest years, and being gifted with rare powers of expression, what more natural than that he should wish others to share his delight in the masterpiece? At school, his masters recognized his powers from the first, and encouraged his natural bent, with the result that at seventeen, he was offered the chair of oratory in three very exclusive schools in Manhattan and Brooklyn.

His First Stage Experience

But elocution did not offer wide enough scope for the ambition of young Robertson. It represented to his young mind only one side of life. The stage as his idealism received it, took in the whole state of man, and to the stage he turned.

There was playing at that time in New York an eccentric genius, a German Jew named Bandman, whose activities began in one of the court theaters of his native land, had been transferred to England, where he had much success playing in the English language. To him, Robertson went with his ambition in one hand and his courage in the other. Bandman was a good deal of a bear off the stage, and he growled out to the aspirant:

"What do you want to go upon the stage for?"

In Shakespearean Repertoire

Thus his professional career had its beginning in a Shakespearean repertoire. When the time came for the company to leave New York, he was offered a part in one of the three reigning successes, and as the company included four very fine actors, Robertson concluded that training in the modern drama under such masters would be more, and he accepted. From the moment he started rehearsals, his eagerness to learn and his evident talent appeared at once, and all that these actors had learned of their art was at his disposal, for actors are generous, and when they see a disposition, capable and anxious to learn, there are no pains they will not take to develop it.

A season followed in a very good stock company in which a constant change of bill developed alertness, quick study and variety. It was hard work of the most unceasing kind, but it paid.

His Opportunity.

And now an opportunity presented itself which was to give him a national reputation. Hard work had been his portion up to this time, and chance was to give the result the acid test to determine whether he was fine gold. "The Two Orphans" was the most popular success of the day. Kate Klinton was the star as Louise, the girl. She was in need of a Pierre, too.

poor cripple boy of the play. Candidate after candidate had been tried out and all had failed.

In the company in which he was then playing were two very remarkable actors, F. F. Mackey and Louise Sylvester. The first of these had been the original Pierre in its celebrated run at the Union Square, and he was the one who suggested that Robertson try for the part. The two now began to prepare him for his trial.

It is usually a long time before a young actor feels sure enough of himself to allow his feelings to dominate his technique. His lack of experience warned him to stick to the directions, and if he is capable of remembering all he has been told it is usually all that is expected of him. During one of the lessons of preparation for his trial, Miss Sylvester, carried away by her enthusiasm and knowledge of the genuine requirements of the part, broke in:

"No! No! That is not enough! It is too cold—too mechanical. Do this!" And she went through the part with heart-breaking pathos.

Young Robertson stood spellbound. He had never seen such acting at rehearsal before, but his brain mind recognized that this was what made the audience feel—that a moment of it was worth an hour of the most calculated effect. Gathering himself together, he concentrated his emotions into one final outburst of tears and sobs that not only shook himself, but carried his teachers with him.

They sent him to his trial. All the way up Fifth avenue, he limped so that the passersby turned in pity to look at him. Arriving at Miss Claxton's apartments, he went through the scene and was enthusiastically accepted. His success in the part was nation wide.

His Stage Career.

His subsequent career is a matter of theatrical history both in this country and in England. Always on the side of the highest and the best, he has never lowered the standards for the sake of commercial gain. His organization of one of the most brilliant companies that speaks the English language is a matter of recent record. He has introduced many of the unplayed classics to this country. He has been bold enough to produce Milton's "Comus," Voltaire's "The Prodigal," Goethe's "Torquato Tasso," Moliere's "Leaves of Ladies," "Tartuffe," and "Miser," all plays which no other manager had the temerity to produce. He has been the inspiration of some of the biggest successes, such as Moody's "The Great Divide," and "The Faith Healer." He has encouraged many dramatists who would never otherwise have been heard of, by producing or helping to correct their works. He has taught many of the most successful young men and women now in the theater.

His latest work is the "Fort Wayne Pageant," to which he is giving the result of his long experience, and from which he is getting marvelous results.

Do you wonder that I say your committee has made the best choice that could be found in America?

"We view the world with our own eyes, each of us, and we make from within us the world we see," wrote Thackeray. "A weary heart gets no glimpse out of sunshine; a selfish man is skeptical about friendship, as a man with no ear doesn't care for music."

POPULAR NOTIONS LARGELY HEARSAY

We're Frequently Wrong About Food Supply, Says Barnard.

Indianapolis, May 18.—That popular notions about the food supply are largely hearsay and therefore frequently wrong, was the statement made before the Indiana Canners' association today by H. E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner.

"Food faddists and self-appointed reformers are taking charge of our dietaries and telling us what to eat and how to eat it," he said. "It is time more perfect knowledge about food was available. This information is necessary both for the man who eats and the manufacturer who prepares foods. The present day canner leads in the conservation of fruits and vegetables. He has learned how to pack away the surplus of orchard and garden that he may enjoy them when fresh fruits and vegetables are not obtainable.

"In the development of his business the canner has had an uphill fight. He has faced and downed the bugaboo of ptomaines; of tin poisoning; of the destruction of the vitamins. He has yet a long way to go before the can of corn, peas or tomatoes is accepted in every household as a safe, wholesome and palatable food, just as the loaf of bread from the baker or potatoes and apples from the barrel are accepted and eaten without question.

"Canned food is valuable not only because it is possible through the magic of the can to conserve surplus, it is valuable because it is good food, ready to serve with little expense for preparation, without trouble to the cook and with pleasurable satisfaction to the circle around the dinner table.

"The canner has been so busy fighting the phantoms which have assailed his industry that he has not had time to teach its real value in terms of food or labor saved. It is possible to translate a can of corn, of peas, of hominy, into units of food value and to show how it is possible at slight expense to feed the family the vegetables rich in mineral salts which are necessary to proper nutrition.

"It is equally possible to point out the economical use of canned goods by showing that by their use the trouble of preparation and the cost of fuel for cooking is largely estimated. This is a matter of no small moment which must very properly be taken into consideration by the housewife who is preparing dinner.

"The quality of canned goods is accepted without question. All canned goods put up in the modern factory are good food, but for superior canned goods, packed from the finest vegetables outdoors, in the most sanitary factories anywhere operated, and by the finest set of canners ever gathered in convention, I commend to you the can which bears the label 'packed in Indiana.'"

He Had Dared Death

to seek "the secret of the submarine" for his country! He had fought the whole crew—beaten the inventor—shot part of the invention to bits—stunned the U. S. naval investigator! His smoking revolver covered his retreat up through the hatch, the new opening device of which he understood. A hated spy with one chance of life—he struggled through the torrent pouring into the subsea boat, wrenched himself free and plunged into the salty flood! Behind him—the submarine shipping water at a terrific rate through the open hatch, began to flounder—and go down!

The Secret of the Submarine

By E. ALEXANDER POWELL

A thrilling story that will stir every red-blooded American! One of the most absorbing plots, one of the most elusive mysteries, one of the most daring international intrigues imaginable. Around the remarkable naval invention-idea of securing air for subsea craft directly from the water the author has woven a story of supreme interest.

A full page installment of this thrilling story will appear in the Sentinel every Saturday for fifteen weeks. Each installment will be shown at the GRAND THEATER the following Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Clyde Sunday, accompanied by her sister, Miss Amy Lindemuth, were passengers to Fort Wayne Wednesday, where they spent the day the guests of their brother, Ross Lindemuth, and family.

Miss Ethel Saum went to Fort Wayne Wednesday, where she will visit her uncle, Dr. G. W. McCaskey, and family.

The wedding of Miss Rose Frances Reising, of this place, and Francis Joseph McAdams, of Monroeville, Ind., which took place at St. Mary's Catholic church at this place Tuesday morning, was largely attended. Rev. Father Capps officiated, assisted by Rev. Father John Berthelot, of North Baltimore. Mrs. J. Herle presided at the organ. The floral decorations of the altar were profuse, while many brilliant lights added much to the occasion. The bride and groom, after a short honeymoon trip, will be at home on a farm near Monroeville.

Mitchell, Margaret M. Burgess, Earl Babcock, Edwin W. Schmunk, Ralph F. Schooley, Paul Chester. The class motto is "Beauty of mind endureth forever."

IT'S THE ALEXANDRIA WAY

Two Pretty Girls Drive Mashers Away With Umbrellas.

Alexandria, Ind., May 18.—"Well have none of your sass around here," two "mashers" at the transfer station here heard from a pretty girl who, with a companion, was waiting for a car to Anderson. Two umbrellas in the hands of the young women then played a merry time on the heads of the men who had attempted a flirtation. One of the girls started up the street to look for a policeman and the two "mashers" lost a hasty retreat down an alley. In the "battle" one of the umbrellas was broken, so vigorously was it used on the heads of the men.

THREE MEN ARE SHOT IN STRIKE RIOTING

Entire Police and Fire Departments Called Out at Ansonia, Conn.

Ansonia, Conn., May 18.—Three men were shot, one probably fatally, in a riot today at the plant of the Ansonia Manufacturing company, where between 150 and 200 men are on strike. One man was shot through the lungs and was taken to a hospital in a serious condition. The wounds of the other two were less serious. The strikers are said to have been aroused by a report that strike-breakers were being brought into town. They marched to the factory and began throwing stones through the windows of the factory building. Guards stationed inside the factory then fired into the crowd. The police force and fire departments were called to the scene and restored order.

DETOURING WELLS-FARGO EXPRESS

East and West Business Sent Around Chicago on Account of Strike.

The strike of the messengers and drivers of the Wells-Fargo Express company in Chicago is making a great deal extra work for the employees at Fort Wayne and elsewhere. All the express business from points east of Chicago to points west of that city and business from the west to the east, which under normal conditions passes through Chicago, is now being detoured and much of it comes through Fort Wayne and has to be handled here. This condition has existed for three days and the men at the depot office of the express company are getting tired of it and wondering when it will stop.

TO PREVENT AUTO ACCIDENTS.

Long Island Adopts Novel Method in "Safety First."

Continuing the campaign it conducted last year against reckless driving of automobiles over grade crossings, the Long Island railroad has announced that it will redouble its efforts in 1944, and that it hopes thereby to go through the summer without a single serious automobile accident at a grade crossing.

As the first step, the Long Island has issued a poster printed in red, orange and black. Under the caption of "We know you want to help us," the poster says:

"We tried hard last year to go through the summer without a fatal automobile accident at a grade crossing. We put up huge signs and we advertised extensively in the newspapers, warning people against reckless driving. As a result, no one was killed, but there were several serious accidents and many life-threatening injuries. We are rebuilding our efforts this year. We hope to go through the summer without a single serious accident. We cannot do it without your help. Please! Stop before you cross."

BUSINESS DROPPING OFF.

Nickel Plate Begins to Feel the Lighter Movement.

Freight business on the east and west roads through Fort Wayne and particularly the Nickel Plate, which has been doing a record business for the time of year, has commenced to fall off, though there has been no great reduction in crews. H. L. Phipps, traveling engineer for the Fort Wayne division, who has been in the city a day or two looking into the engine situation, which has been dropped from the Fort Wayne division regular list. The train crews have not yet been disturbed, but if the business does not pick up again soon, a reduction will be made. From Cincinnati comes the news that five crews on the Buffalo division have been dropped, but the men affected have not been furloughed or dismissed.

PAINTERS HAVE A BLOWOUT.

Organizer Henry Hoelke, representing the American Federation of Labor, was present and delivered an address and there were addresses by others. The committee, who had charge of the entertainment was composed of S. W. Burgoon, August Finks, Edward Kirschner, Susan Reed and M. Curran.

SUBSTITUTE FOR GASOLINE

Harrison G. Shouppe, of Sandusky, O., has discovered a good and inexpensive substitute for gasoline, he claims. With a half-pint of the liquid and 100 gallons of water, he can produce a "stuff" that can be substituted for gasoline in any desired way, he says. He gave a demonstration of the fluid before a number of newspapermen and manufacturers and they were surprised at the results.

SPECIAL RATES TO EAST

Local ticket agents have been advised of the granting of excursion rates—$29.50 for the round trip—from Fort Wayne to New York City on account of the meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs on May 20, 21, 22 and 23. The inquiries at the Pennsylvania, the Wabash and the Nickel Plate offices indicate an interest in the rate and that there will be some travel to New York on that occasion.

SAM SPEECE IMPROVING.

S. P. Speece, Pennsylvania passenger engineer, who was struck by a mail crane at Monroeville, yesterday, is doing well at the St. Joseph hospital under the treatment of Dr. Budd Van Swearingen. The worst feature of the wound was the driving of a piece of his cap in the flesh, causing laceration to the cap, but this has passed and Mr. Speece is getting along nicely.

THREE MONTHS AT FARM FOR A THIEF

Robert Castle Convicted of Robbery at Geake Stone Yards.

Robert Castle, a hobo stonecutter, was convicted in the city court, Thursday morning, on a charge of petit larceny for breaking open tool-boxes of employees at the Geake stone yards on Pearl street, and was fined $20 and costs with sixty days added, all to be served at the state penal farm. The penalty will keep Castle there three months. The robbery was committed Sunday, and an investigation by Detective Sergeant W. F. Pappert and M. A. Russell, pointed to Castle as the thief. He had pawned the stolen tools for money to buy drinks. He was arrested by Detective Pappert. Castle declared in court that he had pawned the tools for a stranger.

Other City Court Cases.

Alvin Distel established a complete alibi in the city court and Judge H. M. Schaefer granted him a discharge. He was charged that he had driven his automobile at a speed of 30 miles an hour. Ray said he had no passengers at Calhoun street and Douglas avenue. Witnesses for the state had failed to give the correct license number of a car owned by Distel and driven by another person.

Gruver Ray, an employee of the Traction company, was fined $10 and costs for exceeding the speed limit. He was arrested on South Wayne avenue Tuesday by Motorcycle Officer John Lynch, after doing a sprint at thirty miles per hour on a street car standing on a speedometer on his machine and did not think he was going too fast, though he had but a few minutes in which to report for work and was hastening.

Charles Richmond, Lawrence Guthrie and James Burns, drunks, were fined $5 and costs each, and Tom Hayes, an older drew $1 and costs.

Dan McGinnis, a loiterer, was turned loose.

Phil Mendel, a loiterer, arrested after he had pawned a ring, told a straight story of coming here from Columbia City, where he had been employed in a woolen mill, needing cash and negotiating a loan. He was allowed to leave town.

Arthur Carter, a negro, who was taken from a merchandise car on the Nickel Plate railroad by Capt. C. L. Donk, of that railroad's special police, was continued until the 23rd inst. Some merchandise has been reported missing from the car.

The case against John Hagerman, the building contractor, who is charged with operating a motor car while intoxicated, was set for trial next Monday. The case has been pending several weeks. Hagerman drove his motor truck into a collision with a jitney bus at Clinton and Washington streets, and a woman passenger in the jitney had a leg broken.

Phonograph Was No Inducement

With the ammunition factories, the stores and the other factories engaging women in their services, it is nearly impossible to find any but inefficient help for house work.

One Fort Wayne man, however, thought he had solved the problem. When he built his new home he gave the architect special instructions regarding the rooms that were to be occupied by the maid and other help. He had a phonograph installed for their amusement, folding beds, and every convenience that wealth could buy. As a matter of fact he never did have much trouble in keeping his help, but he realized that the new home would mean extra work and he thought the phonograph and the other conveniences would make up the difference.

But he awakened one morning a week or two after moving into the aforesaid new home, to find that the help had quit. And both he and the Mrs. have been experiencing no little trouble in getting desirable help, notwithstanding the phonograph and other inducements offered.

Fort Wayne brokers have been informed by letter that the Indiana Association of Licensed and Small Loan Brokers will hold its state convention in Indianapolis on May 26 instead of May 24.

LAWN INSPECTION IS INAUGURATED

First Scoring of Premises in Backyards Contest is Begun.

The work of inspecting lawns in the backyard contest in the clean-up and beautification campaign that is to proceed during the summer in Fort Wayne was inaugurated Thursday by the women chosen to do the scoring. The system of scoring establishes a possible 200 points—100 for civic beauty and 100 for sanitary conditions. That person who receives the highest average will be the winner.

The work of inspection is going rapidly and well. There will be two other inspections at later periods in the season.

Scoring for Civic Beauty.

In judging the yards on the point of civic beauty grades on four different phases will be given. For the general plan, based on the elements of landscape gardening—open space, planning in mass and avoiding straight lines—35 points will be given.

For general appearance 50 points will be given. This will include the idea of the best view, flower beds, etc., and the entire yard to the center of the alley will be taken into consideration. For cultural care 20 points will be given and 15 points will be allowed on arrangement.

Sanitary Scoring.

The following things will be considered for sanitary conditions:

First, toilets, 35 points. Consideration will be given to general appearance, outside, or inside, open privy, and if open, whether screened or unscreened, etc.

Second, garbage, 35 points. The method of disposal will figure in here. Consideration will be given to the container, whether of wood or metal, and whether or not the tin cans are perforated.

Third, drainage, 15 points. Whether or not the drainage is open or closed, whether the drainwater is thrown in the back yard, and conditions such as these will be taken into consideration.

Fourth, alleys, 15 points. The manure boxes will be considered and judged on whether or not they are closed. General conditions on fences, etc., will enter.

Where window boxes are under consideration the harmonious coloring and whether or not they are evenly balanced will be the determining factors.

Board of Councilors Meet.

There was a meeting of the board of councilors, recently named for the campaign, at the office of the board of health, Wednesday evening. Owing to numerous other meetings of various sorts in the city the attendance was not as large as was desired, but there was a discussion of plans and Mrs. Josephine L. Nesbitt, who is in charge of the campaign, discussed phases of the work with the councilors present. Hereafter there will be regular meetings of the councilors every Thursday evening at the office of the board of health, beginning next week.

Mrs. Nesbitt wants very much to get the addresses of a number of children who have filed applications in the backyard contest and have failed to tell where they live. Every effort to locate them has failed. The following are asked to send their addresses to Mrs. Nesbitt: Willie Schenckmann, Edith Fletcher, Lester Finkner, Eva Liles, Maurice Lahey, Earl Robins, Ruth Opat Roberts, Raymond Monroe, Allan Ray, Herbert Ek and Joseph Bunch.

LANDED IN A FENCE CORNER.

A. J. Diehl is in Hospital With a Fractured Collar Bone.

A. J. Diehl, proprietor of the U. I. restaurant on West Main street, sustained a fractured collar bone and other injuries, Wednesday, when he was thrown from a side car attached to a motorcycle in which he was riding, landing in a fence corner at the side of the Bass road half a mile from the city. He is now at St. Joseph hospital.

Diehl has a motorcycle for sale and James Joseph, a Nickel Plate brakeman, was a prospective purchaser. Before making the purchase, however, he wanted to try it out. Telling Diehl he could drive the machine, Joseph took the throttle and Diehl the side car. Everything went lovely until they hit a bad spot in the road and when Diehl awakened he was in a fence corner. One of his shoes was later found in a field near by. Joseph escaped with a few minor bruises. Notwithstanding the injuries he received, Diehl failed to dispose of his machine.

ROTARY CLUB WILL AID.

Names Committee to Aid River Beautification Project.

Robert Koerber, G. M. Haffner and E. E. Greif were named as a committee of the Rotary club to assist the project after William Preuer had outlined at the regular weekly luncheon his plan to place a dam in the St. Joe river at the site of the old Rudisill dam and create a widened river for the distance of six miles to Robinson park.

No further meetings of the Rotary club will be held until after the Fort Wayne centennial but members will entertain their ladies at a banquet on June 1.

WANTED MORTGAGE LIFTED

After It Was Paid Mrs. Frederick Solze Moved to Fort Wayne.

Bucyrus, O., May 13.—Frederick Solze, of Lykens township, wants his wife enjoined from selling an infant in Bucyrus. He alleges she induced him to marry her so she could lift a $1,300 mortgage on it. After it was paid she left him and went to Fort Wayne. He claims she said "she did not love him, but needed the money."

Mrs. Solze's name does not appear in either the city or telephone directories.

Herman Latz, 1114 Rockhill street, fell at the transfer corner about midnight Wednesday and was seriously hurt. He had to be removed to his home in the police ambulance.

Clarence Hantz, 11 years old, of Angola, who suffered a fractured skull some days ago when he was kicked by a horse, remains in a critical condition at St. Joseph hospital.

REHEARING ASKED BY CITY ATTORNEY

Petitions Supreme Court in Ornamental Lighting Assessments.

City Attorney Guy Colerick has just filed in the supreme court a petition for a rehearing in the case of Frank P. Walters, the city of Fort Wayne for an injunction to restrain collection of the assessments for the ornamental lighting system on Calhoun street south of the railroad. In a recent decision the supreme court held that the city could enforce collection of assessments only for the lamp-posts and not for any other part of the installation. The petition for rehearing sets up that in one instance the supreme court erred and that in another it did not decide an essential question in its ruling.

Concordia Track Is Under Construction

Quarter Mile Cinder Path and Athletic Field at College

Capt. George E. Byroade has been hard at work on the Concordia college quarter mile track and athletic field in the past week or ten days and it will not be long before they will be ready for use. The track is a quarter mile, and runs around the edge of the big campus, while the tennis courts and athletic field are within it.

The campus is more or less rolling, with a low portion in the northeast corner, and a rise of probably three feet to the southwest end of the grounds. It is necessary to cut down the upper end and to fill in the lower and the Grace Construction company has been employed to haul in several hundred loads of earth for filling. As soon as the leveling is completed the cinder path will be laid, and it is hoped to have it in shape for working out early in June.

The tennis courts will be constructed toward the west end of the campus and there will be a number of them in a row. The gymnasium runs along the east end and between the courts and the gym will be a field large enough to conduct any field maneuvers the school battalion wishes to engage in.

GIRL CHAMPION DIVER WINS BY CONFIDENCE IN HERSELF.

MISS LILLIAN MILLER.

Cincinnati, O., May 18.—The champion girl diver of greater Cincinnati is a regular sermon on self-confidence, poise, personality and all that sort of thing. She is one of those persons who believe one can do almost anything one sets out to do.

When she won the diving championship by outdiving eight other girls in a big glass tank at a local vaudeville theater the other night Miss Lillian Miller was not surprised. She expected to win, that you see, being one of the ingredients of a really, truly championship disposition.

Miss Miller wasn't frightened by the spectators who watched the divers. She was as cool as a cucumber. Some of the girls dived from the edge of the tank. She dived from a springboard way up in the files. The champion diver is a stenographer and cashier.

UNGUARDED CONVICTS PLAY BASEBALL GAME

Columbus, O., May 15.—Murderers, burglars, confidence men and pickpockets composing the Ohio penitentiary baseball team, today played an amateur team at the local American association ball park. It was said to be the first time that a convict team, unguarded, has been permitted to play outside of prison walls. Proceeds of the game will go to charity. The prison band, composed of thirty convicts, accompanied the team to the park, and before the game and between innings entertained the crowd with lively airs. The sporting editor of the Ohio Penitentiary News, which is published by the convicts within the prison, represented the paper which will carry a full account.

Several prison officials attended the game but none of them were armed, all of the convicts being on their honor not to attempt to escape.

JACK VANN DROPS FROM SALT LAKE

Jack Vann, last year catcher for Terre Haute, and considered one of the strong men of the league, and who went to Salt Lake City the early part of this season, has been turned back to Gilbert's Terriers. Gilbert, however, has no use for him and undoubtedly will be able to sell him to some other club, as he is a snappy player and was in demand early this year.

WISHES TO SERVE IN MEXICO

"Hanging Sheriff of Andersonville," 73, Would Like to Enlist.

Danville, Ill., May 18.—J. W. Payne, age seventy-three, "the hanging sheriff" of Andersonville prison, is anxious to take a hand in the Mexican trouble. In spite of his age, he says, he is in good condition for service. Mr. Payne lives near Danville on a small farm. He gained fame during the civil war when he was a prisoner at Andersonville. With Big Pete McCullough, of Mexico, Mo., who died a few months ago, he was in charge of the hanging of six of his fellow-prisoners at Andersonville when the men were convicted of stealing the scanty rations of other prisoners. As Payne often has expressed it, "they took our lives when they took our grub," and it was necessary to put a stop to the thievery.

Captain Wirz, who was in command of the prison, permitted the prisoners to organize a court and try the men believed to be guilty. McCullough was elected judge and Payne was elected sheriff. A gallows was erected within the stockade, and after a two days' trial, the ringleaders, six in number, were hanged.

PORT DOPE

Matty Metcaw, Grand Rapids, Central league catcher, has not warmed up right this year, and DeVormer stepped in and filled his shoes. So he was released yesterday by Manager Bill Esick.

Indianapolis, May 18.—A big athletic program will be one of the features of the state centennial celebration in Indianapolis. The details of the program have not been worked out yet but it is considered practically certain that one of the principal events will be a relay race from the four corners of the state to Indianapolis. Amateur baseball, tennis and golf matches are to be a part of the athletic program.

Lee Hobbs, of the Dayton Central leaguers, has hit early in all but two games this year.

Indianapolis, May 18.—The question of whether Ralph DePalma will drive in the annual automobile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway on Memorial day is becoming quite an affair in gasoline circles. A host of friends of DePalma, who is one of the most popular race drivers that ever circled the brick oval here, is insisting that he be permitted to enter the contest. The speedway management is taking a poll of all the drivers entered on the question and to be successful, DePalma must receive a unanimous vote. Barney Oldfield, who declares the Memorial day contest will be his last race, insists that only those who had filed their entrance papers on May 1 be permitted to start. Oldfield, it is understood, has said he will withdraw if any post entries are permitted.

WHITE-WELSH BOUT NOW IS CINCHED

It Will Go Over Twenty Rounds in South America.

New York, May 18.—Nate Lewis, on behalf of Charley White, today agreed to the terms of the South American promoters for a twenty round bout between White and Welsh, to take place in Buenos Aires the middle of July. Billy Gibson, representing the promoters, agreed to post 50 per cent. of White's guarantee in New York, the balance to be posted with the referee in Buenos Aires one week before the bout. Besides the purse White is to receive $1,000 extra for training expenses and three round trip tickets from Chicago.

Should the promoters for some unforeseen reason be unable to pull off the contest, they agree to forfeit the amount they have posted in America to White. Welsh's contract contains the same stipulations, and was satisfactory to him and his manager, Harry Pollok.

Gibson was agreed upon by all parties concerned as stakeholder. The South Americans agreed to post their money, which will amount to $17,000, by May 28. Part of this money goes as a forfeit for Jack Britton and Ted Lewis, who were matched to box today at the same carnival.

Moving pictures will be taken of the White-Welsh match and the promoters have allowed the boxers a 50 per cent interest. White and Welsh also were offered several lucrative theatrical offers, the same to begin with their arrival on South American soil. The fighters will sail June 17.

Lewis, White's manager, will leave for Chicago tomorrow morning to prepare White for two contests before sailing. He meets Milburn Saylor May 25 at Cincinnati and Ritchie Mitchell on May 29 at Milwaukee.

WISH CATHOLIC BOYS' HOME.

Lafayette Workers Begin Movement to Obtain Proposed Institution.

Lafayette, Ind., May 18.—Lafayette has begun an active campaign to obtain the Father Gibault Home for Catholic Boys, an institution the Knights of Columbus will found in the state. Final action on the proposition was taken at the fifteenth annual state convention of the order here last week and Lafayette is being considered seriously as the location. About fifty acres will be needed for the home. The Knights of Columbus are to have the support of Catholics throughout the state and the institution probably will be under the direction of Bishops Chartrand and Alerding, of the Indianapolis and Fort Wayne dioceses. Stephen A. Callahan, of Fort Wayne, is the chairman of the commission which has charge of the project, and the other members are William J. Mooney, Indianapolis, and Rev. Father Jansen, of Gary.

Snakes Make Finest of Pets for the Kiddies, Says Snake Apostle

By Kenneth W. Payne.

New York, May 18.—Have you a little reptile in your home?

If not, you ought to grab the next snake you encounter and carry it home for the kiddies to play with! So says Allen Samuel Williams, apostle of serpents.

Williams once took 500 snakes into his house to live with him. Having learned all about them, he is traveling over the country with a suit case full of reptiles and converting boys and girls at the rate of several thousand a year into snake lovers.

"Of all wild creatures the easiest to tame and adapt to home companionship is the snake," says Williams, who has an office in the Metropolitan tower from where he will soon start on his annual tour to hundreds of summer camps to lecture to boys and girls. Williams is devoting his life to fighting the fear and hatred of snakes.

"Snakes and little children get along beautifully together. If fear and hate of reptiles were instinctive, children and women, most subject to such influences, would have the most uncontrollable panic when confronted with the creatures. But contrary to all common belief, I have found girls and women are much less afraid of snakes than men."

"On the entire north American continent there are only two families and four species of venomous snakes. East of the Mississippi and north of the Potomac there are about a score of absolutely harmless snakes to two kinds that can hurt humans."

"So there is little reason for the hysterical clubbing to death of every snake that crosses your path."

"Once you have learned the simple means of distinguishing the four poisonous species, the sport of collecting snakes becomes fascinating and is without risk."

"Any snake will bite, but only with his food teeth, which are as fine as fishbones, and make only a little puncture or scratch. Since the snake swallows his food whole, there is no decaying matter caught in his teeth, and when he does bite, you needn't even use peroxide on the scratch."

"Snakes are nervous creatures, and feel quickly whether they are being handled by a person who fears or who understands them."

"The common black snake is the most highly nervous while the python is said to be the most intelligent, but because of its limited means of expression, the

"It serves as a tongue, as a feeling for use when the snake is bled during the time his skin is scaling off, and lastly as his ears. It cannot hurt you any more than any other part of the snake's body."

PREPAREDNESS PARADE IDEA SWEEPING OVER NATION; MILLIONS TO MARCH.

Plans are being made in cities in all parts of the country for holding preparedness parades, on the order of the New York parade, pictured above, as an indication that the preparedness demonstration idea is sweeping the nation.

The first preparedness parade was held in Cleveland, Washington's birthday.

One hundred and fifty thousand men and women took part in the New York parade. It took the marchers 13 hours to pass a given point. The picture, taken from a skyscraper, shows the marchers in a human river in Fifth avenue.

It is predicted that a similar parade in Chicago would call out nearly as many persons as took part in the New York demonstration. Parades in other large cities would call out about 100,000 in each case and with parades in smaller cities millions would march to demonstrate their patriotic spirit and desire for national preparedness.

SIMPLE HOME TREATMENT REDUCES SWOLLEN VEINS

Swollen veins are dangerous and often burst. Sufferers are advised to get an original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any pharmacist and start to reduce the veins and bunched at once.

Physicians recommend Emerald Oil; it is used in hospital practice and a small bottle will last a long time, because it is very concentrated. Apply night and morning with the soft brush as directed until the swelling is reduced to normal.

It is so marvelously powerful that swollen glands, and even goitre disappear when used steadily. Meyer Drug Co. is selling lots of it for 50 cents.

SHRINERS HOPE TO SET A NEW RECORD

Convention in July Will Take 100,000 Visitors to Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 13.—Arrangements are being made for the holding of the annual convention of the imperial council of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine in this city, July 11, 12 and 13, and it is announced that unusual efforts are being made to set a new record this year for assemblages of this character. It is estimated that the convention will bring to Buffalo close to a hundred thousand persons.

J. Putnam Stevens, imperial potentate, of Portland, Me., has just completed a tour of the southern and Pacific states and the Hawaiian islands, devoted to urging the temples he visited to send large delegations to the 1916 Mecca. Buffalo has pledged $100,000 for the entertainment of the visitors. Many of the special trains in which the nobles will make the pilgrimage will be luxuriously fitted out. One California temple is spending $75,000 on its trip. The Chicago Shriner has engaged the largest passenger steamer on the Great Lakes for the water trip to Buffalo and are putting $40,000 into their excursion.

Among the amusement features planned is a national airplane race scheduled to open here July 12. Negotiations are under way to remove, if possible, the Canadian government's objection to visitors at the Fort Niagara camp, so that the shriners may be accorded the privilege of seeing the Overseas regiments at training.

Dyspeptics Should Avoid Drugs And Medicines

Try a Little Magnesia Instead.

Some people instinctively shut their eyes to danger, and it may be that instinct or custom or habit cause dyspeptics to take drugs, patent foods and medicines, artificial digestants, etc.

But closing the eyes does not banish the danger, and it is certain that neither drugs nor medicines possess the power to destroy the harmful excessive acid in the stomach, which is the underlying cause of most forms of indigestion and dyspepsia. They may give temporary relief, but ever increasing quantities must be taken, and all the time the acid remains in the stomach as dangerous as ever.

Physicians know this and that is why their advice so often to sufferers from digestive and stomach trouble is "Just get about an ounce of pure bisaturated magnesia from your druggist and take a teaspoonful in a little water immediately after every meal. This will instantly neutralize the harmful acid in the stomach and stop all food fermentation, thus enabling you to enjoy hearty meals without experiencing the least pain or unpleasantness afterward."

TODAY'S BEAUTY HELP

You can keep your hair at its very best by washing it with this simple, expensive shampoo, which cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all the dandruff and dirt and leaves a clean, wholesome feeling. Just use a teaspoonful of caustic dissolved in a cup of hot water, afterwards rinsing thoroughly with clean water. One finds that the hair dries quickly and evenly, is unstreaked, bright, soft and fluffy, so fluffy in fact that it looks more abundant than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. All scalp irritation will disappear and the hair will be brighter than ever before.—Advertisement.

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. RELIGION, TEMPERANCE AND HEALTH

What the King of Glory Did for Jimmy Smith

Jimmy Smith in 1862 was the terror of his regiment. He could cause his officers more trouble to the square inch, could drink the most whiskey, swear the loudest, and fight the hardest of any man in his company.

One day quite a number of new recruits came to the regiment, among whom was a Methodist class leader. One of the first things this Methodist leader did upon reaching camp was to organize a prayer meeting. And one of the first things that Jimmy Smith did upon hearing of this innovation was to resolve to break it up. With this purpose in view he called to his assistance two boon companions and started for the prayer tent to put this resolution into execution. The plan was to turn over a rail fence upon the praying band. Reaching the place of prayer, Smith and his companions were arrested by the sound of the leader's voice in earnest supplication.

"O God," said the voice, "these men, boys, who, although far from home, are not so far away as to be beyond the reach of mother's love, and of mother's prayers which still go up to them at morning, noon and night, beneath the roof of the old childhood home. Some of the boys' fathers have fallen pretty low in morals and habits, but mother loves them just the same, and prays on, and hopes. O God, we beseech Thee, save them everyone."

"Boys!" said Jimmy Smith, a great lump rising in his throat, "I guess we had better put off this job for another night."

And they went quietly back to their quarters, and the little company prayed on and never thought of danger thus so near.

Strange to say, Jimmy Smith passed a restless night. As he would drop into a fitful sleep, he would dream of mother and hear again that prayer, and then it would come to him how changed a man he was from what he used to be; for he had been quite a man at home, but here he was mostly called "drunken Jim" and "rowdy Smith." He awoke the next morning with such depression on him that he felt he must have drunk at once to drown his conscience and release him from his misery. Now the commissary of the regiment had been forbidden to sell him liquor of any kind, and the only way he could obtain it was by getting a pass and going to Alexandria and purchasing it. He accordingly went to his captain and asked for a pass, and was refused. After a little he went again, and the captain seeing that he was depressed in spirits and seemed quite anxious to go, said to him:

"Smith, there is one thing I can say in your favor—you have always kept your word with me, and if you will promise not to touch a drop of liquor while absent from camp I will give you a pass."

Jimmy at first refused to comply with the terms, but the desire to get away from his companions became so strong that he finally made the promise, received his pass, and started for the city.

After getting a little way beyond the limits of the encampment there seemed to be two voices whispering in his ears. One voice said, "Get gloriously drunk, Jim; drown care; break your promise; have one more old rollicking day." The other voice said, "Go into the woods, Jim; make an effort to be a man; talk with God; remember mother and home." He turned into a wood, and sitting down beneath the shade of a tree, the voice whispered, "Kneel and pray, pray loud." A squirrel fluttering about caused a moment's hesitation, and then Jimmy Smith knelt and poured out his soul to God in confession of sin, in cries for help in his time of need, and for faith to believe the promises. And help came, and Jimmy rose to his feet a saved man.

He hastened back to camp to tell his captain of the change that had come to him, but not finding him in, went to the first lieutenant's tent, who was a Christian, and who said to Jimmy as soon as he saw him, "Smith, you are a converted man."

"I am," said Smith, "and I wish you to aid me with your prayers, that I may let my life speak well for God as my old life has for Satan."

Time went on—the terrible war closed—peace, sweet peace, came to heal the wounds that years of cruel strife had made. In the meantime Jimmy Smith had been called of God and set apart by the church for the office and work of the ministry, and had done good work in the Master's cause. God so stamped His image on Jimmy's face that the people seemed at sight to tell that he was an ambassador for Christ. The tones of his voice touched the tender chords of hearts, and the clasp of his hand was warm and helpful. Going on one occasion to talk with the workmen of a large foundry, the men excused themselves from shaking hands because they were so soiled. Jimmy then rubbed his hand upon an apron until it looked like theirs, and then none refused to shake and thus he won their hands and hearts.

But Jimmy Smith had never forgotten the owner of the voice that offered that prayer which had resulted in his reformation, and it so happened one summer day he came to the place where the class leader lived, and held a series of revival services. Of course, one of his first inquiries was for the man who had been so great a help to him, and he was grieved to learn that the man was now himself a perfect wreck. Trouble and loss had come to him, and in a weak hour he had taken to drink and was now a poor backslidden man. Then Jimmy resolved to try and do for that man what he had done for him. But the man avoided him, and managed to keep out of sight. When he called where he lived, he had just gone out, and when he visited places where he was usually found, he was not there. Then, in despair, Jimmy asked God to send the man to him, and God did so.

One night, soon after his having left the matter with the Lord, as he got up to preach he spied his man way back in the farthest corner of the church, and he knew him, notwithstanding all the change that time and sin had made. He knew him because he loved him, and it was love that revealed him to him. He had arisen to announce his text, but beholding the answer to his prayer, he commenced immediately to tell, as he had never told before, the story of his conversion, and as he talked the people wept. Suddenly the speaker stopped, and seemed to offer a silent prayer, and then speaking to the audience, said:

"Friends, the man whose prayer and influence did so much for me in the years gone by—in this house tonight, and I feel I can go on with this service until he comes forward and gives me a shake of his hand."

And the man came forward, and great was the astonishment of the people when they saw who it was, and great was their rejoicing too, when the man said as he still wept:

"Brother Smith, I give not only my hand to you, but I also give my heart once more to God, and by His help will never fall from grace again."

Then a great hallelujah went up from the congregation, and after a while new shouts of victory followed; several others found the Lord that very night.

Prayer and Power

If you want your spiritual life to be more healthy and vigorous, you must just come more boldly to the throne of grace. The secret of your weakness is your little faith and little prayer. The fountain is unsealed, but you only sip a few drops. The bread of life is before you, yet you only eat a few crumbs. The treasury of heaven is open, but you only take a few pence.

O man of little faith, wherefore do you doubt? Come boldly to the throne of grace, where the Father is ever waiting to give and Jesus stands by Him to intercede. Come boldly, for you may, all sinful as you are, if you come in the name of the great High Priest.

Come boldly and ask largely, and you shall have abundant answers, mercy like a river, and grace and strength like a mighty stream.

Come boldly, and you shall have supplies exceeding all you can ask or think. Hitherto, you have asked nothing; ask and receive, that your joy may be full.—Bishop Ryle.

WHEN THEY ARE DECEIVED

When the shepherd in Scotland was asked if his sheep would follow the voice of a stranger, he replied: "Yes, when they are sick; but never when they are well. A sick sheep will follow anybody." Just so long as a Christian keeps himself in a healthy condition by feeding on God's Word and by exercising in his fields of activity there will be little danger of his going off after the "faddists" and false teachers of his age. It is when his ears become diseased—when he has contracted ear-itch—that he becomes restless and dissatisfied with his Master.

After the aim, or main purpose, of life is fixed, the character begins to build. If the purpose is a high one, the ambitious boy will attain his ends much more quickly by knowing how best to use the means at his command. There is one powerful aid that should be seized at the very outset. It will work for you early and late, never tiring, never varying, and only stop when life ceases. It is easy to enlist in its behalf, either for good or evil, and it is as hard to shake off, if you conclude at any time you have had enough of it. What is it? Habit.

Habit is aptitude from frequent repetition. Think a moment how few of your actions result from actual exertion of will; how many from mere momentum. Apply this to your speech, your work, your manners, your gait, your temper, your thinking, your study, your self-control. We make a groove, generally with no thought or plan, and then three-fourths of our real life is run through it. How important it is.

Steel Magnate's Recipe for Success

Charles M. Schwab is pretty busy these days, but not so busy he cannot spare time to tell young America how to succeed.

The chairman of the Bethlehem Steel corporation talked to the Aldine club in New York, recently, about business and gave the young men and women of America his favorite recipes—ones he tried himself—for "getting on."

Schwab, who is 54, began "getting on" when he was hired as a stakeholder in the engineering corps of the Carnegie Steel Co. Later he was president of the Carnegie company. He has no children to inherit his millions.

SCHWAB'S SUCCESS TIPS

Be square. Don't lie to cover up business mistakes.

A college education is desirable, but not necessary.

The survival of the fittest is a law of business.

When women marry they should transfer their activities to their homes.

Business is looking for young men who can produce something.

The man with brains is a success no matter how much of little money he has. He knows how to live.

Brains is a bigger asset than cash.

Some people are born with personality—but it may be cultivated.

I am not working for money; I haven't any children to work for. I am working for love of work.

There is no room in the business world for the snob.

Never in the history of the world were there such opportunities for young men as today.

Profit-sharing with the productive workers is coming to settle the labor question.

Whose is It?—Mine, or God's?

To whom does it belong—this money I have inherited, this salary I am earning, this house I am building, these savings I have in the bank? I say my house, my bank account, my property, my salary, my clothes, my books, my education; but is it really mine? Who owns it—this wealth, this power, this influence?

"You do, of course," laughs the world.

"God does," asserts the Bible.

It's queer, isn't it, that after all the centuries of reading the Bible the church has made so little of property as a religious question? For the Bible is full of it.

Story and proverb and poem, legislation and parable and exhortation—all unite to emphasize God's sole ownership of earth and heaven. Through long centuries of painful training the children of Israel were taught to take the first fruit from the garden, the choicest lamb of the flock, the tenth of all the increase, as a token that they and all theirs belonged alike to God, the giver and owner of all. The tithe, the free-will offering, the gift at feast days and fast days were only so many reminders of funds held in trust.

The New Testament is not less startling in its emphasis of man's stewardship and God's ownership. Jesus' parable of the talents and his picture of the judgment agree in this: that they weigh the questions of acquisition and expenditure with the issues of life and death.

Whose is it? If it is mine, I may use it to please myself, and it is nobody's business but my own; but if it is God's I must give an account to the owner for every penny.

Picking Out Good Men

"There goes a man who is doing his share toward elevating this old world," said one. "Some great preacher," asked the other. "No, just an everyday, successful business man, but he has the secret of living on the heights right in the press of business life. One day I complimented him upon his ability to pick out such a fine lot of men for his office help. He smiled at me a moment, seemed to hesitate over the thought in his mind, and then spoke it out: 'Yes, Davis,' he said quietly, 'I have as fine a lot of helpers as any one ever saw. But one of them came straight here from a jail term. Another once forged my name. A third could not keep sober for a week when I first took him. Oh, you need not look alarmed. They are all as straight as strings now.' It's a great game, Davis, a game I believe God put us here to play for all it is worth. Then he went on talking blissfully as if nothing had happened. But something fine had happened. He had proved the practicability of serving God quietly and in the everyday walks of life."

MY SON

I was told once of an old man in a Yorkshire village, whose son had been a sore grief to him. One day a neighbor inquired how he was doing. "Oh, very bad," was the answer. "He has been drinking again, and behaving very rough." "Dear, dear," said the neighbor, "if he was my son I would turn him out." "Yes," returned the father, "and so would I if he was yours. But, you see, he is not yours, he's mine."

HEALTH FIRST

Educators are awakening to the fact that there is little use in drilling the school child in the three R's unless a fourth R is added—an R that stands for Right-living.

It is self-evident that the mental development of the child cannot be secured through education unless it has sufficient physical vigor to perform the acts required by the educative process. A rather exacting process in this present day.

Nature is concerned first of all in maintaining life, and demands that the energy of the child be directed primarily to that end. The normal child is endowed with more energy or vigor than is required for nutrition and growth.

This "factor of safety" may be regarded as the margin to be utilized by the school for intellectual development.

If vigor be deficient on account of inadequate nutrition, imperfect breathing due to adenoids, constant combating of germ poisons from infected tonsils or decayed teeth, there is less margin to be utilized in getting "education."

The margin of physical vigor in excess of bodily needs is the capital which the child has to invest in education.

It is the first business of the school to see that this capital is as large as possible.

The school therefore, should give primary attention to the health of the children, not only for the sake of health itself, but also to the end that education may be more effective.

Bathing is necessary, first of all, to remove dirt from outside and to wash off the waste materials deposited on the skin by the evaporation of perspiration, which soon produces an unpleasant body smell if not removed.

Bathing also has an important influence upon the heat regulating machinery of the skin.

Warm baths increase the size of the blood vessels in the skin and draw the blood from the brain, making one feel comfortably sleepy. This is why a warm bath is best taken at bedtime.

A cold bath, on the other hand, contracts the skin blood vessels and by driving the blood to the brain makes one feel keen and alert. Cold bathing is a powerful tonic to the skin since it trains the blood vessels to respond quickly to changes in temperatures.

People who can stand cold baths regularly are likely to be harder and much less subject to colds than others.

In the matter of bathing, however, it must be remembered that the body should be stimulated by cold but not chilled too much. A cold bath should be followed by a reaction, the blood vessels of the skin enlarging again and the skin becoming warm and glowing.

Brisk rubbing with a towel helps to secure this reaction. If no reaction follows, the bath was too cold or too prolonged.

Efficiency is the crying need of the public today and tuberculosis, a preventable disease, is one of the greatest drawbacks to efficiency.

Although physicians have long known of the enormous value of fresh air in maintaining health, the surpassing importance of fresh air is still not realized by the large majority of people.

It is rare to find the air of offices and workshops as fresh as it should be; and this is sometimes the case when the rooms are not overcrowded as measured by accepted standards.

The evil effects of insufficient fresh air are strikingly seen when large assemblages of people gather in a poorly ventilated hall. People become tired, languid, drowsy and bored.

It is generally agreed that the temperature of the workroom should not usually exceed 65 degrees Fahrenheit, and that the humidity should not be over 50 per cent of the saturation point.

In order to maintain these conditions, it is frequently necessary to exhaust the warm, foul air from the workroom by means of fans, in addition to supplying an abundance of fresh air.

The simplest and surest way to accomplish the latter is to constantly keep the shop windows open and let the fresh air from the outside come in.

Don't wait to appreciate your health until after you have squandered it.

One of the most frequent and dangerous after-effects of measles is acute inflammation of the middle ear with or without the formation of an abscess.

Fortunately, not every case of measles develops this trouble, which in former years was little considered, but today is regarded as serious.

The complication may occur at any stage of the disease, but is most frequent after the catarrhal symptoms are pronounced, such as running of the eyes and nose with sore throat and cough.

It is produced by the mucus being driven up the Eustachian tube to the middle ear by forcibly blowing the nose, by using nasal douches or by natural extension of the catarrhal process into the ear. The first sign is earache or a pain in the ear.

Medical experience has shown that relief can only be obtained by puncturing the membrane of the ear drum.

In a great many cases the ear drum ruptures before a physician is called. It is best, therefore, to take every child suffering from a running ear to a specialist.

Do you know that—some men are old at 45, others are young at 70? It is not so much a question of the calendar as it is a matter of right living that determines old age and the period of usefulness.

Shall Never Die.

"Shall never die." Wonderful words to be spoken beside the grave at which weeping friends are gathered. The family bond has been broken, and that from which the spirit has fled is given back to the earth that it may return to its kindred dust. But he who speaks is the Lord of life and death. In his infinite love He draws aside the veil and reveals the great mystery of life. "Whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die." We are living in the lower sphere; we are bounded by the limitations which belong to it. Jesus reveals to us the true nature of both life and death. Life is not limited and bounded by death; it belongs to the eternal years. Death is not the master of man, commanding him back into his grave and unto the darkness and silence of the unseen, into which hope peers with dim and clouded eyes. The Lord of life stands by the grave and declares that in Him there is immortality. He is the life and whosoever believes in Him receives from Him of His own immortal nature. Over this death has no power. It cannot dissolve the relation of the soul to Christ. Its mission is simply to remove the limitations on life, to crumble into dust that which for a time served as a dwelling-place for the spirit, and give it freedom to enter into the fullness of life with God.

"Whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die," and he who speaks the words, to seal their truth, called back the spirit to its earthly tenement for a little longer that joy might fill the home and give faith the victory, and later himself went under the power of the spirit.

WHY DO WE SHRINK?

From one cause or another we shrink from the responsibility of avowing our deepest convictions. Partly it is from the fear of ostentation and singularity, partly from self-distrust and sincere humility, partly from more unworthy motives. But from whatever cause it may be, by so doing we wrong our friends.—B. E. Westcott.

WHY SHE FELL

Slipping away from God is caused by not drawing close to him. A little girl fell out of bed. When asked why, she replied, "I went to sleep too near the place I got in."

MY MITHER

Ah! dinna chide the mither!
Ye may no hae her lang;
Her voice, abune your baby rest,
Sae softly crooned the sang;
She thought ye never a burden,
She greeted ye wi' joy.
An' heart an' hand in carin' ye,
Found still their dear employ.
Her hand has lost its cunning,
It's tremblin' now and slow,
But her heart is leal and lovin',
As it was lang ago!
An' though her strength may wither,
An' faint her pulses beat,
Nane will be like the mither
Sae steadfast, true an' sweet.
—Margaret Sangster, The Ladies Magazine.

EXAMPLES OF MEN WHO PRAY

Some notable examples of praying men will help us to practice this heavenly ministry of prayer.

Wesley spent two hours a day in prayer, and often more than this. He began at 4 in the morning. One who knew him well says of him: "He thought prayer to be more his business than anything else, and I have seen him come from his closet with a serenity of face next to shining."

John Fletcher stained the walls of his room with the breath of his prayers. Sometimes he would pray all night.

Luther said: "If I fail to spend two hours in prayer each morning, the devil gets the victory through the day." His motto was: "He that has prayed well has studied well."

Bishop Leighton was so much alone with God that he seemed to be in perpetual meditation. Substantially the same was said of Dr. A. J. Gordon.

Bishop Asbury said: "I propose to rise at 4 o'clock as often as I can and spend two hours in prayer and meditation."

Robert Murray McChesney spent from 6 to 8 a. m. and an hour after tea shut in with God.

John Welch, a worthy son-in-law of John Knox, and wonderful preacher, thought the day ill spent if he did not spend eight or ten hours in prayer. His wife would complain when she found him on the ground weeping. He would reply: "Oh, woman, I have the souls of 3,000 to answer for, and I know not how it is with many of them."

It is said of the saintly Payson that he wore the hairwood of his hair into grooves where his knees pressed so often and so long. His biographer says: "His continuing instant in prayer is the most noticeable fact in his history and points out the duty of all who would rival his eminency."

Dr. Adoniram Judson spent several hours a day in prayer. He impressed an empire for Christ and laid the foundations of imperishable granite in the heart of Burma.

John Livingstone preached one sermon in Scotland after a night of prayer and five hundred professed conversion. Michael Roberts, of Wales, preached one thousand decided for Christ. Another mighty Welsh preacher, John Elias, preached one sermon and twenty-five hundred were added to the church.

David said: "Early will I seek thee."

"Thou shalt ever hear my voice."

Christ went to the place of prayer a great while before day.

Let us "give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the Word."—F. H. Seft, in The Evangelical Christian.

Most Desirable Qualities in Tomatoes

There are a large number of sorts of tomatoes, each one possessing some points of merit or difference which distinguish it from all others. These differences enable the intelligent cultivator to select sorts for special purposes, as well as for special soils and climates. The varying demands of the markets and the different soil and climatic conditions presented in the various sections where the tomato is grown can only be satisfied by a variety list as variable as are the con-

THE FARM WATER SUPPLY IS AN IMPORTANT MATTER

A Pure Water Supply is One of the Most Important Factors in Farm Life Today—Without This, the Health of the Family is in Danger, However Attractive and Well Arranged the Farm and Farm House May Be in Every Other Respect—This is Something That Should Not Be Postponed to a Time When Other Matters Do Not Press For Attention, But Should Be Considered Promptly.

Farm water supplies may be divided into three classes, which in the order of their liability to pollution are surface supplies, shallow underground supplies, and deep underground supplies. The surface supplies are obtained from streams, ponds, reservoirs and cisterns; both shallow and deep underground supplies are obtained from dug, bored, driven, or drilled wells, and from springs.

Surface-water supplies should not be used for household purposes or for washing milk cans. They should not even be used for laundry purposes unless no other supply is available. Rain water from the roof is often polluted by dust, leaves, and the droppings from birds. Any person who drinks water from surface supplies endangers his health if such supplies are not adequately protected and then purified.

Where underground waters are hard to obtain, cisterns may be used where the store of rain water and surface supplies will be filtered and partially purified.

The cistern should be of water-tight construction, to prevent leakage and to prevent pollution from the neighboring soil. It should have an overflow drain and a tight cover. There should also be suitable provision for straining or filtering the water previous to its entrance to the cistern.

Unpolluted springs are, as a rule, good sources of water supply, since the water usually comes from great depths within the rock or is filtered through many layers of sand and gravel. However, springs are subject to pollution from the same sources as wells, and should be closely watched in this respect. Farm spring supplies are often polluted by the drainage from buildings and stock pens. Spring water supplies from limestone are also subject to pollution from distant garbage and sewage dumped in sink holes. The same precautions should be taken for safeguarding spring supplies as in the case of wells, and in addition the spring should always be fenced to keep out stock.

After a pure water supply has been made available for the farm home the quantity of water needed must be considered. A suitable pumping equipment must be chosen, and then a satisfactory means for distributing and storing the water must be provided.

There are three general systems of storage and distribution which may be readily applied to farm conditions: the gravity, pneumatic, and auto-pneumatic systems.

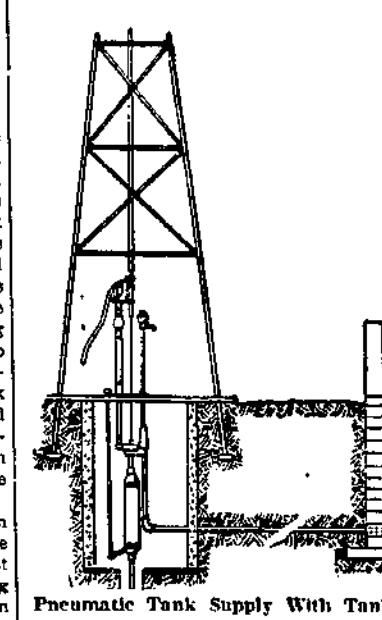

In the gravity system water is forced into the elevated tank placed higher than the highest discharge cock. A storage tank may be placed in the attic, on the roof, or on a tower outside. The agricultural experiment station at Ames, Iowa, has designed a site with a storage tank placed on top. Since there is considerable frictional resistance to the flow of water through the distribution pipes, the tank should be placed at least ten feet higher than the highest discharge cock to insure a flow under pressure.

Water weighs 62.5 pounds per cubic foot or about 8.4 pounds per gallon, so that in placing a tank in the attic or on the roof the supports should be made sufficiently strong to uphold this weight.

Either wooden or galvanized metal tanks may be used. Wooden tanks may be obtained of almost any size, either circular or rectangular in shape. They are generally built of bottom and not on that part of the stove which projects below.

The capacities of circular tanks may be found by the following: Capacity in gallons equals diameter in feet, squared, multiplied by 0.7854, multiplied by the depth in feet, multiplied by 7.48. One cubic foot equals 7.48 gallons. When located in buildings wooden tanks are commonly made rectangular. They may be lined with tinned copper, but never with lead. To obviate the use of heavy planking, rods are used to rigidly tie together the end and side braces.

The pneumatic tank system consists of a force pump, an air-tight steel tank, necessary pipe, valves, fittings, etc., and power for operating the pump. The system may be a small one operated by hand, windmill, or small engine, or it may consist of a large pump operated by a powerful engine with two or more tanks of large capacity.

The tank may be placed in the basement or underground, thus keeping the water cool and preventing freezing. In the operation of the pneumatic system water is forced into the air-tight tank, thus compressing the air into a smaller space and creating an air pressure which forces the water to the discharge cocks.

In determining the capacity of the tank, it is necessary that about one-third of the computed storage capacity be added to provide space for the compressed air.

In the auto-pneumatic system the water is delivered fresh from the well to the faucets. This system consists essentially of an air compressor driven by a small gas engine or electric motor, an air-tight steel air-pressure tank, and one or more auto-pneumatic pumps. No water tank is required, since nothing is stored, but compressed air. The pump consists of two small metallic chambers submerged in the water, and when a faucet is opened they automatically fill and discharge, owing to the air pressure from the storage tank, thus giving a continuous flow of fresh water.

The auto-pneumatic pump can be used in wells, springs, or lakes where the water is free from sand and mud and does not have to be lifted more than one hundred feet or where the working pressure does not exceed 65 pounds.

KOHL-RABI.

Considering all its qualities, it seems strange that kohlrabi is so little known. It has been likened to a sort of turnip-rooted cabbage, which forms a large ball on the surface of the ground. But to be exact, the ball is not a root, but an enlargement of the stem; it is the part that is used for food. Kohlrabi is much used in Europe and its merits are slowly becoming recognized here. Although quite different in flavor, it may be used in place of the turnip, and, in sections where the turnip does not succeed, it will usually be found that the kohlrabi grows on in spite of heat.

The Culture of Leeks is Increasing

The leek belongs to the onion family, and is used mostly as a flavoring for soups. Well grown leeks have a very agreeable, and not very strong onion flavor. The leek is of the easiest culture, and is usually grown as a second crop, to follow beets, early peas, and other large vegetables. In form it is a hardy, flat-leaved, bulbous perennial. The blanched stems and bulb are used in cooking for seasoning in the same manner as the onion.

The leek has not, in the past, been much cultivated in this country except near large cities and where there is a considerable foreign population, but of late years its value is becoming more generally appreciated and now most gardens contain, at least, a few plants.

The seed should be sown in a seed bed in late April or early May and the seedlings transplanted to the garden in June or July when they should be 5 or 6 inches tall. At this time the tops should be cut back half and the plants set deep twelve to fifteen inches apart and six to nine inches asunder. The reason for setting the plants so deep is that the neck and lower part of the leaves are to be used in a blanched condition. The soil may be drawn toward the plants in cultivating to further the blanching. One ounce of seed is used to one hundred feet of drill.

Being very hardy, the plants may be dug in late fall, and stored in the same manner as celery, in trenches or in a cool root cellar.

As the mild flavor and excellent seasoning qualities of this vegetable are beginning to be more generally known, the demand is increasing and it may now be found on all the vegetable stands of cities.

INSECT DESTROYERS.

It has been conservatively estimated that the food of the average young bird while in the nest amounts to four times the bird's weight, each day. In the case of those species which subsist entirely upon insects the good they do is absolutely incalculable.

ditions. It is fortunate that domesticated plants present so many different forms, otherwise the cultivation of many crops would be restricted to a few favored localities. Besides broadening the field to which the tomato is adapted, varieties present other important differences manifested chiefly in the fruit.

Early ripening sorts are frequently irregular in shape, have comparatively thin walls, large seed cavities, and numerous seeds. The fruit is apt to color and ripen unevenly, remaining green around the stem, or to contain a hard, green core. Later-ripening sorts, while not all superior to the others, have as a rule thicker and firmer walls, smaller seed cavities, and few seeds.

The most highly developed varieties now make few seeds and ripen evenly. These characteristics of the fruits are important factors in determining their fitness for special purposes.

Medium-sized, smooth, spherical fruits, which ripen evenly and have small seed cavities and thick walls, are especially suited to long-distance shipment.

Those qualities should enter into every sort selected to the greatest possible degree consistent with earliness, lateness, heavy yields, or any other special quality which gives the variety a marked commercial advantage.

Owing to the fact that in canned tomatoes it is difficult for the average consumer to note any deficiencies in the appearance of the original fruit, many labor under the delusion that any variety will answer for this purpose. This is a mistaken idea, as quality in canned goods is now an important factor, and it is quite as necessary that a good quality of product should be used for canning as for growing for the early or general market, although from the field side it is natural that tonnage should be the primary consideration.

In the matter of varieties, too much dependence should not be placed upon the name or upon the fact that a neighboring farmer secures good results from a given variety. There are so many variations in the character of soils, even in the same locality, which exert an influence upon the size and quality of crops that the best variety is usually one that is in part at least, developed by the individual grower. The main point is to select varieties that produce large, smooth, solid fruits, with thick walls, small seed cavities and few seeds.

CHECK THE PESTS.

Valuable work in the control of orchard insect pests may be accomplished during the winter and early spring. Certain destructive insects are held in check only by spraying during the dormant period of trees when stronger washes may be used than when the trees are in foliage. Many insects of the orchard spend the winter on the trees in the egg, larval, or pupal stage, and their destruction in the course of pruning or other orchard work is practicable and is of much importance in keeping them reduced.

LIVE STOCK HELPS.

The farmer who feeds as much live stock as possible may figure that he is receiving a double remuneration from his crops. First, from the marketing of feeds through live stock; and, second, from the fertilizing substances which are left in the manure. Practically all of the nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash which is in the feeds is recovered in the manure from live stock. All landowners, farmers, and tillers of the soil should always be keenly conscious of this fact, and employ methods of management accordingly.

MODEL FARM, BIG YIELD.

There is a truck farm at the extreme end of Long Island which is attracting notice, on account of the scientific methods employed, and the enormous crops produced. It is the Halyonke Farm, owned by Lucius H. Halyonke, and includes 80 acres of ground. The owner has paid almost no attention to the public, except as his business required it, and has pursued intensive farming out of his passionate love for it. Forty acres of the farm are installed with overhead irrigation, with water from a well on the premises sent sprinkling through iron pipes. Each acre is expected to bear at least two crops during the year. It is not unusual to take 800 bushels of onions from an acre, and at the close of the season to pull 1,200 bushels of carrots from the same ground. Last year the onion yield was from seven to nine hundred bushels to the acre for the entire twenty-five acres planted. The crop sold for an average of much more than a dollar a bushel.

To be satisfactory, a pruning tool must be easily and quickly operated, make a smooth clean cut and not be too expensive.

Docking the Lambs

By H. Hackford, Missouri College of Agriculture.

The lambs that have not already been docked should be attended to at once. If docking is delayed much longer, they will give trouble by laying eggs close to the wounds. The maggots that hatch from these eggs feed on or near the wound and prevent it from healing.

Is docking necessary? Not absolutely, but it is advisable because (1) docked lambs present a more attractive appearance than those with long tails, (2) they bring from 25 to 50 cents more per 100 pounds when marketed, and (3) in case of scours when the flock is turned on grass field will often collect on the tails of the lambs, presenting an ideal place for maggots to live.

In this practice at the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station no bad results from docking have ever been noticed and in no case do the records show any loss in weight due to docking. Strong, healthy lambs can be docked most easily when from two to three weeks old by cutting the tails off about an inch from the body with a good sharp knife. Older lambs will frequently bleed badly if docked with a knife or hatchet. Hot irons are used in order to prevent the loss of blood, which is some cases will be so great as to weaken the lambs and cut down their gain for a week or more. The regular docking iron which can be purchased from any sheep supply house at $1.25 to $1.50 is used for docking the lambs. A hot chisel, no doubt, would be just as successful.

The purpose of the use of the hot iron is to prevent bleeding by thoroughly searing the ends of the blood vessels. The irons should be heated until they are cherry red. If they are too cold, the blood vessels will not be seared thoroughly; or if they are too hot, the tails will be taken off too quickly and some bleeding will frequently occur. An ordinary kerosene lamp is one of the most convenient means of heating the irons, but a portable lamp may be used. Ram lambs that are not to be kept or breeding purposes should always be castrated at docking time. This is not necessary in case of lambs that are to be sold for mutton at the age of three or four months. However, spring lambs that are not marketed until fall are always castrated because they are easier to manage and fatten than ram lambs. This operation should always be performed before flies become troublesome in spring.

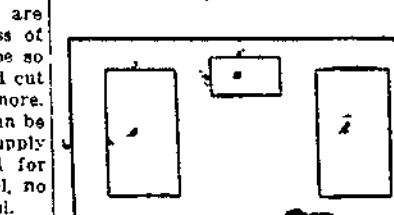

A hard and fast spraying calendar of cherries has not yet been worked out, and perhaps never will be.

PLAIN BUILDINGS OF SIMPLE CONSTRUCTION BEST FOR LAYING HENS

In a great state in the far west, one of the most successful poultry farmers is a woman. She began with common hens of no particular breed, but it was soon found that well-bred fowls pay better than scrubs. So the breeding of pure-bred fowls was begun and is still practiced on this farm.

There are a great many lessons we can learn from this Oregon poultry raiser, but only one will be mentioned in this article and that is the poultry buildings. The houses described are for laying hens only. The breeding pens are similarly constructed, but are not so large, since fewer hens are kept together.

While the poultry houses on this farm are not expensive, they are eminently practical and have been designed with a view to convenience in management, comfort and cleanliness of the fowls, and protection against enemies of all kinds. There are no losses from weasels or other small animals, for these pests of the poultryman are completely fenced out of the laying, breeding and brooder houses.

The houses for the laying pens cost about $1 per hen.

A building 128 feet long and 19 feet wide is cut into eight rooms 16 by 15 feet and a storeroom for feed 8 by 10 feet. One of the runs on this side extends beyond the end of the building. This arrangement was made necessary by the nature of the space available. In each of the eight compartments with runs attached 30 hens are kept. The floor space in the building is 5 square feet for each hen and in the runs 135 square feet. Some good poultrymen give each hen only 4 square feet within doors, so the allowance in this respect is liberal. Even with 135 square feet of outdoor space for each hen not much of a growth of green stuff can be maintained in the runs, the space being intended more for exercise than for pasture.

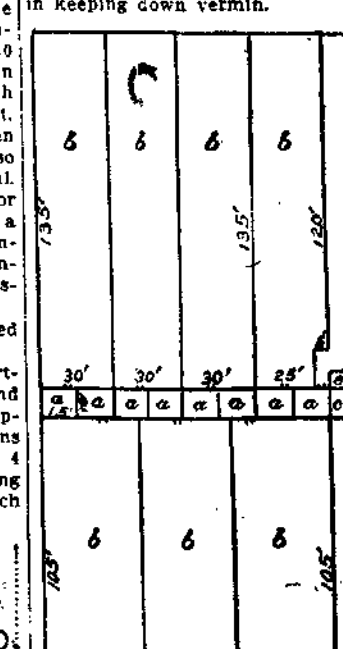

In the end of the building the feed room is located.

Dirt floors are used in the compartments or pens. The self-feeders and the drinking pans are placed in appropriate openings in the partitions between two pens. The doors are 4 feet wide and 6 feet high and swing both ways. The upper half of each door is of chicken wire, the lower half of boards. The two perches are on a level with each other, so that there will be no crowding on the top perch. They are placed 15 inches above the dropping board. The perches do not touch the walls of the room at any point. This is important, as it aids in keeping down vermin.

Plan of Building and Yards.

a. Compartments or pens; 10x15 feet, for 30 hens each. There are 8 pens—the building is 128 feet long. b. Yards or runs, one for each pen. Five of the yards are situated on one side of the building and three on the other c. feed

The perches and nest boxes are supported entirely by suspension from the rafters. The supporting frame does not touch the walls at any point. The hens enter the nests from the rear, where the nest boxes are boarded up only half way. The board on which the boxes rest extends 6 inches beyond the boxes at the rear to form a platform on which the hens alight when they fly up to the nests. The bottom of the nest boxes is 2 feet from the ground.

These houses are not artificially heated at any season of the year. On the coldest nights during the winter the openings (doors, windows, and passageways for hens) are all closed, the ventilation being entirely through the muslin doors and the muslin-covered ventilator. In cold weather the fowls must not be exposed to drafts.

Vermin (mites) are the bane of improperly managed houses. They conceal themselves on the undersurface of the perch, in the corners of nest boxes, under the dropping board, and in crevices wherever convenient to the roosting places of the fowls. In these places of concealment the vermin deposit their eggs. Once every year every possible hiding place for vermin is painted with a coal-tar preparation. This is applied full strength with a brush. The whole inside of the nest boxes is thus painted. This treatment keeps the vermin in subjection.

The dirt floors of the pens are usually covered several inches deep with straw, which is changed about every ten days. In summer the floors are swept clean about once a month; in winter, less often—usually twice during the season.

The interior of these houses is whitewashed once a year, a pint of disinfectant being added to each bucket of whitewash. This aids in keeping down vermin. The fact that the perches and nest boxes are swung from the rafters and nowhere touch the walls prevents mites from hiding in crevices in the walls.

The owner estimates that with houses constructed as these are one man could take care of 1,500 to 2,000 hens.

Front View of Perches, Nest Boxes, Etc.

a. Perch, 15 inches above platform, and 20 inches below rafters, not touching wall at either end; b. hinged shutter to cover front of nest boxes; c. sloping board to facilitate nesting out droppings from platform; d. d. nest boxes, boarded up half way in rear; e. e. supports attached to rafters.

OLD WALNUT IS STILL VALUABLE.

A good idea of the increase in value of the wood products of our farm wood lots is shown in the fact that an old walnut tree that had been blown down and buried in the alluvial sands along one of the western rivers brought over $1500 on the market, though it had to be hauled a considerable distance to the nearest railroad after being sawed into logs.

No man can feed intelligently unless he understands the nature of foods and the requirements of the animals at the different periods of their development.

CARE OF THE INCUBATOR.

After the hatch is over, all shells and bad eggs should be removed and the incubator thoroughly cleaned and disinfected by spraying with creolin. The trays should be scrubbed in the same solution. After disinfection, the machine should be closed up with the heat still running and allowed to steam from the disinfectant spray.

Don't try to get dirt out of milk-keep it in, in the first place.

Exercise must be provided for little chicks and this is accomplished easiest by feeding them in finely cut litter so they must scratch for their food.

EASILY CONTROLLED.

The Kansas Experiment Station is of the opinion that the spring canker worm has killed more apple trees in that state in a single season than the San Jose scale has done since its first introduction. Anything so easy of control as the canker worm should not be allowed to do serious damage. The canker worm is a leaf-eating insect and easily poisoned by spraying.

Horses that are allowed to go to their stalls at night covered with grime and sweat, and are then sent to the field next morning without thorough cleaning will soon go stale.

STRAWBERRY RUNNERS.

Strawberries propagate from runners which take root and are then separated from the parent plant and from each other. If allowed to put out runners the bearing of the plants is more or less curtailed, but on a commercial plantation it is hardly practical to take the time to cut off all runners.

The feeding of the young chicks for the first few weeks is the foundation upon which the future of the flock depends.

The sor bean will stand light frosts without injury.

WORTH KNOWING.

If vegetables have burned in the kettle put in soda and a little water; boil a while and the kettle is easily cleaned.

Sprinkle soda on the grease spots on the floor, then wash in luke warm water and the result is fine.

Soda is good to clean the bowls and tub in the bathroom.

If men were to be judged by the public according to what their wives know of them, what a shrinkage would be.

Pruning back at planting, is as necessary with shrubs as with trees.

A GOOD RATION.

A desirable grain ration for cows when corn and oats are used as a base, is one made up of 300 pounds of corn-and-cob meal, 200 pounds of oats and 100 pounds of cotton-seed meal. Feed this at the rate of one pound for every three pounds of four per cent. milk produced. In addition feed as much legume hay and corn stover as the cows will consume.

Probably only those who are acquainted with tests which have actually been made realize how quickly sunshine kills disease germs exposed to it.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, May 18.—Wheat prices underwent a fresh setback today, influenced by assertions that the general condition of the Kansas crop was not alarming despite big losses in the central and southern sections of the state. Opening prices, which ranged from 11c to 11 1/2c lower, including July at $1.15 1/2 to $1.16 1/2, and September at $1.16 to $1.16 1/2, were followed by a material further decline.
The market closed heavy, 2 1/2c to 3 1/2c net lower, with July at $1.12 1/2, and September at $1.13 1/2.
Corn yielded a little to the influence of wheat weakness.
The close was weak at 1 1/2c to 1 3/4c net decline.
Oats eased off with other grain.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, May 18.—War shares and related issues recorded material gains at the active opening of today's market. Crucible Steel, Mexican Petroleum and the shipping shares rising a point or more with less substantial advances in motor and metals. Reading was the foremost feature early in the trading, at 93 to 93 1/2, and continuing its rise to 94 1/2, a new high quotation. Canadian Pacific and Lehigh Valley were included with the other strong rails. Distilling issues and Harvester figured among the less prominent specialties, with gains of one to two points.
Raids assumed a commanding position later. Reading common and second preferred making new high records on their overnight gains of 3 1/2 and four points to 96 1/2 and 51 1/2, respectively, with an advance of 1 1/2 for the first preferred at 44 1/2. There was a simultaneous rise of a point in Western Maryland, which was assumed to have some bearing upon the movement in Reading. Gains of one to three points also were made by Canadian Pacific, Lehigh Valley, Union Pacific, St. Paul, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Erie and New Haven. Industrials and specialties as a whole supplemented early advances. Steel's gain of a point being accompanied by extraordinarily large dealings. Bonds were firm.
Reading established its best price in the final hour on a further advance to above 95, while other rails, including the southern group, made appreciable gains. The closing was strong.
